

Coby McCloskey Scores Fistic Upset In 10-Round Victory Over Durelle

HALIFAX, Aug. 14—(CP)—Coby McCloskey, a rugged 19-year-old Irishman from Charlottetown and Dartmouth built along the lines of a fire hydrant, scored the fistic upset of the season here tonight winning a unanimous 10-round decision over Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N. B. the Maritime middleweight champion.

The title was not at stake. Both fighters came in over the division limit. Durelle weighed 160 1/4, McCloskey 165.

Half a head shorter than the New Brunswick fighter, but far heavier in the arms and legs, young McCloskey, latest of a well known Maritime family of boxers to make the fistic headlines, fought from a crouch most of the night.

The faster and sharper-hitting Durelle, buffed by the stout defence and muscular power of the Dartmouth boy, tried in vain in the early rounds to get a clean shot in the head or body. Repeatedly they clinched and in the infighting it was Durelle who took most of the punishment, especially around the kidneys.

However, he was forging ahead on points until McCloskey, abandoning his crouch in the seventh round, suddenly clipped him with the best punch of the fight, a right to the head. Thereafter, to the finish, McCloskey carried the attack.

In the supporting 10-round bout, Bernard (Ace) McCloskey, Dartmouth, with a pull in the weights of nine pounds, won a unanimous decision over Roger Whynot of Mahone Bay, N. S., McCloskey, slower but stronger than the former Canadian middleweight champion, checked in at 167 pounds, against Whynot's 158.

McCloskey opened a bad cut over Whynot's right eye in the second round, scoring heavily with a left smash to the face. Whynot retaliated with a series of long rights to the head that marked the Dartmouth southpaw across the nose.

That was the hardest round of the night.

There were no knockdowns. Whynot appeared to be in better shape than McCloskey but lacked the strength to handle him in the clinches.

In the opening prelim, Tucker Boy Collins, 137, Truro, scored a 4-0 over Bob Murphy, 117, Halifax. After Murphy had been on the deck several times from right hand punches, referee Jack McKenna ordered him back to his corner at the start of the fourth round.

Andy Adams Wins K. Of C. Singles Title

Andy Adams won the men's singles championship of the Knights of Columbus Tennis Club yesterday evening when he downed Art Hughes in a keenly contested final match that was forced to four sets before it was decided.

Both boys came up with some smart tennis that was a battle all the way, Hughes taking the first set 6-3, and Adams driving back strong in the second for a hard 9-7 win, and taking the remaining two by scores of 6-4, 6-1.

The only other match played in the K of C tourney yesterday saw Mackey Kennedy and Rowan Profit defeat Harold Power and James MacAleer 1-6, 6-3, 6-1 in men's doubles competition.

Today's Schedule

Men's Doubles — Semi-Finals
 4:00 P.M. — Art Hughes and William Ledwell vs Andy Adams and Reg MacAleer.

Mixed Doubles — 3rd Round

People looking for laughs will be out in force at the Kensington ball park on Monday and at Curran & Briggs ball diamond on Wednesday. That's Monday, August 21, and Wednesday, August 23, folks, and be prepared to weep tears of hysterical hilarity before the show is over.

Bouquet of the week:
 This time my posies go beyond. The boundaries of Prince County. I hope the Charlottetownians appreciate my bounty. Of Lefty McAleer I sing. That southpaw's pretty nice. He humbled C. & B. team twice. Believe me, that's a feat!

Brickbat of the week:
 One thing that's caused a lot of fans a mild form of vexation: We don't have batting averages. And other information. About the P. E. Island League. Like RBT's and such. Why this statistic vacuum. If I don't ask too much?

STORES PROTEST
 JERUSALEM, Aug. 14—(AP)—Clothing, shoe leather and novelty shops ended today their two-week close down in protest against Government rationing of their products. A Government spokesman said if an inventory shows large supplies of summer wear still in stock, additional ration points will be allotted for their purchase.

Robinson's Batting Slump Continues

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—Jackie Robinson's batting slump—he's hitting .182 for the last two weeks—not only has cost him the National League lead but may drop him among the also-rans if it isn't stopped soon.

