WORDS FOR THE WORLD

"The disciples of Christ forgot themselves and all earthly things, forsook all their cares and belongings, purged themselves of self and passion and with absolute detachment scattered far and wide and engaged in calling the peoples of the world to the Divine Guidance. . . . How the breaths of the Holy Spirit of His Holiness Christ created affinity and unity between divergent communities. . . ."

St. Dunstan's—One Hundred Years

DEBATING

During the war years there was no extramural debating, but in the 1945-1946 school year St. Dunstan's joined with eleven other Maritime colleges to form the Maritime Intercollegiate Debating League.

In the first year of the M. I. D. L.'s existence St. Dunstan's engaged in three debates, winning been studied with names familiar to the Island public and outstanding in the annals of the college.

In the 1947-1948 season the Saints made their first bid for Maritime debating supremacy. Miss Evelyn Hessian, Allan Noon-F. Murnaghan—brought fame to their Alma Mater. Driscoll and MacGuigan overcame the French-speaking debaters of Ottawa University in the semi-finals, only to bow by a split decision in the national finals to the University of British Columbia. St. Dunstan's debaters were firmly established as contenders to be reckoned with on a national level.

St. Dunstan's debaters were awarded four consecutive victories, and consequently their second Maritime championship, in 1952. The winning combinations were made up of Emmett Roche, Walter Reid, Clair Callaghan, Cyril MacIsaac, Robert Croken, and Allan MacDonald. Walter Reid, a senior, and Allan MacDonald, a sophomore, journeyed to Ottawa in quest of the national title. The climactic Montreal University's French-speaking orators in the semi-finals and met St. Patrick's College in the finals. At the conclusion of the close debate, notable for its display of showmanship, oratory, and forensic skill, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada declared the St. Dunstan's team the Dominion Champions.

This year, again, St. Dunstan's was in the running for national honors. By taking three consecutive unanimous decisions in Maritime competition, the local collegians won the right to vie for the national title for the third time in five years. Furthermore, by virtue of their third Maritime championship they brought to St. Dunstan's Debating Society the permanent possession of the coveted T. Eaton Trophy. The successful debaters this year were Miss Mary Farmer, Allan MacDonald, Richard Wedge, Charles Roche, John Walsh, and Ian Gillies. In the semi-final round at Ottawa, however, Allan MacDonald and Richard Wedge were eliminated by the current champions, St. Patrick's College.

In Rev. F. L. Cass' eight years of coaching the St. Dunstan's debaters, his twenty-four teams have brought home nineteen victories in regular Maritime League competition. Three times during that period they won Maritime championships, and twice they competed in the final debate for the national title. On March 8, 1952 they were acclaimed "Champions of Canada."

The individual intercollegiate debating record is held by Allan MacDonald, who was on the winning team seven times in eight contests. His brother Lorne was victorious in all three of his intercollegiate debates, an achievement equalled by Robert Croken. Wilfred Driscoll's record was five victories against two defeats. These are the records of future members of the St. Dunstan's Debating Society will be striving to surpass.

At this time it seems appropriate, therefore, to recall and to reiterate the sentiments expressed by a writer for the St. Dunstan's College student publication of January 1954: "Judging from the marked advancement in past years, and the eminence now attained by this society, we have no hesitation in saying that success will attend it in the future, and that it shall be brought to a still nobler issue."

Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mrs. Donald MacDonald, Mrs. Edward MacFadyen, Mrs. Wendell MacFadyen, Mrs. Joseph Murphy, Mrs. Myrtle Peters, Mrs. Geraldine Webster.

SURPRISE SHOWER—Miss Anita Lynds, was entertained at a surprise shower on Thursday, April 8 by her girl friends of the Royal Bank staff. The shower took the form of a treasure hunt with Miss Jean Affleck giving the clues, where the gifts might be found. Miss Tena Callaghan read the verses and Miss Lois Mutch arranged the gifts. Decorations were carried out in a pink and white colour scheme, with huge white wedding ball releasing "confetti" after the presentation of gifts, which included china, crystal and silver. A delicious buffet luncheon was served with Miss Edith Douse and Miss Elva MacKay serving from the attractive table, which had a centre piece of red roses flanked by crystal candelabra. Miss Lynds, although taken by surprise thanked everyone for the lovely gifts and good wishes.

