

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

YOLANDE BRUNEL

RODNEY MCINNIS

Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Brunel of Montreal announce the engagement of their daughter Yolande, to Mr. Rodney B. McInnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell McInnis.

Women

Lena Caroline McLure, Women's Editor, Phone 8308

The Guardian, Charlottetown, Sat., Mar. 7, 1959.

HAPPENINGS

Among those in attendance at the Perry-Tweedy wedding which takes place today are Mrs. Richard Perry, St. Catharines, Ont. who arrived on Friday with her sister, Miss Phyllis Hood of Peterborough, Ontario. They are guests at The Charlottetown.

Miss Jean Hawkins, R.N., of Montreal arrived by plane on Wednesday. She will be a bridesmaid at the Perry-Tweedy wedding today.

Mr. Gordon Tweedy, student at U. N. B. is here for his sisters' wedding.

Miss Elizabeth MacMillan, Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S. is a guest at the Perry-Tweedy wedding. While here she is staying at The Charlottetown.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wilson Beckett and daughter Heather of Mount Royal are attending the Perry-Tweedy wedding.

Miss Helen Stewart, nurse-in-training at Ottawa Civic Hospital is also a guest at the wedding.

Among those entertaining for Mr. and Mrs. Gerrard Roy, (the former Lorraine MacCormack), prior to her marriage on January 31st were Mrs. B. Stewart, Longworth Avenue who was hostess to the office staff of Stearns Laundry at a dinner party in honour of the bride-and-groom.

At this party a beautiful blanket was presented to the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Campbell. At this time they were presented with an appropriate gift on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and the staff of Traders Finance.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Peters at a delightful dinner party at Mrs. Peters home on Alexander Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Ted Forbes, R.N. and children, Lance and Linda, of Port Credit, Ontario, are visiting in Summerside, guests of the former's sisters, the Misses Florence and Georgie Driscoll.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

wishes extended the bride-to-be.

The hostesses for the Charlottetown Curling Club for Saturday are as follows: Mrs. Lawrence Blakeley, Mrs. Donald Seaman, Mrs. Ralph Carr, Mrs. George Wright, Miss Mabel England and Mrs. Arthur Garrett.

A group of friends recently tendered a house warming to Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Cameron in their beautiful new home, Summerside. An amusing poem was read and the "Cameron" were presented with two walnut table lamps and two attractive pieces of pottery.

On Saturday night the medical and nursing staff of Prince County Hospital tendered the "Cameron" a housewarming party. Dr. J. B. Downing read a suitable poem and Dr. J. C. Simpson made the presentation of matching end tables and a Festival Hassock.

Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Cameron were tendered a housewarming party by Alberton friends when Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Phillips were host and hostess at a buffet supper and Mrs. Heath Proffitt presented the guests of honor with a generous purse of money.

On Thursday the concluding evening of the Lions' Minstrel Show in Summerside, the Lionsettes, under the convener'ship of Mrs. Erskine Waite, served refreshments to the cast.

Mrs. Ted Forbes, R.N. and children, Lance and Linda, of Port Credit, Ontario, are visiting in Summerside, guests of the former's sisters, the Misses Florence and Georgie Driscoll.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

Miss Patricia Daley left Summerside by plane last evening to spend her vacation in Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lecky entertained at their home in Summerside last evening when mixed Marathon bridge was in play.

The hostesses at the Summerside Curling Club this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Lewis, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Arthur Clark, Miss Joan Compton, Mrs. Charles Beazley and Miss Donna Silliphant, R.N.

Mrs. Bruce Barlow was hostess to the Kinetics on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside.

MR. AND MRS. G. R. ROY

Young Couple Honeymoon In Maritime Provinces

Against a floral background of Daffodils, Iris and Mums at the Holy Redeemer Church, Charlottetown on January 31st, at 9 o'clock, the marriage took place of Lorraine Marie, daughter of Mrs. P. R. MacCormac and the late Mr. MacCormac of Charlottetown to Gerrard Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roy of Caraquet, N.B. Rev. Father C. H. Moreau C. Ss. R. officiated at the ceremony. The soloist was Mr. Frank MacIntyre accompanied by Mr. Alex MacLean on the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred MacCormac of Albany, looked lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon velvet with matching bolero, her headpiece was a pillbox hat of crystalline lace with a shoulder length veil of silk illusion, she wore white satin shoes and carried an old fashioned nosegay of red carnations.

