That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

Feel-

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every eye, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that is the True Blood Purifier. All druggists, St. Johns, N. B., and C. E. Lowell, Mass. Hood's Pills to cleanse the bowels.

A NEW FORCE.

PROPOSED TO USE MAGNETIC POWER FOR AIRSHIPS.

A Boston Man Has a Remarkable Scheme by Which He Believes Aerial Navigation Will be Made Possible and the North Pole Easily Reached.

An entirely new scheme looking to aerial navigation and flight has been suggested by Mr. A. W. Nitch, of Boston. It is such a decided departure from all the propositions heretofore advanced for utilizing the atmosphere for purposes of transit as to command attention from the scientists and others to whom it has been presented. Instead of discharging the latter from their minds as visionary and impracticable, declares the Boston Post, several profound students have stopped and pondered upon it. "Why cannot it be made possible," they ask themselves. "Why isn't it possible to use the enormous electric forces that play a mysterious, yet potent and important, part through the ether in making a magnetized wire?"

then one white man was as good as ten of them.

"Our stations were not fortified at all. They were log cabins or sod houses, three or four men each, and though they were burned over and over again, they were rebuilt immediately, and no serious loss or inconvenience to the service was occasioned."

"We knew just when to expect the rider from the next station, and the horses were always ready, so that all we had to do was to change the mail from one horse to another, and we were off. It was the same at the relay stations. The horses were always ready, and the only delay was in making a change of one horse to another, and the mail was on its way."

"It was simply hard riding, a cool head and a keen eye that was required. Once in a while the men were caught. I have a scar or two myself to remember the danger was not excessive, and as the Indians were specially troublesome, and some hard fights resulted; but they never remained long in the saddle, they could not do a very great deal of harm."

"The first trial of the pony express was the delivery of Buchanan's message to the president in 1857. Our company, which had the route from St. Joe, via Salt Lake City, was the one which was afterward operated by Ben Holladay. Butcher's route was through Arizona. We had the common mountain ponies, and Butterfield had high bred horses. We took the message right through, and when we were through Arizona, we found the message coming back from San Francisco. Butterfield ran the southern route until 1860, when he pulled out and established a line called the Central St. Joe to San Francisco, via Salt Lake. In 1861 they commenced to build the telegraph lines."

"There was always excitement enough in our work, and nearly all of us had narrow escapes of one kind or another. We had to make time, to race with storms which were likely to bar our progress, but all these things soon became matters of course. We mounted our ponies and rounded away until we reached our stations, and then lay down and waited until our time came next. It was hard work sometimes, and pleasant at other times, very much the same as the other occupations of human existence."

Three Things

PRICE, QUALITY, ASSORTMENT enter more largely into the act of buying than anything else. If the price is right, the quality good, assortment complete, buying is easy. That is what makes a complete lot of cabinet seat rockers of good quality at right prices.

"My five-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with a cough for several months, the principal symptom being a hoarse, rattling cough, which was very distressing. I tried many remedies, but without success. Finally, I purchased Dr. Chase's Cough Cure, and after using it for a few days, the cough disappeared, and she is now perfectly well.
