CANADA.
QUEBEC, June 8.
 His Excellency the Governor-General and Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise, had a drawing room at the Legislative Council Chamber, last night, at 9 o'clock. Ladies were in full dress, and gentlemen attending were requested to bring with them two cards, each with their name eligibly written thereon, one of which was left at the door of the presence chamber, the other handed to the aide-de-camp in waiting. About 500 ladies and gentlemen were present.
 To-day Her Royal Highness attended morning service in the Cathedral.

ONTARIO NEWS.
OTTAWA, June 7.
 The annual meeting of the General Assembly of the Canadian Presbyterian Church will be held in St. Andrew's Church here on Wednesday.

The Board of Arbitrators appointed to carry out one of the provisions of Sir S. L. Tilley's tariff resolutions are, it is understood, to be permanently located at the capital. Two of the appointments are understood to have been made, that of W. H. Fraser, Toronto, and Mr. David Sinclair, of Montreal, the one to appraise dry goods and the other groceries. Dr. Young, late of the Washington Bureau of Statistics, is to be permanently Secretary of the Board. It is currently reported that the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec is to receive the honor of knighthood at the hands of the Governor-General, during the stay of the Vice-regal party at the ancient capital.

As the count stands, exclusive of two places in Russell County, Mr. Baker (Conservative) has 11 majority. The scrutineers have made reports from all places, which give Mr. Baker 23 majority on the total count. It is very likely that this will be found correct when the official returns are received.

The importation or introduction of cattle from the United States into Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, has been further prohibited until the 6th September. The Dragoon Guards have decided on going to Brooklyn for the 4th of July celebration in that city. They intend stopping at Utica for seven hours.

QUEBEC, June 7.
 The B. Battery athletic games took place this afternoon, on the plains of Abraham, in the presence of an immense concourse of people. His Excellency the Governor-General and H. R. H. the Princess Louise were present and remained on the grounds for upwards of an hour.

REMUSKI, Que., June 7.
 A storm of north-east wind commenced at 10 p. m., yesterday, blowing 35 miles an hour, and at 5 a. m. blew 66 miles. It is diminishing. The schooners Marie Luce, Shamrock, St. Lawrence, and Bateau, were blown ashore here. A great amount of damage was done to wharves and buildings; several were blown down and carried away. The sea rolled into the streets and carried away sidewalks. The shore is strewn with smashed boats, wood, etc. The light-house at Long Wharf was washed away. The railway track on the wharf was torn up. The loss is estimated at about $30,000.

A boy named Doran, aged seven and a half years, fell into Steele's Pond on Saturday afternoon and was drowned. This pond is a very deep one, and only a few feet from the public highway, and has been the scene of numerous fatal accidents.

LONDON, June 8.
 The North German Gazette states that the German foreign office has received confirmation of the reports of the destruction of the German Mission station at Natal, and of ill-treatment of the missionaries by the British. Communications are still proceeding with the British Government on the subject.
 Official despatches from Cape Town dated May 20th are published. In one Lord Chelmsford states that the advance of Colonel Wood and Newdigate should commence in ten days, but a despatch from General Clifford says that no date can be fixed for the completion of preparations because of difficulties met with in obtaining transportation.
Duke of Argyll in New York.
 The New York Sun of the 4th inst. gives a lengthy notice of the arrival in New York of the Duke of Argyll. Several foreign Ambassadors, ex-Mayor Prince, of Boston, and other celebrities stepped on the Scythia.
 The Sun continues:—
 Then came a pleasant, somewhat stout gentleman, with red hair, gray whiskers, and slightly freckled face, who, it was whispered, was the Duke of Argyll. He wore a dark mixed summer overcoat, standing collar, and black cravat; and although he had three or four servants in attendance, was littered up with the small traps of a traveller. On the Duke's arm was his eldest daughter, Lady Elizabeth Campbell, a tall, delicate-complexioned blonde, with light auburn hair and pale face. She wore a black cloak of some plain stuff, with a black fua collar, over an ordinary travelling dress. Behind this couple came Lord Walter Campbell, a younger son of the Duke, and almost an exact picture, saying that he looks younger, and that his hair is redder, of his brother, the Marquis of Lorne. Lord Walter wore a blue flannel yachtman's suit, a blue checked shirt, and black tie. He escorted his youngest sister, Lady Mary Campbell, a pretty young woman of eighteen or twenty, with wavy auburn hair, who was dressed like her sister in travelling dress and plain black cloak. On the pier a cheer was given the Duke, in response to which he lifted his hat.
 The Sun further remarks that:—
 Until the last week we have never yet had a duke visiting New York, though two royal dukes, those of Kent and Clarence, have favored our Canadian and Nova Scotia neighbors, and the Duke of Kent once touched at Norfolk, Va., in a British man-of-war.
 The Duke and his family kept close within doors last evening. The Duke wrote or dictated the following, which was shown to the various visitors who called to pay him their respects:—
 Left England May 24; delightful passage. Leave to-morrow at 10.30 for Quebec, via Niagara Falls and St. Lawrence River, where he will meet the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise. Returns to England, via New York, July 16.
 Is very tired and can't see any one.
 Ever since the Vanguard, ironclad, was sunk by the Iron Duke she has been a source of danger to the passing vessels, and it has been necessary to station a lightship in the neighborhood, with a view of diminishing the danger. The Admiralty have decided upon removing her masts, and to make the work a source of instruction to those employed. They, therefore, ordered the Valorous to proceed to Portsmouth to embark officers and men with stores from the Verhoer, torpedo ship, and to convey them to the wreck, where torpedoes will be used to destroy the masts.
 The late heavy rains appear to have done a world of good throughout Ontario, Quebec and some of the North Western States. The grass crop has been immensely benefited in the Upper Provinces, and grain crops of all sorts have profited greatly.