MARY HAWORTH

Mother Frets Over Son's Aversion To Marriage

Dear Mary Haworth: I would appreciate your comment on the following about which I do some puzzled worrying: I have a son, 28 a college graduate, holding quite a good job for his age—with no home financial obligations (though he pays his own way, of course)—who persistently maintains that he will not marry.

He says that the idea of "sharing his privacy" (that is his expression) is abhorrent to him; that he doesn't wish to account to, or be responsible for, anyone; and that he realizes that his kind of person is totally unsuited to marriage, and therefore he intends to avoid it.

Oddly enough, he is a very conscientious, hard-working person with a keen sense of responsibility to his job, though he works best when not under pressure.

He is well liked, or perhaps I should say "respected"—as he does not permit people to get close enough to him for warmth. His personality is totally different from his father's or my own. We enjoy close contacts with numbers of people, and are concerned lest our son may be storing up an old age of loneliness for himself. What do you think? Thanks for your views. —P.N.

Dear P.N.: I think it is reasonable to assume that marriage, as a vocation, isn't for everyone. The unmarried way of life seems also to have its recognized place and validity in God's grand design for the human family.

Through the ages, bachelorhood and spinsterhood have come to be designated, half facetiously as the condition of "single blessedness." And, as you know, folk sayings represent a distillation of human wisdom, intuitively arrived at, and handed on in capsule phrases.

Thus perhaps your son is truly on the beam of the way of life wherein he can make the best use of his talents, when he insists that marriage is not for him.

In declaring for bachelorhood, and spelling out the logic of this choice, perhaps he is showing more sense and character than the "average" fellow who tends to let himself be pressured into social roles that others deem suitable. In short, your son's set of the will on this point may mean, not that he is lamentably peculiar, but rather that he is commendably alert and responsive to the inward voice of personal destiny, in spending his allotment of years.

On the other hand, there is a chance that he is simply talking through his hat, because he has not yet met the girl who can change his intentions and swing him into a brand-new vision of life, as radically as Saul's outlook and purpose were transformed, by a lightning encounter on the road to Damascus. So that Saul became Paul, a deeply chastened and better man.

But speaking of your worries, let's suppose that your son is to be a bachelor all his life. If so, it doesn't follow necessarily that "oneliness will oppress his old age." For one thing, he may not live that long.

Dear Mary Haworth: I would appreciate your comment on the following about which I do some puzzled worrying: I have a son, 28 a college graduate, holding quite a good job for his age—with no home financial obligations (though he pays his own way, of course)—who persistently maintains that he will not marry.

He says that the idea of "sharing his privacy" (that is his expression) is abhorrent to him; that he doesn't wish to account to, or be responsible for, anyone; and that he realizes that his kind of person is totally unsuited to marriage, and therefore he intends to avoid it.

that marriage is not for him. In declaring for bachelorhood, and spelling out the logic of this choice, perhaps he is showing more sense and character than the "average" fellow who tends to let himself be pressured into social roles that others deem suitable. In short, your son's set of the will on this point may mean, not that he is lamentably peculiar, but rather that he is commendably alert and responsive to the inward voice of personal destiny, in spending his allotment of years.

On the other hand, there is a chance that he is simply talking through his hat, because he has not yet met the girl who can change his intentions and swing him into a brand-new vision of life, as radically as Saul's outlook and purpose were transformed, by a lightning encounter on the road to Damascus. So that Saul became Paul, a deeply chastened and better man.

But speaking of your worries, let's suppose that your son is to be a bachelor all his life. If so, it doesn't follow necessarily that "oneliness will oppress his old age." For one thing, he may not live that long.

Dear Mary Haworth: I would appreciate your comment on the following about which I do some puzzled worrying: I have a son, 28 a college graduate, holding quite a good job for his age—with no home financial obligations (though he pays his own way, of course)—who persistently maintains that he will not marry.

