Temperance on the Railways.

The enforcement of temperance principles among employes of railways is rapidly coming into favor in Canada. The Grand Trunk and the New Brunswick Railway Companies have already adopted this rule, and among the Quebec dispatches lately is the following:—

"The Chronicle announces that in view of the approaching opening through to Montreal of the North Shore Railway, a circular has been issued to the employes of the road, impressing upon them the importance of efficiently discharging their respective duties in a manner satisfactory to their employers and in the interest and safety of the public. To enable them to do this effectively, they are particularly warned against the vice of intemperance. Instant dismissal without any claim for re-employment is to be the penalty of any official of the line who is found intoxicated, who comes to his duties under the influence of liquor, or found drinking during office hours or while on duty. All engine drivers, firemen, switchmen, operators, train despatchers and section foremen are recommended to be teetotalers, and in advancement or preference in the service of the line, total abstinence is to be an essential requirement in the selection for promotion."

Fireside Sparks.

(From Punch.)
The worst use Workmen's Clubs can be put to—to strike.

Squire (on Christmas eve, to Bachelor Curate of his parish): "Do you dine at home to-morrow, Mr. Snallpay?" Curate in grateful anticipation of an invitation to the Hall: "Yes." Squire (who is horticultural): "Then I'll take care that your table is well supplied with celery."

Mamma: "Papa, dear, the children have been asked to the Willoughby Robinsons' on the 11th and Howard Jones' on the 15th and the Talbot Brownes' on the 21st. They'll be dreadfully disappointed if you don't let them go." May I write and accept, dear papa." Dear papa (savagely): "Oh, just as you please. But as juvenile parties should always be taken in time, you had better write to Dr. Squills, too, and tell him to call on the 12th, 16th and 22nd."

Mrs. Lyon Hunter—"How do you do, Mr. Brown? Let me present you to the Duchess of Stilton. Your Grace, permit me to present to you, Mr. Brown, the distinguished scholar." Her Grace (affably): "Charmed to make your acquaintance—er—Mr. Brown." Mr. Brown (with effusion): "Your Grace is really too kind. This is the ninth time I've enjoyed the distinction of being presented to your Grace within the last twelve months; but it's a distinction I value so highly, that without trespassing too much on your Grace's indulgence, I hope I may be occasionally permitted to enjoy it again." (Bows and ab-squatulates.)

(From Fun.)
First Youth—"Old Floggum's beginning the new year well. Did you notice the new cane?" Second Youth—"Rather—in fact, I was very much struck with it."

We note that a school of design for women in connection with the Academy of Arts, is about to be opened in Florence. Without wishing to be rude to the fair sex, we trust the idea will not be copied in England, for we think there are already too many designing women.

(From Judy.)
"Poor man," said Mrs. Partington, "and so he's really gone at last? Ninety-eight, was he? Dear, dear! to think how that if he'd lived two years more he'd have been a centurion."

Johnny stole one pancake, and got six spank-aches without stealing.

The harness maker's apprentice hopes to leave his employer a "saddler and a wiser man."

A village shoemaker, with a literary turn of mind, has the following poetical gem attached to his shingle:

Here lives a man who never refuses,
To mend all sorts of boots and shoeses,
"Carumpumpulate" is the latest bit of American word-coinage. The verb admits of wide application.

"Thus do we burn the midnight toil," said the facetious editor as he consigned old Mumblepeg's manuscript to the stove.

Remark made by one of a pit audience to his neighbor during the first two scenes of Romeo and Juliet at a recent country performance: "There seems to be a deal of bad blood between these two families."

Jeems: "I see, Robin, that the New York Herald says we're tea has another storm next Monday." Robin: "Man its terrible. Since the Yankees hiv gotten the weather into their keeping we've a storm every other day."

POLICE!—One day last week a crowd collected outside the Reform Club, eagerly watching one of the windows, at which stood a respectable elderly gentleman plainly and neatly attired, who was evidently the object of the curiosity of the mob. On inquiry it transpired that the excitement was occasioned by it having become known that he had never, in a life extending over nearly seventy years, received a post-card from Mr. Gladstone.

Miscellaneous News.

Song of the Baker—"I knead thee every hour." The first note of the song is dough.

The authorities of Malta have decided to impose 21 days quarantine on vessels arriving from Russian ports in the Black Sea and the Sea of Azof.

The Voice Della Verita says that taking into account the great distress prevailing, greater in fact than is generally known, the Catholics of Rome have contributed largely to relieve dire and noble poverty in which the head of the Church is constrained to live.

The Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster will leave England for Rome early in February. It is understood that his Eminence visits Rome at the special invitation of his Holiness the Pope to consult in matters relating to the organization and extension of the Catholic Church in Great Britain. The Cardinal Archbishop is not expected to return before the Easter holidays.

A ghostly banquet was recently given at Hochenschwangau by King Louis of Bavaria. A dinner was held in honor of Louis XIV. of France and twelve of the most celebrated men of his court, the Bavarian monarch sitting down at table with his thirteen imaginary guests. After dinner the German King went to his stable, mounted his horse, and commenced to ride round and round until he had completed a distance equivalent to that between Hochenschwangau and Innsbruck, stopping at intervals to breakfast and dine as if he had been actually on the road.—Graphic.

About the beginning of September last, Isabella Murdoch, seventeen years of age, residing with her parents at Falkirk, was bit on the heel by a cat while in the act of leaving bed. The wound healed kindly, and no danger was apprehended till recently, when the girl became ill. Her medical attendant, Dr. Hamilton, being of opinion that the symptoms were those of hydrophobia, treated her accordingly. The patient, however, became worse, and was removed a short time ago to Chalmers' Hospital, Edinburgh, where she died the day after being admitted.

It is said of Lord Guilford, son of Lord North, that he once described his feelings in his effort to address the House of Commons as follows:—"I once attempted to speak in Parliament, and it was not unnatural when I rose that my family name should at once fix every eye upon me. I brought out two or three sentences, when a mist seemed to rise before my eyes; I then lost my recollection, and could see nothing but the Speaker's wig, which swelled, and swelled, till it covered the whole House. I then sank back on my seat, and never attempted another speech, but quickly accepted the Chiltern Hundreds, assured that Parliament was not my vocation." Probably similar sensations will overtake some of the new members of the Dominion Parliament, but they should always remember that Disraeli's first parliamentary effort was a signal failure.
