Sizzling Race Continues

TORONTO Maple Leafs, all but counted out of the race for first place a week ago, are back in there after three straight triumphs. They have a lead of four points over the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks. At that the Leafs have one more game to play than have the Hawks and a triumph in that one would reduce the difference to a mere two points. The Maple Leafs do not catch up with the Hawks in games played until this coming Saturday night. The Islanders are entertaining the Detroit Red Wings that evening while Rudy Pilous and his boys are taking a night's rest. Before that comes Boston Bruins on Wednesday night and the same evening Hawks visit Madison Square Gardens for a tussle with the troublesome Rangers. A Toronto victory and a Chicago loss would really set the stage for Saturday when Maple Leafs get their chance to even up the games played.

SHOULD Toronto conquer in both home games this week and Chicago lose at New York, the first place would definitely be up for grabs Sunday night when the Hawks put out the welcome mat for the Queen City crew. This should be the game of the year and you can expect body checking to be heavy on this occasion.

After Sunday's Toronto schedule looks like this: At home games—Chicago, Saturday March 15, Montreal March 20, and Detroit March 23. Away games—Montreal March 14, New York March 17 and Detroit March 21.

Chicago plays at home after Sunday next against Detroit, March 16, and that's it. They are away at Boston March 14, Toronto March 16, Detroit March 17, Montreal March 23 and Boston March 24.

Canadians' situation is like this: At home against Boston March 7, New York March 20, Toronto March 14, Detroit March 16 and Chicago March 23. The Habs are away at Detroit March 5, New York March 10, Boston March 17, Toronto March 20 and New York March 24.

Be sure you have the complete picture. You try to figure it out.

Howe Away In Front

DETROIT'S Gordie Howe is threatening to win the scoring crown in a runaway. Howe seems to get greater with the years and his pace at the present time is a really terrific one. His outstanding work in the return of the Detroit Red Wings to the Stanley Cup team to be feared. Right now it looks like a Stanley Cup for the team pitted against the Abeam in the Rogers Cup event.

Canadians will be a long time finding out what happened to the last Saturday night when the Red Wings went into Montreal Forum and whipped them 7-1. This was the most humiliating defeat suffered by the Habs in many a moon and the Canadiens' supporters were shocked and saddened by this decisive upset.

Wings Could Go Higher

IT could well be that Red Wings finish higher than their present fourth place standing. They now trail Canadiens by two points and could do both things with a triumph over the Blackens tonight at the Olympia. On the basis of their showing against Montreal Saturday night, they should garner three points.

But the Habs undoubtedly will be a different outfit tonight. They are still reeling from the Red Wings visit to this clash with the Detroiters. It would be a most crushing blow for Montreal to wind up fourth and that's where they indeed might end if they blow this one tonight. Of course they have a game coming up Thursday at home against the cellar dwelling Bruins and you can be sure the Habs are hoping to end this one on a high note. The last time Bruins were in Montreal they escaped with a verdict and then went on to Toronto to beat the Maple Leafs.

So right now, no position in the first four seems settled. It's a great battle and should continue for a few weeks yet. Indeed first place especially could be undecided as the teams start their final regular games on Sunday March 24. That could also be the case for second and fourth.

What a honey of a race.

SUMMERSIDE —The Prince County Combines, getting better as the game progressed, won the clinching game of the semi-final series "B" at Civic Stadium last night by the score of 12-4.