He says that the idea of "sharing his privacy" (that is his expression) is abhorrent to him; that he doesn't wish to account to, or be responsible for, anyone; and that he realizes that his kind of person is totally unsuited to marriage, and therefore he intends to avoid it.

Oddly enough, he is a very conscientious, hard-working person with a keen sense of responsibility to his job, though he works best when not under pressure.

He is well liked, or perhaps I should say "respected"—as he does not permit people to get close enough to him for warmth. His personality is totally different from his father's or my own. We enjoy close contacts with numbers of people, and are concerned lest our son may be storing up an old age of loneliness for himself. What do you think? Thanks for your views. —P.N.

Dear P.N.: I think it is reasonable to assume that marriage, as a vocation, isn't for everyone. The unmarried way of life seems also to have its recognized place and validity in God's grand design for the human family.

Through the ages, bachelorhood and spinsterhood have come to be designated, half facetiously as the condition of "single blessedness." And, as you know, folk sayings represent a distillation of human wisdom, intuitively arrived at, and handed on in capsule phrases.

Thus perhaps your son is truly on the beam of the way of life wherein he can make the best use of his talents, when he insists that marriage is not for him.

In declaring for bachelorhood, and spelling out the logic of this choice, perhaps he is showing more sense and character than the "average" fellow who tends to let himself be pressured into social roles that others deem suitable. In short, your son's set of the will on this point may mean, not that he is lamentably peculiar, but rather that he is commendably alert and responsive to the inward voice of personal destiny, in spending his allotment of years.

On the other hand, there is a chance that he is simply talking through his hat, because he has not yet met the girl who can change his intentions and swing him into a brand-new vision of life, as radically as Saul's outlook and purpose were transformed, by a lightning encounter on the road to Damascus. So that Saul became Paul, a deeply chastened and better man.

to be old. For another thing, he may be absorbed in loved work to the end, finding sufficient consolation and companionship in his work-associations. A person's investment of interest and energy in work that satisfies him can be a very acceptable substitute in his life, for those close personal relations that occupy and, emotionally support other folks of a different type.

For a fascinating sidelight on the whole subject of a man's vocational choice, read "The Secular Journal of Thomas Merton" (Farrar, Straus)—just published, though written more than 20 years ago. On the final page of that old account, young Merton, leaving to enter a Trappist monastery, is saying goodbye to being a writer! Even so, he muses "If God wants me to write, I can write anywhere." As we know his fame as a writer burgeoned in the monastery, and continues growing. M.H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her care of this newspaper.

Tussy
Wind and Weather
HAND CREAM
Rich, fragrant, creamy.
Heals, protects, softens.
Fights infection.

DEVELOPING
Your Films for 20 Years
In Today—Out Tomorrow
GARNHUM PHOTO STUDIO
135 Kent St., Ch'town

Half-Pints
8 OZ. SIZE
$1.25
REG. $2.50

DRY SKIN CREAM
cleanses and reconditions
dry skins perfectly
8 OZ. SIZE
$1.75
REG. $3.75

REDDIN BROS. PHARMACISTS
DIAL 4386-4515
Leo M. Doucette
R. M. Smallman

ELLEN'S DIARY

Sunlight's Glistening Spell Brings Forth Bud & Flower

"I rise early," a great man has said, "because no day is long enough for a day's work." We rise in good time these days to enjoy the lengthener daylight hours. So good the strengthening sunlight is which pours in over the sills and spills in shifting pools on the floors. The house plants respond to its spell. Geraniums take on a healthier green, blossoms head, and open. The velvet leaves of the gloxinias reach out and up, and in rosy buds the begonias commence to rise from their winter sleep.

This we recall has been a good week at Alderlea, the only regret voiced of it by one of the farmers today being that it passed too quickly away. We regard its pattern, the design woven, the light and dark faded into a pleasant ensemble now. And the light was the 'legion of lovelinesses' that were ours, and the dark was the passing shadows, the little concerns and worries which are a part of most humans' days. Yet gracious the week has been.

"This isn't going to be the best Spring," a visiting farmer observed to James today. "Prices of farm-stuffs are... he shook his head soberly.

