KING COLE TEA
Fragrant and Delicious

NO SLEEP
SLUGGISH?
Here's SURE RELIEF

Get relief from constipation—indigestion. Positive results from FRUIT-A-TIVES proven by tens of thousands. FRUIT-A-TIVES contain extracts of fruits and herbs.

TONIGHT

DRAMA FESTIVAL PLAYOFFS
CHARLOTTETOWN DISTRICT
YORK HALL

TONIGHT

Senior plays from Charlottetown Little Theatre Group, St. Peter's A. Y. P. A. and Saint Paul's A. Y. P. A.
Admission 50c. Curtain 8:15
Captain Briggs of Halifax will adjudicate.

THE NEW "966"
SONOTONE HEARING AID

Is a Six Tube all-in-one Hearing Aid

For Demonstration Consult

MRS. C. F. SMITH
CHARLOTTETOWN HOTEL

Charlottetown, P. E. I.

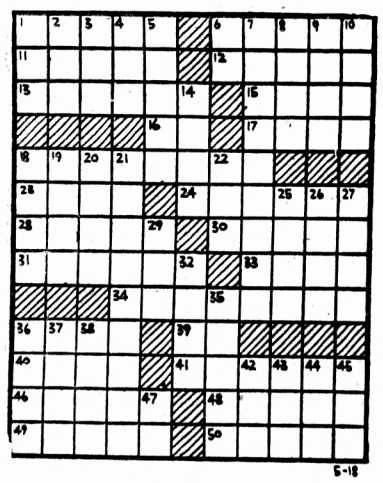
Saturday, May 19th & Monday, May 21st

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. The rose-red ruby spinel
6 Biblical name
11. Choose
12. Leaf of a calyx
13. Asserts
15. Canvas shelter
16. Smallest state (abbr.)
17. Edible root of the taro
18. Hardier
23. Body of water
24. Picnic basket
28. Above
30. Valley of face of moon
31. Stay
33. Organ of smell
34. Shut up, as in a closet
36. A lath
39. Close to
40. Mexican dollar
41. Pays, as a draft
46. On fire
48. Of a nidus
49. Remains
50. Funeral poem

DOWN
1. Egyptian god
2. High (mus.)
3. Marshy meadow
4. Perrorm
5. Severe
6. Lake
7. Resolve
8. Mimicked
9. Particles of stone
10. A singing voice
14. Grieve
18. Box scientifically
19. Lacquered metalware
20. Chamber
21. Of the sense of smell
22. Organ of hearing
25. Scheme
26. Otherwise
27. Bamboolike grass.
29. Sesame
32. Builder of the ark
35. Piece of rock
36. Resorts
37. Opposite of right
38. Largest continent
42. Nothing
43. Poem
44. Large roofing slate
45. Cunning
47. Plural suffix

Yesterday's Answer.



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

M Z Y J N T P C J C J Q Q K T J T H [illegible] Y, C K Q O X P V E J G Y M P H Y S H J C C P M Z Y J N — R J A Q X Q Y.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: MUSIC HATH CHARMS TO SOOTHE A SAVAGE BREAST—CONGREVE.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

A LIFE OR A BREAKFAST

Some carlessness may in a trice,
Cause life itself to pay the price.
—Old Mother Nature.

* * *

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was in a tight place. Never in all his life had he been in a tighter place. It is doubtful if he ever had been in quite as tight a place. And it was all his own fault. He had been in mischief. It always is one's own fault when he gets in trouble through mischief.

Chatterer was where he had no business to be. He was almost up to the nest of Redtail the Hawk in a tall tree deep in the Green Forest. It was all on account of his stomach that Chatterer was in trouble. It is sometimes surprising how often stomachs get folks into trouble. Chatterer suspected that there might be eggs in that big nest, and he just had to find out. Yes, sir, he just had to find out. As he ran up that tree he told himself that should he find eggs there, he wouldn't touch one of them. At the same time he licked his lips, and that was a bad sign.

Whoosh! That was Redtail swooping with outstretched claws.

