

VISITORS TO PROVINCE

Late fall visitors to the Province include Mr. and Mrs. R.M. Cashir (above) of Cloquet, Minnesota. Travelling with them is their eight-year-old Samoyed dog "Princess", which, as a puppy stood well up in many dog shows south of the Border. The pure-white Siberian sled dog has accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Cas-ir on business trips to all parts of the North American continent including 38 American States, three Canadian Provinces, and nine Mexican states. Mrs. Cashir's father, Orlo B. Elfes, was publisher of the Cloquet "Pine Knot" for 40 years. Her son, Norman E. Nelson, is the present editor. The Cashirs were in this Province overnight several years ago, and Mrs. Cashir was taken with the beauty of the landscape that she persuaded her husband to include this side-trip in the present Eastern Canadian itinerary. Traveler for an American business firm, Mr. Casair works out of New York City.

Britain Said Anxious To Eliminate Trade Barriers

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor
SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) Britain is sincerely and positively anxious to get rid of trade restrictions, H. Leslie Brown, assistant deputy minister of trade and commerce, said Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Canadian Exporters' Association.

Mr. Brown—stating that this is his personal opinion based on his recently-completed two years in London as Canadian commercial counsellor—was replying to expressions of skepticism from some of the delegates.

He cautioned, however, that it will take another year to show whether or not Britain's present confidence is strongly based.

Britain had, he stated, given a good demonstration of her intentions at the Commonwealth trade conference in Montreal when she had announced further relaxations of restrictions on imports from dollar countries, and had stated she would advise British colonies to follow the same course.

DOLLAR SHORTAGE
However, he continued, Britain still is suffering from a dollar shortage despite the great improvement in her foreign exchange situation.

Britain, Mr. Brown said, has gained new confidence from a variety of factors, including that the two-year cycle of recurring financial crises which had marked the post-war years and finally been broken.

Now she had passed the two-year mark since the last crisis in good form and had made her Montreal announcements in September—traditionally the worst month of the year in its drain on exchange funds.

So far as further trade relaxations are concerned, Mr. Brown said much will depend upon the next 12 months. If Britain could have another good year, then full convertibility might be "at hand."

BARRIERS STILL UP
Some exporters expressed disappointment that they are finding trade barriers in the colonies about as severe as ever, despite Britain's advice, and they questioned the value of the British announcement.

"Personally," said Mr. Brown, "I have every confidence that the British statement at Montreal in regard to the colonies was not made lightly." He advised a little more patience.

Mr. Brown was one of about a dozen officials of the department of trade and commerce who attended Tuesday's sessions which were devoted to informal discussions of various exporting problems.

The two-day gathering ended Tuesday night with the association's annual dinner, addressed by Sir Saville Garner, United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada.

PREMIUM HANDICAP
The exporters—concerned with the handicap to them of the premium on the Canadian dollar—were told that they will probably have to continue to live with it for a while.

A. G. Robinson of the Imperial Bank of Canada commented: "If we had some idea of how much borrowing Canadians will do in the United States in the next year, we would have something on which to base a forecast. My personal opinion is that any exporter who looks for the Canadian dollar to return to par is being over-optimistic."

September Fish Landings In Mar. Amount To $3,700,000

The fish landings recorded in the Maritime Provinces during September amounted to $2.4 million lbs., valued at $3.7 million, the Department of Fisheries and Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced today.

The September landings for the Maritimes were below those of August by approximately 9 million lbs. Cod landings alone were lower than those of August by 4 million lbs. while pollock, hake, redfish and flatfishes also contributed to the decline, but in smaller quantities. Swordfish, in the pelagic category, were down by about 1 million lbs. This decrease from August to September is seasonal in nature and followed closely the pattern of recent years.

Compared with September, 1957, the landings in September this year were down by 10 million lbs. The main decreases occurred in the landings of groundfish, herring and related species, being in the order of 3 million and 6.3 million lbs. respectively. Despite the decline in volume, the value of landings was $3 million above values for September last year.

Cumulative landings to the end of September, 1958, were running about 30 million lbs. below those of the same period of 1957, but corresponding cumulative values increased by $4 million. Groundfish were down by 5 million lbs., and showed an increase in value of $5 million; pelagic and estuarial fishes were down by 13 thousand lbs., and showed an increase in value of $72 thousand; shellfish were down by some 5 million lbs., to the end of September and showed a loss in landed value of $2 million.

Expect Budworm Outbreak In N.B. To Collapse Next Year

FREDERICTON (CP)—"Final collapse" of the budworm outbreak in New Brunswick woods is predicted for next year in a report by Dr. F. E. Webb of the forest biology laboratory here.

He said the 6,000,000 acres of fir and spruce sprayed since 1952 were in good condition and the trees had regained much of their original vigor.

"Assuming the outbreak is over, the objective of seven years of spraying have been mainly achieved with little or no adverse effects on the natural control complex of this and other forest pests," he said.

"Check areas provide assurance that the alternative would have been virtual destruction of much of the pulpwood crop in northern New Brunswick."

Eskimos Sell Carvings By Mail Order

OTTAWA, (CP)—A mail order business in soapstone carvings and a building boom are part of a new way of life in an Eskimo community on Hudson Bay's east coast.

Povungnituk boasts an Eskimo operated mail order business in carvings, started last spring and rated as the first in Canada.

The Eskimos also are adding permanent buildings to the skyline, an indication of their more settled existence.

The northern affairs department has described the community of carvers some 1,000 miles north of the capital as "the most progressive Eskimo community in Canada."

The settlement's main industry is stone carving—last year it produced about $50,000 worth of Eskimo art that was sold to the Hudson's Bay Company.

The carvers specialize in work depicting Eskimo legends. They have set up a mail order system and ship carvings direct to customers.

The society, however, issues no catalogue. Each carving is an original.

Only Handful Cause Trouble In Penitentiary

KINGSTON, ONT. (CP)—Only a handful of prisoners are responsible for recent disturbances in Kingston Penitentiary, warden Walter F. Johnstone said Tuesday.

He was commenting on riots Monday and Friday when convicts seized a total of eight prison officials and held them as hostages.

The warden said the riot Friday was the result of agitation by some convicts for a yard canteen, which has been denied them since a 1954 riot when prisoners blew up and burned several buildings.

Warden Johnstone said Monday's riot was caused by four psychopaths who grabbed three officials and held them at knife-point until armed guards forced them to surrender.

On Friday before the flare-up in the prison tailor shop he had ordered locked up 18 men who had been agitating for a yard canteen.

The operation of the prison is continuing in a normal fashion, warden Johnstone said, and no extra guards have been called in to patrol the prison, which is in what is rumored "an explosive state." No extra gas has been issued.

Preliminary figures, which the department said are subject to minor revisions, showed that $5,803,000,000 worth of Second World War victory bonds were converted at Oct. 14.

Quebec City Has Deficit

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec City ended its 1957-58 financial year with a deficit of $816,122, $116,122 more than the forecast deficit of $700,000.

The report, released Tuesday by treasurer C. R. Fontaine, says wage increases granted after the budget was adopted were responsible for the deficit being greater than estimated. The city will finance to cover the forecast deficit and carry the $116,122 excess over to the next budget.

The report shows total revenue of $12,455,005 and total expenditures at $13,034,247. The previous year, revenue of $12,130,614 and expenditures of $13,059,556 left a deficit of $928,942.

The city's net debt now is $294,592, the report states.
