SUNNYSIDE,

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

Scott Act, Electrical and Park Roadway Matters Discussed.

In the unavoidable absence of His Worship Mayor Dawson, Councillor Hooper presided at the regular monthly meeting of the City Council held last evening, and every member of the board was in his place.

After routine, the chairman submitted a report from Mr. Walter P. Doull, who repaired the fire alarm system. The report explained the condition in which Mr. Doull found the system when he began the work of repair, and intimated that it was now in first-class condition. Mr. Doull also made several suggestions on electrical matters, the principal one of which was the appointment of an electrician to look after the fire alarm system, superintend the wiring of houses, cut wires at fires when necessary, and, in short, represent the city in all matters electrical. Annexed to the report were communications from the fire underwriters and the electric light, telephone and telegraph companies bearing upon the suggestions thrown out by Mr. Doull.

The report was discussed at considerable length and Councillor Johnson introduced a resolution providing, in effect, that the Fire Board engage Mr. Doull to superintend the fire alarm system and attend to the other duties outlined in his report at an annual salary of $150, assuming that the Board of Fire Underwriters would duplicate this amount making in all $300 a year.

Councillor Taylor seconded the motion. Councillor Horne moved in amendment that Councillor Johnson's resolution stand over for further consideration. The amendment carried on division.

A letter was read from Mr. Daniel E. Redmond stating that during the small-pox epidemic his furniture had been removed and destroyed by the authorities. He had not yet been paid for the loss thus sustained, and he hoped the Board would give the matter their very serious consideration. Laid on the table till next meeting.

The Water Commissioners asked for an issue of debentures amounting to $500 for services and extensions. Request complied with.

Councillor Nicholson informed the Board that upon learning, from a reliable source, that there were to be no further prosecutions under the Scott Act, the Finance Committee had instructed the City Clerk to notify the prosecutors that their services would not be required after the 31st July, which notice had been served. Not only had it been decided not to enter any new prosecutions, but old convictions were not to be enforced.

Councillor Horne asked for further information regarding the non-enforcement of the Scott Act and the withdrawal of the old convictions. He wanted to know who did all this?

Councillor Nicholson said he ascertained that several parties convicted of violating the Scott Act had been about the streets two days of last month (which days might be guessed) and upon inquiry he found that the Act was not to be further prosecuted. Under the circumstances he believed the Finance Committee were justified in dismissing the prosecutors. He believed that parties who were seemingly most anxious to enforce the Act were at the bottom of its non-enforcement. No councillor had anything to do with calling in the papers. He had nothing to do either directly or indirectly with calling in the commitments, and never interfered with the police in the prosecution of their duty.

Councillor Douse also affirmed his innocence of any connection with the matter, and said he never interfered with the police in the discharge of their duty.

The matter of a raft of timber for the park roadway, costing $630, was then ventilated at some length.

Councillor Hughes sought to make political capital out of the matter by asserting that Mayor Dawson instigated the purchase of the timber to "raft" himself into the Legislature.

Councillor Nicholson exploded this little matter, however, by explaining that at the time the raft was ordered the writs for the election had not been issued and it was not thought that the election would be on for months. He further explained that so far from His Worship being anxious to get into the Provincial Legislature either by the aid of a raft or otherwise he had actually declined the nomination for the city tendered him by the Liberal-Conservative party.

Councillor Nicholson explained also that Councillor Hughes, who was a very active Grit, about the time the writs were issued called the street committee together and said it was imperative that the men employed about the roadway should be called off. He (Councillor Nicholson) had since been informed that Councillor Hughes' zeal in this respect was due to a fear on his part that the forty or fifty men employed under Mr. John Nicholson would vote Conservative.

The raft matter was further discussed by Councillors Johnson, Hughes, Horne and others, and a motion that the bill for the raft be paid carried. A motion of Councillor Hughes that the bill lie on the table for the Recorder's opinion as to the liability of the city, was defeated, only the mover and seconder appearing for it.

The street committee were authorized to continue the work along Victoria Park and the grading of the Park roadway at once.

Council adjourned sine die.

THE SEA.

I love it, I love it,
Whatever its hue—
Be it dark, be it bright,
Be it green, be it blue;
In whirlwind or calm,
Let it chance as it will,
In sunshine or storm,
It is dear to me still.

I love it when glassy,
And shadowy and shining,
The bark and the oar
On its wave are reclining—
When late sounds of song
O'er its bosom are stealing—
When lightnings are flashing,
When thunders are pealing.

I love it when resting
In dawn's misty light,
The white sails are cresting
The foam-billows height;
When, dim in the starlight,
It breaks into spray—
When broadly and brightly
'Tis flashing in day.

But oh! when the green
Island shores are at rest,
When the last glowing ray
Fades away from the west,
With silence and moonlight
About, and above it,
Then, then, most of all,
Oh! I love it, I love it!