Of course he had at first made sure that neither Redtail nor Mrs. Redtail was at home. Looking up through the treetops he had seen them circling high in the blue blue sky, so high that they were mere specks. Perhaps he forgot what wonderful eyes the Hawk folk have. Anyway, he took the chance that he wouldn't be seen and started up for that nest. The nearer he got to it the more he thought about eggs and how good they would taste. Thinking about eggs he completely forgot to keep watch. Whoosh! That was Redtail seeming to fall out of the sky. Chatterer dodged around the trunk. Whish! That was Mrs. Redtail seeming to fall out of the sky. Chatterer dodged back again.

Now Redtail and Mrs. Redtail are big birds. They are among the biggest members of the Hawk family. It was astonishing how quickly such big birds could turn. They had checked themselves and turned almost before Chatterer caught his breath. Whoosh! Redtail was back again, and Chatterer dodged.

Whish! That was Mrs. Redtail back again, and again. Chatterer dodged.

Chatterer was a scared squirrel. Yes, sir, he was a scared squirrel and he had reason to be. He was playing the game of life, only it wasn't really a game. If he lost he would lose his life, and either Redtail or Mrs. Redtail would have a breakfast.

Such an exciting time as there was over at that big tree in the Green Forest. Chatterer was ducking and dodging and playing hide-and-seek around the trunk of that tree with those two big Hawks swooping at him, clutching at him and barely missing him with great curved claws. All the time they were screaming with rage and disappointment when they missed him.

Blacky the Crow came hurrying up to sit in a treetop at a safe distance from which he could watch. Blacky was "Cawing" at the top of his lungs to call up his relatives. Sammy Jay was there, flying from tree to tree all around the neighborhood. Sammy was screaming at the top of his lungs. All that noise brought others of the Green Forest Folk. They came running and flying as folks always do when they hear something exciting going on.

Now Chatterer is not loved by his neighbors. No, sir, Chatterer is not loved. In fact he is much disliked. At first some of them were delighted to see him in trouble. But soon they were urging him to do his best. That was because he was so small, and folks almost always are for the smaller one. Also, they all knew that those big Hawks would be delighted to get any one of them for a breakfast, so, they encouraged as best they could.

Whoosh! That was Redtail swooping with outstretched claws. Whish! That was Mrs. Redtail

Continued on page 14

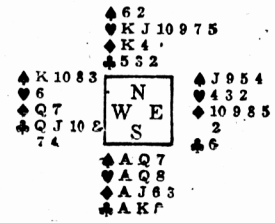
Contract Bridge

By Josephine Culbertson

SOME SQUEEZE PLAYS ARE "MARKED"

The average player is not to be criticized for failing to execute squeeze plays, because most plays of this type require advanced technique. Sometimes, however, the situation is so marked for a squeeze that any player of experience should be able to bring it off. Today's deal falls in that category.

South dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 N T	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
6 N T	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the club queen. Declarer won with the ace and, correctly figuring that it would be would be uncomfortable to discard on the long heart suit at this point, he tried for an extra trick in diamonds tby leading to the king and finessing on the return. It was unfortunate that this finesse lost, particularly to the doubleton queen in West's hand, but the succeeding trick, when West returned a club and East showed out, should have been regarded by the declarer as "compensation." For with this trick it became known that West had his side's only club stopper and that was a point which could be turned to good account.

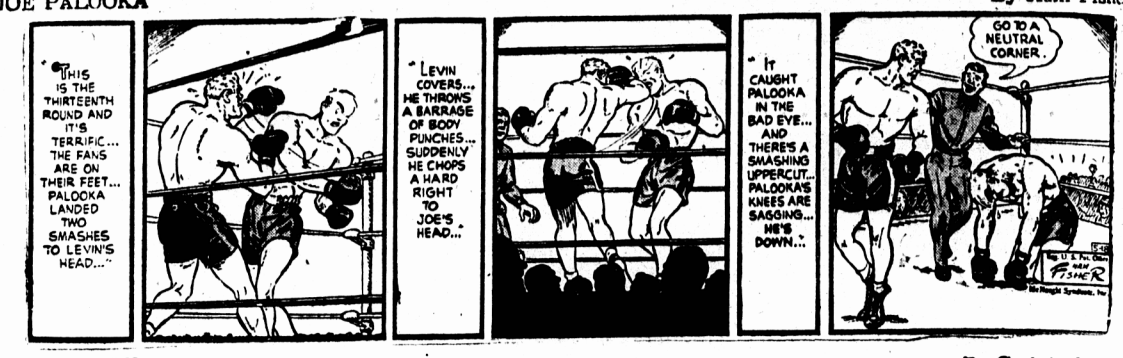
After winning West's club return, South cashed the diamond ace, discarding a spade from dummy. (This was a vital discard; if declarer had let go of dummy's last club, he would have had no chance for the contract.) When West showed out in diamonds, it now became known that East would have to guard that suit.

