WORDS FOR THE WORLD
 The Cause of Baha'u'llah is the same as the Cause of Christ. Both of these are Spiritual Springtimes and seasons of the soul-refreshing awakening, and the cause of renovation of the life of mankind. The Spring of this year is the same as the spring of last year. The sun of today is the sun of yesterday. Through Christ, the divine teachings were given in accordance with the infancy of the human race. Through Baha'u'llah the same basic principles, but are according to the advanced age of this illumined age.
 From the Sacred Writings of the Baha'i World Faith.

 Rose Valley, P. E. I.
 In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. Preston Buell, who passed away January 7, 1954.
 Oh how you're missed since you are gone,
 Our hearts can never tell,
 The days seem long since you are gone,
 The memory of happy days when we were all together.
 Lovingly remembered by husband and son.
 In loving memory of Mrs. Alfred J. Cairns, Greenfield, (nee Eliza McCarthy) who passed away March 19th, 1952.
 May the good Lord grant you peace and rest
 In the prayer we always pray
 But we are saying it more fervently
 As we think of you today.
 Fondly Remembered and Ever Loved, Your Loving Brothers and Sisters.
 In loving memory of our dear Father,
MR. ROBERT KIRWIN

Parkdale Home And School
 The monthly meeting of the Parkdale Home and School Association was held on Wednesday, March 16 at 8 p.m., in the Parkdale Hall with 25 present.
 Mr. A. McLeod, president, introduced Miss Ruth Ross, District Public Health Nurse, who spoke on the value of the polio immunization clinic in April when the Salk vaccine for polio will be given to the Grade I pupils of P.E.I. She stressed the need for parent consent and that the child receives all three injections. Miss Ross also urged the members to form a health committee to see that all pre-school children of the district were brought in for the diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough inoculations.
 Mrs. H. Archer, program convener, introduced Miss Mona Clay, guidance consultant with the Department of Health and Welfare, whose topic was "Needs for Success." She showed the various factors which affect the child and adults' success. The meaning and interpretation of I.Q. tests was explained, and also the great need to recognize the individual differences in children's rate of learning. Her display of literature in connection with her work was most interesting to the members and also her discussion period.
 During the business session plans were made for obtaining additional books for the school library. Mr. R. MacLean offered various suggestions for the improvement of safety conditions on the highway at school dismissal time which the Association hopes to help put in force. Assistance will be given in the supervision of the Parkdale Youth Club meetings.
 Mr. Millar MacFadyen was elected as an additional director of the Association.
 New members were enrolled and following the Queen, lunch was served.

Thoughts For Our Time

DEMOCRACY NEEDN'T KILL TRADITIONS OF THE PAST
 Profound changes have occurred in western culture in the past few centuries. Spiritual values have been lost ground to material values. Aristocracy has given place to democracy. Technology has rendered the artisan obsolete. Rural life has been devaluated by comparison with urban life.
 These profound cultural changes have not been without their effects in the personal cultural area. Not all of these effects have been good.
 Although a proportionately small number of people within the Western cultural area would overtly deny the existence of a spiritual world and of spiritual values, yet a great number live as if there were no spiritual world and no spiritual values.
 If one asserts the existence of the spiritual world and of spiritual values to which the material world and material values are subservient, then that assertion should be lived in one's daily life. To live what is a preparation, as if it were the fulfillment, cannot be result in distortion.
 What wonder that we are experiencing such widespread unrest, when we live in practical disregard with this dictum of Augustine to which most of us give speculative assent: Our hearts were made for Thee, O God, and will not rest until they rest in Thee.
TOO MUCH LOST
 With the advent of democracy as we understand it, or perhaps, misunderstand it, there have passed from human life in the Western cultural area, certain values which we are retaining and placed in enhanced settings in the new building.
 So, too, when aristocracy, as an outmoded and unserviceable way of life, gave place to democracy—which all recognize as the only suitable way of life for human persons—we should not have destroyed everything of the old. What was good and valuable in the old should have been retained and enhanced in the new.
 One of the unfortunate losses is that of chivalry, a nobility from a yet older way of life. Chivalry is the mode of behavior proper to a knight. In a democracy every man is a knight. Chivalry never took advantage of weakness, or competed on unequal ground. Women, children, the defenseless, were to be defended to the death. No knight could stand by and see oppression of the weak.

