Insurance, &c.

The Travellers' Insurance Comp'y, of HARTFORD, CONN.

Cash Assets - - - - $1,600,000.
Grants everything desirable in LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE ON THE MOST FAVORABLE TERMS.

Accident Department.
THE Travellers' Insurance Company, in its Accident Department, as General Accident Insurance Company, granting policies of Insurance against Death, or wholly disabling Injury by accident, not to exceed twenty-six weeks for any one accident, at an annual cost of $5 to $7 per thousand for occupations not specially hazardous. Hazardous risks taken at higher rates.

Life Department.
In its Life Department, the Travellers grants full Life and Endowment Policies, embracing the best features of the best countries, but without the complications or the uncertainties of the note system. It sells Insurances rather than future "dividends." Its contract is a plain one, the security is ample and unquestioned, and the rates of premiums are exceedingly low. It prefers to do business on a cash basis, and thus gives its policyholders advantages not attainable under the credit system.

Premium system, the favorite low rate cash policy. All policies non-forfeitable. Its ten, fifteen and twenty year policies can be converted into Endowment, at the option of the insured. This feature is original with this Company.

The Travellers' furnish everything desirable in either Life or Accident Insurance. It has issued 25,000 general accident policies and Paid Four Thousand Claims for death or injury by accident, the amount returned to policy holders averaging about Seven Hundred Dollars a day for every working day during the past seven years.

In its Life department it has written 15,000 policies, and its Low Rate Cash Plan is steadily growing in favor with the insuring public.

Example of Life Rates.
The holder of a policy for $1000 will pay an annual premium of $10.30, which will cost in all other companies very nearly $20. Hence the advantage of the Travellers' Life Policy for over $5000 for the same annual premium as charged by other companies for only $1000, and the amount returned to the insured is $1500 out waiting for bonus additions, which are acce-lented, and at best require the insured to have a guarantee of life for a number of years in order to realize.

Miscellaneous.

Mr. Punshon's Expedition to the Pacific.
NUMBER 8.
KING BRIGHAM.

One hardly feels satisfied on visiting Salt Lake City to depart without getting a sight of the Mormon autocrat, Brigham Young.
We expected to see him at the religious services in the Tabernacle, but he was not in attendance. We were informed that he was at the Theatre to a late hour on Saturday night, and that by precept and example he encourages theatre-going more than church attendance. This may be accounted for not only on the ground that he loves the stage, but by the fact that he wears the theatre himself and is anxious to make the business as profitable as possible. As, therefore, we could not see him at public worship and had no wish for his pious theatrical performance, the only expedient left us was to pay our respects in person to the autocrat. This the head of our party could not bring himself to do, but the rest of us could not forego the opportunity of getting a sight of the proprietor of the "Lion House." Accordingly, we made our way to the quarters of Brigham, which are rather extensive, as he occupies a two block lot on the corner, surrounded by a high, strong, stone wall. We passed through the Eagle gate—the royalty-like portal to the pretender's palace,—and knocked at the door of his official room. A satrap ushered us in, and we stood in the presence of the pseudo-prophet. His appearance is not pre-possessing. He is above the middle height, and has an extraordinary chest. He dresses with great plainness, and his manners are not the most affable. His head is large, his forehead round and full, and his face well shap-en. His eyes are full, dark grey in colour, and lustrous in their expression; his mouth large his cheeks and chin covered with a heavy reddish beard, and all the lower features heavy and gross. There is nothing of intellect or refinement in his visage, but he has the look of a cunning, sensuous, resolute man.
He is very ambitious, and his love of power has been gratified to the utmost, for he has absolute monarch ever had more power over his subjects than he exercises over his 120,000 viceroyalty on the earth. He is avaricious, and has amassed enormous wealth. The castodian of the treasures of both Church and State, he has found the office of a money lender. Besides being the head of all the cooperative mercantile associations and the Banking Association, he is President of the Utah Central Railroad, has a great amount of property, and, if report speak truly, has millions of dollars invested in the stock of the Utah Central Railroad, and has a large share in the stock of the Utah Central Railroad.
Nobody knows how many wives he has but himself, and as curious as we were to know, we had not the audacity to ask him, feeling assured that he would not tell us if we did. Nor did we ask in reference to the health of number of his children.

On our way down to Salt Lake City, I sat with a Mormon elder, who rejoiced in the possession of four wives, one of whom, he informed me, taught Brigham Young's private school. "How many scholars has she?"
I enquired. He answered, "Eighty-three."
I once asked him how many children Brigham Young's children, but he could not answer that. All that is known of the secrets of his harem is what the president himself chooses to reveal; but he has publicly stated that he has 16 wives and 48 children.

I cannot say that we enjoyed the interview.
We did not find this high church functionary very engaging or very communicative, and, as in the case of the museum, we saw what was to be seen and passed out.

The question involuntarily springs to the lips, what do these people believe? The question is more easily asked than answered.
The creed of the great majority of these later-day saints seems to be implicitly to believe in the truth of the Mormon doctrine, and unflinchingly to obey the commands of the superintending council. The Book of Mormon they hold to be as much inspired as the Sacred Bible.
This book has been proved over and over again to be a wicked fraud and base forgery on the part of their "Martyr Prophet." Spaulding wrote the book for the purpose and after his death Joe Smith became possessed of it, and with impudent blasphemy pal-m'd it off on the world as a Divine revelation.
The ignorant and fanatical masses, who are superstitious enough to believe anything, may accept this, but it is a monstrous outrage upon intelligence and reason. Polygamy is the corner-stone of the system, the peculiar institution of Mormonism. In 1852, Brigham Young promulgated the "Revelation on Celestial Marriage," which he declared had been given to Joseph Smith in 1843, when the inspiration of plural marriages was at once established, and polygamy openly practiced. The new dogma was favourably accepted, as it met the sensual depravity of these base men, and to marry several wives became at once a part of their religion. The women are taught that they cannot be saved unless they have husbands. The extent to which plural wives is carried is somewhat shocking. The number of doors in the long low "dwellings" continue to indicate the number of wives the Mormon household possesses; but I was informed that this was better indicated by the number of chimneys on the roof-top, as each wife has a separate suite of rooms and built apart from the others. The homes of Brigham's wives are scattered throughout the city, and a very beautiful place was pointed out to us as being the residence of his favourite "Amelia." Much has been said about the process of sealing. The principle is this—An unmarried being is ordained, and incompleteness. In heaven there is neither marrying nor giving in marriage. Ordinary marriage is simply "until death do us part," and so the eternal bond of sealing must be performed on earth to carry the marriage relation beyond the grave. This sealing may be performed by proxy; that is, a man may stand in the name of a departed friend. So fearfully lax has the moral sensibility become under his system, that there are men who have married a widow and then taken her own daughter. Baptism is administered by total immersion, and gives abolution of previous sins; hence it is only for adults. There is a baptism for the dead, which may be performed by proxy, as when a son is baptised for a dead father who never heard the Mormon gospel. A proselyte does not become a Mormon by baptism, but by laying on of hands and the gift of the Holy Ghost, and this, like baptism, may be received many times. Neither baptism nor marriage is regarded as valid when performed without the pale of Mormonism, and converts to the faith have to be re-baptized and re-married.

The "gift of tongues" among them is something like this: A man is inspired to utter inarticulate sounds, unintelligible to himself, and another is inspired to interpret the un-meaning jargon.

They profess to work miracles of healing power. In sickness the patient is anointed with holy oil and well rubbed, and they tell of numerous cures thereof. They believe in inarticulate sounds, unintelligible to himself,
meaning jargon.
