MARY HAWORTH

Psychoanalytic Assist Is Needed By Inquirer

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I feel desperately in need of help. I am almost 40 years old, living in fear and dread of another pregnancy at my age.

Besides the fear of my being too old to care for another child, I am not sure I would be even less capable of the responsibility of rearing a teenager in later life.

Also there are medical difficulties that I fear with another pregnancy. But the alternative, of sex abstention in marriage, is making a nervous wreck of me. I feel I can't get through another day. I cry all the time. I can't sleep at night, even pills don't help any more.

My husband thinks we should go out more to get my mind off this worry. But I get so little sleep that the last thing in the world I want to do is go out.

I have studied the books on marriage thoroughly and used the charts, etc., so faithfully, that I am probably better informed than most other doctors. But still I can never establish a dependable fertility cycle. I am in such a nervous state that I can't do my work properly. I can't think straight; and I see no hope for the future. Please advise me, R.L.

DEAR R.L.: The gist of your anxiety, with respect to the only alternative approach—a clinic—spine that your conscience allows—namely, either the rhythm method or sex abstention.

It is a pleasant morning in a frost—caught and clean, conditions in regard to the housework, that farmwives in general prefer to those which milder days offer. Cool, it was, though with a feeling of the wind of present thawing. A silence wide and deep lay over the farmyards.
