

MR. AND MRS. ALLISON W. ROGERS

St. Patrick's Church Is Scene Of Lovely Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized on August 16 at 9 a.m. in St. Patrick's Church, Grand River, when Lillian Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sank Praught, became the bride of Allison William Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers, Indian River. Rev. Pius Murnaghan performed the ceremony. Baskets of mixed summer flowers and white gladioli made a beautiful floral setting for the wedding. Mrs. Harold MacIntyre, organist and choir director, accompanied the St. Patrick's Ladies Choir as they sang appropriate hymns during the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mrs. John Praught, was lovely in her wedding gown of nylon net over tulle with rhinestone trim. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a tiara of rhinestones and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses with white streamers. Miss Geraldine McKinnon, as bridesmaid, was gowned in light blue nylon over tulle with matching headress and mits and she carried a bouquet of Better Time roses. Mr. Leonard MacLellan was groomsman and Messrs. George Whitney and Tilmon Landry ushered the guests to their pews which were marked with white satin bows. Mrs. Praught chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of Royal blue crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother wore an ice blue tulle dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. A reception for thirty-five guests was held at Birch Hill Lodge. For a honeymoon trip to Charlotte and other points east, the bride changed to a grey and blue two piece linen dress, with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers and Mrs. Thomas Rogers, Indian River; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Howatt, Mangate, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crozier, Kensington; Mr. and Mrs. Landry Tilmon, Summerside; Mr. and Mrs. George Whitney, Tampa, Florida; Mrs. Penny, Boston, Massachusetts; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Praught, Halifax, N.S. MARY HAWORTH

Engaged Girl Opposed To Fiance's Friendship

Dear Mary Haworth — My fiancée is going to be best man at his friend's wedding. His friend does not approve of me, because I am of a different nationality and different religion. He has tried to persuade my fiancée to leave me. Surprisingly, my fiancée has told me of this. Perhaps I am wrong, but I feel that my fiancée shouldn't act as best man for this "friend" who rejects me. However, he has already accepted. Furthermore, I don't think he should continue the friendship. After all, I am to be his wife; and shouldn't he be loyal to me? I know that I am making life uncomfortable for my fiancée, because he is being pulled two ways. But I feel very strongly about this. I don't want to marry a man who will continue to be friends with persons who are so prejudiced against me. Can you help me?—E.B. Dear E.B.: Let's call your fiancée Joe, and his friend, Harry. Evidently Joe is a pretty weak character, who gravitates to stronger personalities, to create a pattern of living for him. Joe has found a strong woman in you—a person of sterling values and sound convictions, and the spunky decisiveness to stand up frankly for what you believe

CAPTIVATING CLOCHE

AS WITH clothes, there's such a wealth of line and design in hats that it is virtually impossible to find a real flatterer. If you love the cloche and if you enjoy rich, beaver-type felt and jeweled touches, this one is for you. It's neatly priced, too. The soft and lofty cloche is fashioned of spice-colored beaver type felt, its puffy crown caught here and there with gold and topaz ornaments.

The president, Mrs. J.M. Burgess opened the meeting in the usual manner and the routine business was conducted.

Correspondence was read and acted upon and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. The officers are the following: John Owen, President, Adele Beck, Vice President, Maud Kella, secretary, Laurie MacLean, Treasurer. Following the election of officers, various committee chairmen were elected. It was announced that Dr. Beck would be leading a new class on Tuesday nights comprising all young people over 18 or not attending school, or college. At the conclusion of the business meeting a social under the leadership of Lee Kitchen was enjoyed.

Central Christian Church Y. P. S. Elects Officers

The first meeting of the 1958-59 Central Christian Young People's Society was held in the Church annex on Tuesday, September 9.

The meeting was called to order by vice-president, Maurice McCabe. A lively sing-song was led by Eugene Gray, followed by scripture reading by Ruth Burke. Lee Kitchen and Katherine Beck sang a duet, "How Great Thou Art," following the devotional the business meeting was held and the officers for the ensuing year were elected.

to be right. Probably it is this sive aspect of your character that bothers his friend Harry, who is accustomed to having the last word with Joe, I gather.

Now that Harry is taking a wife, he probably would like to put over his idea of a suitable marriage for Joe, so that the two men might continue their buddy association, without any managerial-type conflict from either wife. And it seems that Harry foresees difficulty with you.

ACCUSTOMED TO ADVICE No doubt Harry has grown accustomed to advising Joe, and having Joe accept his guidance; and he isn't prepared to close out this chapter of experience, when marriage moves in to his life, and Joe's.

