Co-Op Is Authorized To Enter Retail Field

KENSINGTON — After a discussion during which many problems relating to the matter were aired, the Kensington Co-operative Association board of directors has given authority to enter the retail business.

The annual dinner meeting held in the Kensington Regional High School, was attended by about 150 including shareholders and their wives.

Plans for renovation of the existing co-op building were given in detail by the manager, Bruce Howard, and were approved by the share-holders. These included facilities for bulk feed, a molasses mixer overhead bins for grain and other re-arrangements. "This plan" he said, "if carried out, will greatly increase the efficiency of the plant. All this, the manager stated, "has the support of the MCS". The MCS was represented at the meeting by Lloyd Horton of Moncton.

The meeting was chaired by the president of the Kensington Co-op Association, Elmer Hickey, and Elmer MacLeod offered grace. Gerald Lockhart thanked the ladies of Graham's Road W.I. who catered, and Mrs. W. Ferguson responded. During the routine business session, Keith Harrington, M.L.A., spoke on the feasibility of a flour mill for P.E.I., as suggested by Ian Henderson at the last annual meeting.

The president, Mr. Hickey, reported a successful year, but stated that improved facilities should result in better service to the public and increased business.

Ross Woodside, chairman of the nominating committee, brought in the names of two new directors, Eric Sinclair and Eric Heaney, and re-nominated Elmer Hickey. All were elected. The auditors' report and financial statement by the E.T. Hickey accountant firm was read by Hillard MacKinnon and approved.

The manager of the local Bank of Nova Scotia, E.C. Moore, spoke briefly and commended the manager and the president. Ken MacLean, president of the P.E.I. Co-op Union, gave a brief address. He congratulated the people on patronizing the Co-op. The Co-op movement, he said, touches 51 countries of the world, and every province in Canada.

"The co-op", Mr. MacLean said, "is important, serving all classes of people" and it "acts as a balance for the economy in general. The wheat pool in Saskatchewan alone makes a big impact on the life of the country", he stated.

The speaker said there is a growing need for help in newly developing countries, not only foreign, but among Eskimos and Indians here. He said that already 20 co-ops have been set up in the North. Personnel is needed to train those people to help themselves.

Tourist inquiries received by the P.E.I. Travel Bureau about the province this year are about 18 per cent higher than for the same period last year. Hon. J. David Stewart said yesterday.

He added that tourist operators are also reporting a slight increase in the number of bookings for the summer season. Mr. Stewart said two factors will play a large part in the tourist season this year. He said many visitors will come out of curiosity to see the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building and many will feel that the province will not be as crowded as last year when Centennial celebrations were being carried out.

Child Reading Program Is '67 Project For H-S

The 1967 Centennial project was discussed at the April meeting of the provincial executive of the P.E.I. Federation of Home and School held in the National Film Board rooms in Charlottetown.

The provincial vice-president, Mrs. Stewart MacDonald, acted as chairman. A report on the recent county workshops held in Charlottetown, Kensington and Morrel on "Higher Education" was given.

The chairman said that the workshops were well attended and that interest was high and that the public seemed to appreciate getting information on this important subject.

Mrs. Helen MacDonald, chairman of public relations, reported that a successful series of radio and television on Home and School had just concluded.

Mrs. Peter Gleason announced that the 1967 National Centennial Project will be a children's reading promotion program. The sum of $50,000 is being budgeted to a campaign which will have two main approaches — a public information campaign will aim at making the general public more aware of the importance of reading for children and at the same time study guides will go to Home and School Associations to encourage community-level participation.

Mrs. Gleason stated that in P.E.I., contributions have already been received from 15 local associations. In discussing a P.E.I. Centennial project, Col. Leo MacDonald suggested promotion of school libraries by hiring a library enthusiast to visit school trustees.

A recent survey shows a great decline in reading since the advent of television, although with good library facilities in the city schools, reading is increasing.

Another suggestion was the sponsoring of oratorical contests or debates. It was agreed that local associations should be contacted for ideas, also some ideas may be forthcoming from the National Convention.
