Troops Move To Bahamas As Strike Violence Looms

NASSAU, Bahamas (Reuters) Some 150 British infantrymen were flown to this "millionaires' playground" Wednesday as the threat of violence mounted in a general strike called by the Bahamas Federation of Labor.

Tourists, mostly Americans and Canadians, left by the hundreds as the troops of the Worcester-shire Regiment came in on three commercial flights from Jamaica and were held in reserve at police barracks.

Striking Negro workers roamed the streets, holding mass meetings and picketing movie houses. Sabotage was reported in their general strike, begun two days ago.

The strike was touched off by a long-standing dispute between taxi drivers and transportation interests over airport business. But its real cause lies in general political unrest.

The Negroes — nearly 90 per cent of the total resident population of 85,000 — are dissatisfied with the ruling methods of the dominant whites.

Business was at a standstill. However, this city was quiet and no arrests were reported.

POLICE ON GUARD

Police guarded vital points. No public services have been interrupted and electricity has been maintained by engineers and volunteers.

Governor Sir Arthur Raynor, who requested the troops, flew back to Nassau from Eleuthera, another island in the group off the Florida coast.

Carl Livingston, spokesman for the Bahamas Development Board, said some shopkeepers boarded their shops in anticipation of rioting which did not develop.

The strikers include bakery employees, electric workers, garbage collectors, plumbers, construction workers and airport baggage handlers.

The taxi drivers started their strike demanding that four operators cease transporting tourists to and from Windsor Field, the big New airport 10 miles from Nassau. The drivers received $3.50 a trip.

The government appointed a three-man board to arbitrate but taxi leaders claimed the board was loaded against them and refused to meet with it.

OTTAWA JOTTINGS

Cost-Of-Living Spiral Seems To Have Been Halted

By John A. Macdonald, M.P.

On our return from Christmas holidays I suppose all members had the same huge backlog of mail confronting them as the writer had. Shortage of time and stenographic service has made it difficult to catch up with our work till now. Committee meetings, and especially the important Caucus Committee on Agriculture, which I am following closely, have taken up considerable amount of our time. The House has been sitting long hours, including every night and Saturdays, which leaves no time for relaxation. There is still a great deal of work to be done before the business of the House is completed for this Parliament.

FISHERIES ESTIMATES

At the end of the week the Estimates of the Department of Fisheries came before the House. They were extremely well handled by our Cabinet Minister from Prince Edward Island, The Hon. J. Angus MacLean has established a very high reputation in the handling of his Department. It is generally recognized by members of all parties that the new Minister has spent a tremendous amount of time and study on his departmental duties and this is reflected in the high respect in which he is held by all. A number of us, waiting to speak on this measure, were obliged to defer as the debate moved to other matters and will not return to that subject for a week or more.

It was interesting to note from the monthly report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that the cost-of-living index had gone down for the second straight month. This will be welcome news to all and it is urgently hoped that the ever increasing rise in the cost-of-living over the past decade and more has been finally halted. This is necessary if the dangerous and futile spiral of increasing costs-of-living and of wages is to halt and some stability of prices is achieved in our economy.

MORE QUESTIONS

This week Ottawa is more exciting than usual with the Liberal Convention being held at the Coliseum. The political atmosphere in the House has thickened. More questions than ever are being asked of the Government as opposition members strive hard for attention. Normally under past administration the Question Period has run roughly twenty minutes.

In this Parliament the period has occupied at least an hour each day. Questions of all kinds, sincere, frivolous, repetitious, etc. have been offered. The answers sometimes are given in such a manner as to invite supplementary questions and the discussions go on and on. It does afford a number of opposition members a chance to get their names on the record and in the papers.

Some of them pop up in the House, ask a few questions, then when they come back there will be a few more questions and other members realize they are again in the House and their names are again in the papers. Government members naturally ask very few questions as they get their answers verbally or in writing directly from the Ministers, and in view of the excessive time now being taken up they are prudent in taking up as little as possible under the circumstances.

THE LIBERALS

Speculation is running high on the leadership problem in the Liberal Party. One of the important points of the selection of the new leader centers on his attitude towards the policy followed by his party in their trend of passive action to date. Many

Funeral Of Mrs. Mabon Is Held

OTTAWA (CP) — Railway carloadings last year dipped 8.3 per cent below the record figure of 1936, the bureau of statistics reported Monday. Loadings totalled 4,037,381 cars compared with 4,402,830 in 1936 and 4,064,909 in 1935.

Parents Are Shown How They Can Aid Children, Teachers

The regular monthly meeting of the Montague Home and School Association was held at the Memorial School on Monday evening, Jan. 13th, with an excellent attendance.

Mr. John Hughes, principal of Montague High School introduced Mrs. Beecher Hickox, grade 1 teacher, who with her pupils presented a very interesting and unrehearsed demonstration of her work which included arithmetic, reading, and also recreation.

This program afforded an opportunity for the parents to realize how they can help their children with certain problems and also co-operate with the teacher.

Following the program, while refreshments were being served to the children, Mr. Kenneth Norris, in the absence of the principal, conducted a brief business meeting. Mrs. Sandra McEachern read the minutes of the last meeting and gave the financial report.

Says P. C's Have Nothing To Offer

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean Lesage, former resources minister, said Wednesday the Progressive Conservative government "has absolutely nothing to offer" the provinces on fiscal matters.

He charged in a speech before the national Liberal convention that is the reason the government has "postponed indefinitely" the calling of another federal-provincial conference.

Mr. Lesage said the Conservative party may be trying to sabotage in one way or another the "just and fair" formula devised by the former Liberal administration to redistribute national income among all provinces by means of equalization payments.

"I fear that the Tories are preparing to equalize provincial revenues towards the bottom of the scale, rather than towards the top."
