He Had Made the Round Trip.

"I have taken my last order. I am going home!" he said, as the clock struck the midnight hour.

The nurse looked at the doctor with a significant glance, and whispered:

"His mind wanders."

Presently he lifted his feverish head from its pillow.

"Any letters from the house?" he inquired. 'There ought to be letters here."

Then he slept, and in his sleep he was a boy again, babbled of fishing streams where the trout played, of school hours and romps with his mates. At twelve o'clock he suddenly awakened.

"All right!" he exclaimed, in a strong voice, "I'm ready."

He thought the porter had called him for an early train. The doctor laid a soothing hand on him, and he slept. In his sleep he murmured:

"Show you samples of our goods. I'm going off the road, now. This order closes me out. The house has called me in. Going to have my first vacation, but I shall lose time—time—time!"

He drowsed off, and the doctor counted his pulse. Suddenly the man started up.

"Give me a letter from home. Ellen always writes to me here. She never disappointed me yet—and the children. They will forget me if my trips are too long. I have only a few more towns to sell. I promised to be home—promised—"

He slept again, and awakened with a start.

"No word from the house yet?"

He was going fast now. The doctor bent over him, and repeated, in a comforting voice, the precious words of promise:

"In my Father's house are many mansions. If it were not so I would have told you."

"Yes—yes," said the dying traveller, faintly. "It is a clear statement. It is a good house to travel for. It deals fair and square with its men.'

The chill December morning dawned—the end was very near. The sick man was approaching the undiscovered land from whence no travellers returns.

"I've changed my route," he murmured, faintly. "The house is calling me in—write to Ellen and the children that I'm—on—my—way—home—it's in my sample case—without money and without price—a good house—filled all its orders as agreed. Call me for the first train—I am going to make the round trip, and get home for Christmas."

They laid his head back on the pillow. He had made the round trip. He had gone home for Christmas.

Proverbs of Affection.

Hot love is soon cold.
Love and a cough wont hide.
Where pride begins, love ceases.
Faults are thick where love is thin.
Sweet is the love that meets return.
The heart's letter is read in the eyes.
Love and lordship make no fellowship.
Love lies in cottages as well as in courts.
The remedy for love is—land between.
Absence sharpens love, presence strengthens it.
Love can hope, where reason would despair.
In the husband, wisdom; in the wife, gentleness.
Kind confidence begets confidence, and love begets love.
Nothing is more tender, nothing mere violent, than love.
The science of love is the philosophy of the heart.
Love cannot be bought or sold; its only price is love.
Solid love whose root is virtue can no more die than virtue itself.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: "23 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 28, 1882.

"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the inclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the SARSAPARILLA in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882. Yours gratefully,
HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.