"James nodded. "Not the best" he agreed.

"Potatoes are selling away below the cost of production" the visitor commented.

"And hog raising is discouraging," James said.

"Poultry raising too," the visitor offered, "and eggs! What are we going to buy seed and fertilizer with?"

"Seed and fertilizer!" James exclaimed, "why, man, that's not the half, nor the quarter of all the springtime needs. Dear me, there's no end to it, for there's the unexpected as well as the expected to make allowance for."

"I'm more than afraid we're into a spell of hard sledding," the visitor said gloomily.

And listening we recalled these verses, "Hard Times," by Edna Jaques:

"You wouldn't think that poverty could teach you anything, That drought and wind and empty fields Could make a fellow sing, But I have learned that life holds more Than all I ever knew, The deep, abiding, lovely things, That live and stay with you.

I've learned that wealth is just a blind, That sort of seals your eyes,

SPRINGTIME BLUES

BY ALICE ALDEN
FABRIC colors and prints are extraordinarily effective this season. Many of the most attractive dresses are, essentially simple, focusing on materials and color. Larry Aldrich does an unexpected dress of silk chiffon in which shades of royal blue are subtly blended in a floral print. The full skirt is softly gathered from a wide, lifted waistband decorated with a large flower of the fabric. Chiffons and all shades of blue are abundant this spring.

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Sunday Supper Revival Urged For Better Living

Let's revive the delightful custom of Sunday suppers—simple, candlelit, seated meals to be enjoyed in dining or living room. We all need to take time out from TV and other distractions for more periods of gracious living.

When the Chef and I visited the State of Maine, we found the tempo of living pleasantly relaxed. Sunday supper at a big farm was a high point of the week.

ADVANCE PREPARATION
The menu?
Hot tomato bouillon, a substantial new and different Sea Bounty Salad including meaty Maine sardines for flavor contrast; hot biscuits, a crisp-cross blueberry pie and a big pot of tea.

No last minute rush, for the bouillon, salad and pie were prepared in advance, and the biscuits had been cut out and placed on a cookie sheet ready to bake.

Sea Bounty Salad: Cut 4 frozen fillets (about 1 lb.) of flounder, haddock or cod crosswise in halves. Place in wide saucapan. Cover with boiling water. Add ¼ tsp. each salt and pickling spice, and ½ tsp. lemon juice; poach 12 min. or until flaky. Drain and chill.

Drain 2 (4 oz.) cans Maine sardines. Mash contents of 1 can. Combine with contents of 1 (8 oz.) container cottage cheese, 1 tsp. mayonnaise, 2 tsp. dairy sour cream, 2 tsp. chili sauce, ¼ c. minced celery, 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and 1 tsp. crushed fine-grated lemon rind. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

To assemble: Arrange 4 sections fish fillets on bed of crisp salad greens. Spoon over half the prepared filling. Top with remaining fish sections and 2 reserved whole sardines and 2 additional minced hard-cooked eggs. Quartered lemon wedges may be used as garnish. Serves 4.

Sunday Dinner: Snappy tomato juice; roast chuck of beef; pan gravy; pan-roast potatoes; Brussels sprouts; celery-lettuce salad; fruit cake mold; coffee, tea, milk.

Fruit Cake Mold: Dissolve 1 pkg. raspberry gelatin in ¼ c. hot water. Add 1 tsp. lemon juice, ¼ c. sugar and ¼ tsp. salt. Chill until slightly thickened.

Stir in ¼ c. crumbs of leftover fruit cake and/or soft fruit cookies, ¼ c. mixed candied fruit and 1 c. chopped filberts or pecans (optional).

Rinse 6 custard cups with cold water. Spoon in gelatin mixture. Refrigerate 4 hrs; unmold.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S C. W. L.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Augustine's Parish Council of the C. W. L. was held on February 22nd, in the library of the parish hall. The president Mrs. Edmond Gallant was in the chair and opened the meeting by reciting the League Prayer in the absence of the director, Rev. F. R. LeClerc. There was a very good attendance with sixteen answering the roll call by paying in a dime. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, approved and signed. Several