In a way, it is surprising that Joe is reporting Harry's hostility to you. Surprising in the sense that a man usually doesn't visit disagreeable sentiments upon his beloved. Ordinarily, a good man tries to shield her from that sort of thing. But perhaps it isn't surprising in Joe, who, with habitual dependency, is unconsciously looking to you to help him, somehow, to either change Harry's views, or gain the strength to marry you despite Harry's disapproval.

If Joe is being pulled two ways in the matter, as you say, that is no more your fault than it is Harry's. It merely signifies neurosis in Joe, the pivotal character. It means that he hasn't yet developed a mind of his own. He isn't a man in his own right.

So, if you feel very strongly that he is putting you in a bad position with his neutralist attitude—and I agree that he is—you probably ought to think twice about marrying him. If he is not prepared to forsake all other associations as necessary to render whole-hearted allegiance to you, then he isn't basically qualified to be your spouse.—M.H.

ALEXANDRA W.I.

The September meeting of the Alexandra W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Judson with an attendance of eight members and one visitor present.

ELLEN'S DIARY

A Yarn About A Skunk— It's A Curious Affair!

"He asks so little—only to be out of doors," we commented to Granddaughter of the (about) sixteen-month lad of the place, whose face pressed against a screen-door was most wistful as he surveyed the inviting afternoon beyond.

"We're about to go back to the garden in the field" she offered. What a happy expression at once replaced the former forlorn as he reached out arms to put on the jacket she held. How happy then the young smiles

Much treasure of field she brought home with him later in the baby-carriage that had been first of all hers. Beans and peas, white of onions, red of beet, bluish of ripening tomato. And where the child's feet nestled in obvious content, rested a sheaf of grain to make a new and interesting scratch for the fowls. Mother Earth, it seemed had poured liberally from her Horn of Plenty upon the children, these varied gifts of the soil.

"Listen!" Granddaughter smiled. From far fields, sunnily hazy, above the sleepy crickets' tunes, came the sound of the binder. We thought of Keats' lines.

"Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness, Close bosom friend of the morn'g sun, Conspiring with him to laud and bless With fruit the vines, that round the thatch-eaves run."

This was indeed that season. And exceedingly beautiful then in the sunset when "earth was crimsoned with heaven" and every wandering sunbeam was now hastening home.

The harvesters were at work in the field of yesterday's "labors", back of the woodlands. Mack had changed quickly from school-to-field-clothes and gone on foot to join them. He came by to stop with us a moment before he left.

"Did you hear the yarn about the skunk?" he queried with a chuckle.

"No?" Well, yesterday one of the neighbors was cutting grain, and could you guess what happened? No? he shook his head, "nobody could! A skunk came in with the grain to the binder, and like it went clean through the machine—and he wasn't dead then. He had to be..."

"... dispatched?" "Yes, with a stick! Now wasn't that a curious happening?" he commented. "I'm glad" he grinned, "it didn't happen in our field! But you never know" he nodded, not altogether displeased with the thought of such excitement, "the like could happen again."

Before today's sun had finally assured the farmers of an afternoon—spell at the harvest, interests were centred on the carpentry in the piggery, an endeavour now almost complete. Stout pens and troughs of shining new board replace the former worn furnishings there.

"It did make quite an improvement" James said with a pleased smile this evening. "And it's good to have it all snug for the Fall."

Baby Alex asked so little of his day. What did we require of ours? Just to write this happy "All's Well!" at its close. Until tomorrow — — — Diary Good-night.

SUMMERFIELD C. W. L.

The September meeting of the Summerfield C. W. L. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Leslie Trainer, Emerald, with a large attendance of members.

Opening prayers were recited with the spiritual director, Rev. E. L. Murray. The secretary, Mrs. Spencer Hughes, read the minutes of the last meeting and correspondence received.

The treasurer, Mrs. Louis O'Connor, reported a good balance on hand after dues were paid and money donated towards church expenses. Several conveners gave their reports.

It was voted that the convenor of Education purchase Catechetical prizes for successful candidates.

The report of the Provincial Convention was given by the president to whom a vote of thanks was tendered by Mrs. Thomas Sullivan. On motion all bills were paid.

Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, Mrs. Mrs. Murphy, and Mrs. Emmett Clow, volunteered to make new altar linens. It was suggested a question box be held at the next meeting at the home of Mrs. John Hagen.

Following adjournment the meeting closed with prayer and lunch was served by the hostess, and piano selections by Miss Kathleen Smith were much enjoyed.

The peach producing areas of Ontario are the Niagara fruit belt and the counties of Essex, Kent and Lambton. In these areas soil and climate lend themselves admirably to the production of high quality peaches.

The fresh peach season extends from about July 20 to Sept. 25. Tests show that Ontario peaches compare favourably in texture, flavour and appearance with the world.