TRYPON UNITED CHURCHES—Easter Sunday, April 18th. Tryon 11 a.m.; Crapaud 3 p.m.; Cape Traverse 7:30 p.m. At the morning service in Tryon. New choir gowns and a pulpit drape will be dedicated. Rev. Lloyd Archer, Minister.

ENGAGEMENT—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hickey, Darby, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miriam Irene to John Vernon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnston, Central Bedouque. Marriage to take place in May.

FIVE FIRE CALLS—The Charlottetown Fire Department responded to five calls yesterday between 11:45 a.m. and 2:50 p.m. Four of these were grass fires and the fifth was an automobile on Rochford Street. There was no damage in any of the five calls.

BRIDE-TO-BE ENTERTAINED—The Misses Velma Andrew, Jeannine Whitehead, Marie Gallant and Barbara Herring entertained Miss Anita Lynde, one of this season's brides-to-be, at dinner in the Queen Hotel on Tuesday, April 6. They took this opportunity of presenting a gift of crystal in the bride's chosen pattern.

Thoughts For Our Time

By His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan (Copyright)

PRE-SCHOOL YEARS

Modern psychology has impressed upon us very clearly that the preschool age is the most important and most critical in life for developing personality and character. It does not seem rash to affirm that during these early years, while children are under the complete influence of their parents, more than half their life habits and character traits are developed.

Even before the child begins to speak he is affected by what he sees and hears. It is the responsibility of parents, during these formative years to see that their children grow straight and strong in mind and emotions as well as in body.

Parents should understand the part played in human activity by habits. Human nature being what it is, habits are formed, either good ones or bad. Parents must see to it that the habits of their children are good and not bad. A habit, as all will recognize, is the result of repeated acts.

Habits tend to become a sort of second nature. For this reason the individual may become either the slave of some vice, or bad habit, or, on the contrary, become capable of performing the actions of a virtue with the ease of second nature. By constant practice, throughout childhood and adolescence, of acts of kindness, courtesy, fraternal charity, self-control, truth, the habits of these virtues may be acquired and remain through life.

The habit-forming years of life are recognized as lying between the years of three and seven. During these years more can be done to establish right habits, or virtues, than during the whole school course. It is a fact that bad habits are formed more readily than good ones. By early and careful training, however, bad habits can be corrected and often uprooted entirely, and good ones planted in their stead.

To accomplish this, parents should strive to awaken in their children a love and attraction for all that is high and noble, good and pure. They ought, on the other hand, to strive to instill in them a hatred of everything low and base, corrupt and vile. The inclinations of the will, if they are bad, must be restrained from the earliest years, while those that are good, must be fostered and cultivated.

Children must be trained early in the practice of reverence and piety, respect for elders, charity and fairness in their dealings with others. They must be taught to be obedient, polite, respectful, and cooperative at all times. They must be fortified by religious principles, love of family and acceptance of responsibilities. They must be taught the value of honesty, the beauty of truth, unselfishness, and gratitude. These objectives can only be efficacious if achieved in the light of the twofold commandment: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart and thy neighbor as thyself. Moral rectitude cannot exist in a religious vacuum. Altruism will never supply for love.

The habits formed in childhood influence the whole after. Children of refined taste and good habits will naturally dislike vile and suggestive reading, plays, or moving pictures. They will have a disgust for what is impure, and will avoid low and corrupting companions.

Children must learn while young that life presents us with many things which must be done even when natural inclination draws us to leave them undone. Duties are not always pleasant. In early childhood they must learn to work, and how to work, for the world of adulthood will not coax and wheedle them to do their duties. If children become accustomed to doing things only for pleasure or amusement, they are being prepared for failure, not only in school, but in the business of life as well.

Child-training which caters only to the pleasure instinct can do immeasurable harm, because not all life's obligations are pleasant.
