

Pearls of Truth.

It is alike dishonest and disgraceful to contract unnecessary debt without the means of discharging it. Friendly cordiality should be extended to the man who chooses to eat plain food, to wear a garb, and to live in a humble home that are truly his own, because honestly paid for, rather than to him who lives softly and delicately and is surrounded by beauty and art, while he postpones his payment, eludes his debts, and lives a servile dependent on charity or the indulgence or patience of his creditors.

No human being, however exalted his position, however enlarged and cultivated his understanding, can long be happy without a pursuit. Life is a ladder on which we rise from hope to hope, and by expectation strive to ascend to enjoyment; but he who has fancied that he has highest hope or who enjoys the utmost of his wishes is miserable indeed; for many who have been most successful in their respective undertakings have given the gloomiest description of the emptiness of human pleasure. The pursuit alone can yield true happiness, and the most trifling object that has power to fascinate the hopes of man is worthy his attention.

Horiditary results of drinking.—If intemperate parents could blast only their own lives, and have it stop there it would be comparatively little; but to send weakness and exposure and degradation down to successive generations is fearful. To do this for the sake of any temporary pleasure is like the wickedness lately discovered of putting an infernal machine on board a steamer that would blow it up in midocean, for the sake of the insurance.—President Hopkins.

A sweet temper.—No trait of character is more valuable to a female than the possession of a sweet temper. Home can never be made happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Let a man go home at night, wearied and worn by the toils of the day, and how soothing is a word dictated by a good disposition! It is sunshine falling on his heart. He is happy, and the cares of life are forgotten.

There is an old adage which says, "Beauty is but skin deep, but ugly goes to the bone." It does not bear the truth on its face. A homely girl, if she realizes that she is not pretty, is generally good, generous; and if she gets married, she makes a good wife. The pretty doll of a girl, with the face of a wax figure and with a sylph-like form, generally becomes the cross, ugly old woman. She grows ill-natured because her beauty has faded, which was all she prized when young. On the contrary, the homely girl welcomes age because it brings with it the respect due to accumulated years. Age is the level of distinction, and the pretty, vain minx who would slight a homely sister of her own age will pay due respect and reference to the aged of her own sex. The homely girl never attempts coquetry. In the absence of personal charms, she cultivates her mind to make up the deficiency, and generally succeeds. Men of sense and honor admire her for her good qualities of mind and heart.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.
