

A Seasick-Proof Steamer.

We crossed from Calais to Dover in the new and elegant double steamer which has recently been put upon the line, built with the special object in view of preventing sea-sickness. This vessel has two separate hulls, with engines in each, which drive wheels in the centre, between the two hulls. The deck and cabins are large, and nearly 100 feet in width, so that 300 passengers on board, scattered over the vessel, had plenty of room to sit or promenade, or lie down on the elegant sofas in the elegantly furnished cabins, as they might be inclined. They were not crowded together like sheep, as is generally the case on the little Channel steamers, and consequently there was, as far as we observed, not a single case of seasickness on board. The peculiar construction of this double steamer and its large proportions kept it very steady in the chopping seas of the Channel, and the passage was rather pleasant than otherwise. The time occupied in crossing to Dover was but eighty minutes, while on the smaller and less powerful steamers it is seldom made in less than two hours. The passengers are, however, made to pay heavily for the comfort, the fare for the trip between Paris and London by this route being £3, or $15. The time from city to city is reduced to ten hours. The fare is much lower by the other routes, which require more time, with less comfort. They are all, however, doing a heavy business during the Exposition, and round trip tickets by way of Dover and Calais cost about $24, good for five days. There are second-class passengers taken for one-third less.—Letter to Baltimore American.

Look most to your spending. No matter what comes in, if more goes out you will always be poor. The art is not in making money but in keeping it; little expenses, like mice in a large barn, when they are many, make great waste. Hair by hair heads get bald; straw by straw the thatch goes off the cottage, and drop by drop the rain comes into the chamber. A barrel is soon empty if the tap leaks but a drop a minute. When you mean to save, begin with your mouth; many things pass down the red lane. In all other things keep within compass. Never stretch your legs farther than the blankets stretch, or you will soon be cold. In clothes choose suitable and lasting stuff, and not tawdry fineries. To be warm is the main thing, never mind the looks. A fool may make money, but it needs a wise man to spend it. Remember it is easier to build two chimneys than two keep one going. If you give all to back and board there is nothing left for the savings bank. Fare hard and work while you are young, and you will have a chance to rest when you are old.

The Greatest Medical Discovery since the Creation of Man, or since the Commencement of the Christian Era.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different: the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

Physicians in all ages have thoroughly tested and well know the effect of Capsicum; and it has always been more or less used as a medical agent for an outward application; but it is only of very recent date that its advantages in a porous plaster have been discovered. Being, however, convinced of the wonderful cures effected by DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER, they now actually prescribe them, in their practice, for such diseases as rheumatism, pain in the side and back, and all such cases as have required the use of plasters or liniments. After you have tried other plasters and liniments, and they have failed, and you want a certain cure, ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER. You can hardly believe your own convictions of its wonderful effects. Although powerful and quick in its action, you can rely on its safety for the most delicate person to wear, as it is free from lead and other poisonous material commonly used in the manufacture of ordinary plasters. One trial is a sufficient guarantee of its merits, and one plaster will sell hundreds to your friends.
Ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER, and take no other; or, on receipt of 25 cents for one, $1 for five, or $2 for a dozen, they will be mailed, post paid, to any address in the United States or Canada.
