IN MEMORIAM

MISS FLORENCE DORSEY

On Sunday, August 26, the death of Miss Florence E. Dorsey occurred in the city. Although in failing health for some time, her death came as a shock to her numerous friends.

Born in Charlottetown on January 19, 1877, the late Miss Dorsey was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Dorsey of Charlottetown.

A graduate of Notre Dame Academy and an alumna of Prince of Wales College, she was proprietress of a dress-making firm here for several years. She later moved her business to Wichita, Kansas where she resided with her brother, the late Dr. James K. Dorsey, some years later returning to Charlottetown.

Prior to her illness the late Miss Dorsey was an arduous worker in numerous organizations. She was active in the Charlottetown Dispensary Organization, the Basilica Altar Society, and the St. Elizabeth's Aid Society. She was a past president of the Women's Liberal Club, held office on the executive of the Girl Guide organizations and was twice president of the Catholic Women's League.

She leaves to mourn her death three sisters and two brothers, Mrs. A.E. Hogan (May) of Portland, Oregon; Mrs. J.F. O'Neill (Ella) of St. John, N.B.; Mrs. F.F. Sigsworth (Ethel) of Charlottetown; John of San Francisco, Cal., and Frank of Borden, P.E.I.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the home of her sister, Mrs. F.F. Sigsworth to St. Dunstan's Basilica where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Corcoran. The pallbearers were six nephews: Messrs. James B. Johnson, Gerald Johnson, James Dorsey, Joseph Dorsey, Frank Sigsworth Jr. and J. Eldon Green. She was laid to rest in the family plot in the Roman Catholic Cemetery where the services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father Corcoran.

Find Snake Charmer

Dead In Trailer

POLL MEADOW, Gloucestershire, England, Sept. 4 — (AP)—A snake charmer was found dead in an auto trailer near here today.

Curled beside her body was a 15-foot python which she used in her carnival act.

A Pekinese dog yelping outside the door of the trailer and whines from other dogs inside caused police to break in.

They found the snake charmer, Mrs. Tanya Shelley, 30, dead under a table. Four dogs, a tortoise and a small black cat were huddled together in a corner.

Police said there was no immediate indication Mrs. Shelley was squeezed to death by the snake but they ordered an inquest.

Four months ago Mrs. Shelley's husband, Steve, 42, was suffocated under five tons of sand while performing his "buried alive" carnival act.

Scores with Home Baking at Queen's County Fair

Yes, the prize tag on the loaf says "First"! And that's only one of the honors Mrs. Louis V. Goldie won with her baking at the 1950 Queen's County Fair at Gagetown, N.B. She can well be proud, for Queen's County boasts some mighty keen home bakers, and Fair competition is pitched high. Speaking of her success in baking, Mrs. Goldie says that the first step is to choose the right ingredients. "Your yeast must have plenty of pep—and that's why I recommend Fleischmann's Yeast. With Fleischmann's, my doughs are light and my finished baking is tender and digestible." Right across the plate! It's results that make Fleischmann's Yeast the choice of prize-winning cooks, and the favorite of 3 out of 4 Canadian women.

Famous Gland Doctor Passes

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Sept. 4 — (AP) — Dr. Serge Voronoff, 85, who became world famous for his experiments in transplanting monkey glands to human beings for rejuvenation purposes, died Saturday after a short illness. Lausanne police confirmed his death but his family made no official announcement and refused to talk to newspaper men, Reuters News Agency said.

Dr. Voronoff, Russian-born, became a naturalized French citizen many years ago. He had been living in France but came annually to Switzerland for a short visit. Voronoff married his third wife, the former Gertrude Schwaetz, in Bucharest in 1934 when he was 70 and the bride was 20. His first wife died in Paris in 1921. His second got a divorce in 1928. Voronoff was about 54 when he gained international fame as "the monkey-gland man." Newspaper and magazine articles, popular songs and verses and even a best-seller, "Black Oxen" by Gertrude Atherton, were inspired by his rejuvenation theories. It was his belief that the endocrine glands were responsible for keeping the human body in top shape and that their decline caused poor health, loss of vigor and other signs of old age.