South now shifted to hearts, running the entire suit. When the last heart was led from dummy, there was still one spade and one club on the board. East, who was forced to hold the high diamond against South's six-spot, reduced his hand to one spade, and, knowing that the diamond six was worthless, declarer threw off that card. Now it was West's turn to feel the pressure. He had to keep a high club against dummy, and so he also could keep only one spade.

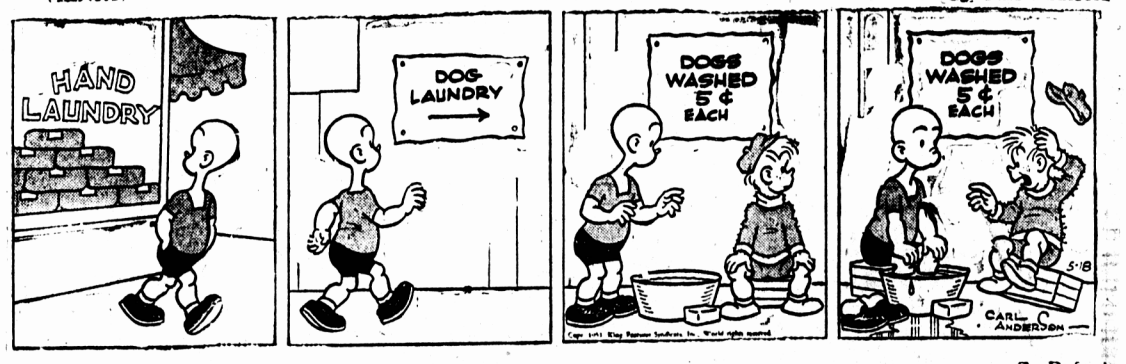
With the situation clearly marked, South led dummy's spade and went right up with the ace—the king had to fall.

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED

JOE PALOOKA By Ham Fisher

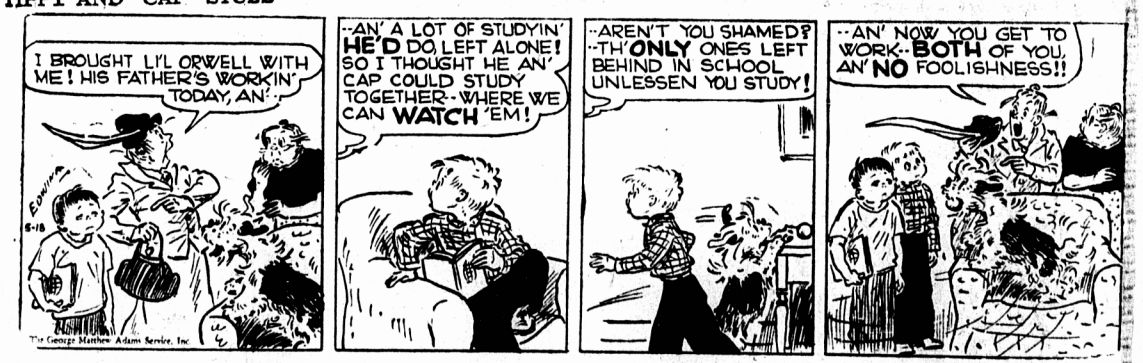


HENRY By Carl Anderson



DOTTY DIPPLE By Ruford

TIPPY AND "CAP" STUBS By Edwina



BRINGING UP FATHER By George McManus

LI'L ABNER By Al Capp

TILLY THE TOILER By Westover

RIP KIRBY By Alex Raymond

PENNY By Harry Haenigsen