 Chivalry was characterized especially by respect and veneration for womanhood. The woman, as the weaker vessel, was entitled to protection from the stronger. The democratic way of life, with its resultant "emancipation" of women, has failed to recognize that in this there was something good, something most appropriate to human nature at its best.
CONTRAST TODAY
 Today women—perhaps it is to some extent their own fault—are competitors with men. Street-car or subway seats are acquired by the first comer, and ordinarily retained by him, despite the fact that there may be women standing in the car.
 Knighthood, or chivalry, could scarcely envision such a situation. There was a time, not long past, when a gentleman raised his hat to a lady for reasons the same or similar to the foregoing. We rejoice that in a democratic society every man is theoretically a gentleman and every woman a lady; but unfortunately we do not all take advantage of the status democracy gives us.

 The maxim: Noblesse oblige has not been operative in the democracy as it was in the supplanted aristocracy. Would we not do well, rejoicing in our due dignity as gentlemen, to give evidence of it in our daily lives, by expressive symbols of reverence for womanhood?
 Not so long ago people greeted each other with greetings suitable to the age, dignity, station of the person greeted. Children revered their elders and addressed them by titles appropriate to their state. Elders greeted each other with expressions capable of carrying symbolic values.
 Current usage has devised forms of greeting which, if allowable for use as between one child and another, are certainly not suitable for use as between one elder and another. Would we not do well to reinstate in our day greetings capable of carrying symbolic values to replace the almost empty forms now used?

 There was a time when sacred things were treated in a sacred way. Relations between persons were purely material and sensual, but always, at the same time spiritual, and hence intellectual and volitional.
 Our entertainment industry consistently promotes notions concerning the nature of love and the communication of spouses which go directly contrary to the realizations held in former times. Who could judge from present-day the mere marquee that love is anything but material and sensual? Would we not do well to reassert the primacy of the spiritual, and hence of the intellectual and volitional nature of the relations between spouses?
 In our transition from older to new ways of life we have gained much that is good, even excellent; but at the same time we have lost much that was good in the older forms, that we need not have lost with the acquisition of the new.

March 20
 Mr. Archie S. Johnstone, Vice-President of the P. E. I. Federation of Agriculture, and a resident of Burlington, P. E. I. is sailing from Halifax on the S. S. Franconia on March 20th for Liverpool, England. Mr. Johnstone will spend over six months as a Nuffield Foundation Scholarship winner studying agriculture in Great Britain and on the continent. Mr. Johnstone is sailing in company with Mr. H. Fred Smith of Manitoba, the winner of a similar scholarship for Western Canada. Mr. Johnstone saw services overseas with the R. C. A. F. and is presently an officer in the reserve Airforce. In addition to being active in farm organization work, Mr. Johnstone is also a member of the Provincial Farm Forum Committee and has been identified with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Kensington. The Burlington Farm Radio Forum, under Mr. Johnstone's leadership, is recognized as one of the outstanding groups of this kind in Canada.

IST TIGNISH COMPANY
 Ist Tignish Company reports an active winter. Mrs. Beth MacLae, Captain tells us about the Company going on a sleigh ride to Kildare. Also on a hike to Montrose where river skating was enjoyed and roasting weiners over a bonfire. This sounds such good fun. To obtain funds for Company needs the Guides are selling candy at the St. Patrick's Play and on Easter Saturday they are selling cookies.

In the middle of nowhere - a hospital
 It may be small. It may lack much in the way of expensive equipment. But to families scattered over Canada's thinly populated areas it becomes "the finest hospital in the world". For it is their one assurance that medical aid will be within reach when needed, even though the nearest doctor may be a hundred miles away.
 Babies are born, the sick nursed, accident victims treated and children's health clinics conducted in these Outpost Hospitals. And from them, Red Cross nurses travel over primitive trails on countless errands of mercy.
 To operate these 82 Outpost Hospitals and Nursing Stations, the Red Cross asks your help.

STRENGTHENS THE HANDS OF THE CHURCH
 By placing the Scriptures in the hands of those in spiritual need—in hotels, motels, hospitals, prisons and other institutions. It also engages in a special ministry of placing a Testament in the hands of members of the Armed Services and helps build young lives by giving Testaments to the school children throughout the land.