Two weeks ago the Brooklyn second-baseman was hitting .370 and was on top. Since then he has banged out only eight hits in 44 attempts and now he has an average of 3.48 and is second.

While Robinson is having his troubles, Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals goes happily on his way. His average, including games of Sunday is .361, identical with that of a week ago.

Johnny Hopp of Pittsburgh Pirates has taken over third place in the league race with .331. Behind Hopp the top 10 hitters line up like this: Andy Pafko, Chicago, .323; Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, .322; Enos Slaughter, St. Louis, .319; Sid Gordon, Boston, .319; Whitey Lockman, New York, .318; John Wryostek, Cincinnati, .318 and Don Mueller, New York, .317.

In addition to being batting leader, Musial also sets the league pace in hits with 141 and tops the field in doubles with 34.

Earl Torgenson of Boston Braves is first in runs scored with 86 while Del Ennis of Philadelphia Phillies is tops in runs batted in with 95. Richie Ashburn, Ennis' teammate, has connected for 12 triples.

Ralph Kiner, who now has slugged 300 home runs for Pittsburgh Pirates in less than five full seasons of play, is the leader in that department with 32. Sam Jethroe's base stealing total of 28 still is far ahead of the pack.

Warren Spahn, Braves left-handed pitcher, struck out 14 during the week to register 152 whiffs for the season and a stranglehold on that pitching honor. In won-and-lost records Sal Maglie of the Giants and Bob Miller of the Phils have identical 10-3 marks.

BIG OFFENSIVE

plunged forward in a northwesterly direction with a drive aimed at wiping out the bridgehead by either killing the enemy or chasing him back to the Nakdong's west banks.

The action came on the fifth anniversary of Korea's liberation from Japan, a date that had been heralded as the probable start of the Reds' greatest offensive of the war.

Behind 45-ton "Fershing" tanks, troops of the U. S. 24th Infantry Division had stormed more than a mile into the Communist bridgehead east of the Nakdong near Changnyong. The bloody frontal assault was calculated to throw the enemy across the river at that point and spoil his offensive be-

Mood Of Optimism

The initial success of this American punch brought a mood of cautious optimism to division headquarters. A spokesman said Tuesday morning that the situation was "highly satisfactory." He added that he expected the 12,000 troops of the over-strength North Korean 4th Division to start a drive from the beachhead within two days.

The North Korean 4th took advantage of darkness Monday night to move reinforcements across the river.

A score of miles north of the Changnyong beachhead, the Reds massed a huge force on the west bank of the Nakdong, facing Waegwan on the eastern side of the river, 12 miles from Taegu.

It is here the Reds have built up the greatest concentration of their total estimated 150,000 troops in South Korea.

And in that sector, United Nations defending forces have kept Nakdong crossings to a minimum.

Under-Water Bridges

Gen. MacArthur's early-morning headquarters summary said, however, that the enemy was believed to have thrown a second under-water bridge across the Nakdong on the Waegwan front.

Such bridges are made of logs chained together and weighted with stones so they lie just below the surface. Men and armor can cross them, but they are difficult to spot when not in use. The idea was developed by the Russians in the Second World War.

The 7th Regiment of the U. S. 1st Cavalry Division "annihilated" 500 Reds who tried to sneak across the river there Monday night, and drove another group of 300 back into the water.

On the southern front, American forces consolidated their positions along the high ground four miles east of Chinju. A Tokyo headquarters release said rear elements continued to clear out

United Nations defence line, American and South Korean forces were in action against a Red unit west of Pohang, east coast port that was a U. S. supply centre until a Red drive from the north forced the defenders to give it up.

The airstrip six miles southeast of Pohang was still in friendly hands but no longer being used as a base for fighter planes.

MacArthur's announcement said Pohang itself was held by 200 un-

It was on the central front along the Nakdong River, however, that the decisive action loomed. There AP correspondent Jack Macbeth with the 24th Division that was chewing away at the Changnyong bridgehead, reported Monday that the Americans felt that the next two days might be the days of decision.
