WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

by Shelly Pepler

The Christmas tournament of intramural sports has begun. This world-renowned tournament began on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week with intramural broomball. The Day Students and Blanchard were featured on Tuesday night, and the perennial powers - 1st and 2nd Bernadine and 3rd and 4th Bernadine - squared off on Wednesday. At press time, scores were unavailable. The winners of these two games will meet early next week for the crown jewels. Participation has been excellent in the last couple of weeks from Bernadine Hall. Keep up the good work, girls, and there may be something in it for you at the end of the year.

Tickets are now going on sale for the semi-final games of the Women's Intramural Christmas Tournament Basketball Championships. Rumor has it the games may be played at the Metro Centre in Halifax to allow everyone who wants to watch, a chance to see it. Prices for this auspicious occasion, however, will not change, regardless of where it is held.

PREDICTIONS OF THE WEEK: Seeing that I picked the Alouettes to win the Grey Cup last week, I have decided to stick with a much easier prediction this week. I predict that Christmas will fall on December 25th this year!

INTRAMURAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

As we see the semester come to a close, starting Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 7:00 p.m., is the beginning of the Christmas Hockey Tournament. It will be taking place at the UPEI Dome (rink). Now let's take a look at some key players in this tournament.

First we have Jimmy's Boys (Sophomores). This team has come a long way since the beginning of last year. Many thought nothing of them until they made it to the finals, in the spring of 79, against the Mean Machine. The person responsible for taking them on this victorious route was and is Horseshoe Peter Dickson. I tell ya this man can stop almost anything; if it is not luck then it must be magic. In their last game against the M & M there were more shots fired at him than if an assassination was issued by the C.I.A. on the Ayatollah Khomeini. He was unbelievable throughout the game and with any less help from his defensemen he probably would have been punch-drunk at the end of the game. Another key player is Don Roper who works at Chippins, but buys his clothes at Henerson and Chargemore. Don's role is policeman. This job involves putting agitators of the opposing team in their place.

Last week I said that Marian Hall was keeping a low profile for peculiar reasons. Well, several informants revealed some valuable information which has not yet been revealed to Commissioner Boogie Mullighan. It is said that Harold the Haymaker is coaching behind the scenes. He is feeding the team with knowledge that he acquires from his coach Jack Hynes of the Panthers. Finally, BMOC (Big Man on Campus) Neil MacKenzie, is playing as a forward with the team. We all know who Neil plays for. When the Commissioner reads what I have just said, I think the necessary actions will be taken to correct these matters.

....Turning to the Freshmen, we see the new recruits getting psyched up for their big game on Wednesday. Leading the pack is Dick Carroll, their founder and captain. Dick has experience behind him, for he played with the Charlottetown

INTRAMURALS

The schedule looks like this.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Day Students

Mon. Dec. 3
8:30
Blanchard Hall

Barny's

Mon. Dec. 3
9:30 p.m.
Berni's

Thurs.
Dec. 6

"Championship"

The team captains for each of the above teams are Judy MacDonald (Barny's), Anne Knox (Berni's), Janet Coughlin (Blanchard) and Brigid Connolly (Day Students). If you're interested in playing either see the above people, or myself, or simply come out to the gym on the respective dates. No guarantee there will be any N.B.A. scouts in attendance, but it should be a lot of fun.

In closing, my good buddy, Jean-Guy Mouse has asked me to pass along best wishes to everyone on their exams, have a safe and happy Christmas, and looks forward to seeing you all in January.

Till then.....

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

Juveniles when they won the Island championship two years ago. He is aggressive, has strength, but has the speed of an Island CN locomotive going up hill. His cousin Tony Carroll, a draft choice from the Army, has lots of weight and size 14 or 15 for a head. The cushioning inside his helmet was torn out to make room for this massive part of the body. Besides the size of his head, Tony is good for getting into those corners and head-butting everyone in sight. We must end our player analysis with goalie Dan Young. If you're playing centre and the puck is in their end, then you'd better watch that swinging goalie stick of Danny's. He swings as though he was a lumberjack.

....To conclude this article it is a must to give a report on the Business Vets. I was astonished to find out what their roster consisted of. I feel this is another matter the Commissioner should look into. Their goalie, Chuck Gallison, was a former player of Marian Hall and was given the boot, for reasons I do not know of, but it was a mistake. A former player in the Island Junior Hockey League. Chuck proves his ability every time he sets himself between those bars. His only drawback is his absentee mind, which prevents him from attending all their scheduled games. If his fellow players keep reminding him that they play this week, the team may be victorious in the tournament. In addition to Chuck, there is Joe Flip a pony (the Godfather of the league). He also is a former junior league player, who played under the Bishara Syndicate in the IHL during the 78 and 79 season. His abilities in this sport will be a great asset to the Bus. Vets. Finally, if the above cannot bring the team to victory then it will be up to captain Highliner (Reid Burke) and his Billy's (Andy Butler and Fred Younker) to win the tournament. The name for this line originated last year when Reid was appointed captain of the John Hamilton Gray. His condition was a little unbalanced, but his first mates, Andy and Fred, took the controls. So, let's hope that the best win (M & M), and all have a good time.
