THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

This evening and the morning dailies supporting the Opposition report that Parliament voted, at the bidding of the Government, in the last hours of the session, in the absence of many of the members, the sum of $2,500,000 as a subsidy to the Hudson Bay Railway.

"Is it not a fact," said Senator Scott, "that the Government were going to vote this company $2,500,000, and because public opinion was so pronounced, did not dare do it?"

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It is said that John Morley will not seek reelection in any other district, but that he will retire from political life and devote himself to literature.

Perhaps Mr. Davis will at the request of one of his constituents, state whether he takes Mr. Laurier's view of the Manitoba School Question or that of Mr. Dalton McGee and the Toronto Globe? It is an interesting question and ought to be answered.

The results of the English elections in the counties are the same as in the towns and boroughs. As the Montreal Gazette remarks, the "House of Lords is getting its vindication. The Peers and the people are in agreement and are abolishing the abolitionists."

On the 30th of June the balance due the Merchants Bank of P. E. Island by the Government was $29,427, and the Merchants Bank of Halifax $39,359. There are two items added to the amount, $189,286, or considerably more than the total amount of our yearly subsidy. This, after all the taxes levied and gathered in last year?

The Ottawa Journal notes that "a remarkable feature of the debate on the McCarthy resolution re Manitoba schools, was that members on the Conservative side of the House did practically all the talking. The Liberals were conspicuous only by their silence. This led Dr. Weldon to charge them with timidity, and being afraid to grapple with the question and to state where they stood on it. Perhaps "timidity" may be the word to use in reply to the letter of our correspondent, "A Constituent." "Timidity" is a good word.

The statements of imports and exports for the month of June, which appeared in the Canada Gazette of Saturday, shows that the revenue is steadily increasing, and that the exports of Canadian products are still about the average, although there has been a sharp falling off in the produce of other countries. For the month of June the total value entered for consumption was $8,779,839, a decline of $650,654 from the same month last year. The duty collected was $1,610,542, an increase of $325,168. The exports for June were $10,567,717, a falling off of $2,656,526, which is in goods not the produce of Canada.

In a letter to the London Times Bishop Tugwell, of Western Equatorial Africa, says that the natives are killing themselves with drink furnished to them by the Christian merchants of Europe in return for the native commodities. On the way to a certain town, he says, he was told that the town was drunk and he found it to be the case. "Legions of bottles," he declares, "met my eyes on all sides; warehouses of prodigious size filled with intoxicating drinks; canoes heavily laden with demijohns of rum; the green boxes in which the gin is packed are here, there and everywhere." This is disgraceful to the Christian merchants.

The Montreal Globe apparently remarks that The Toronto Globe says there should be no Parliamentary interference with Manitoba's school laws, and adds that when the time comes the people of Ontario will see that there is none. The people of Quebec must be told, it goes on, that the attempt at coercion must be futile. The Globe can be fairly counted as speaking the opinion of Ontario liberals. Its voice is in direct opposition to that of the Liberal representatives and the Liberal press of Quebec. Mr. Laurier has an excuse for refusing to define his policy. He shows how the gentlemen fret when caught between his Satanic majesty and the deep sea.

"Americans" may not always speak free. The Rev. Joseph Cook was in Honolulu on 4th July, and there was an observance of the United States national holiday, at which Mr. Willis the United States minister, presided. Invited to speak, Mr. Cook took advantage of the opportunity to attack President Cleveland and his foreign policy. Mr. Willis at once called him to order and said it was not the time or the place for a partisan deliverance. Mr. Cook vigorously remonstrated and declared that he was not to be suspended. But Mr. Willis was firm, and the audience by its applause indicated that it approved of his view. Finally Mr. Cook left the platform and the hall.

Great Britain has been striving for several years to change the taste of the tea drinkers of the world—to convince them that India and Ceylon teas are better worth using than those of China, Japan and Java. Russia, which uses about 70,000,000 pounds a year, has taken a strong fancy to the Ceylon teas, and the demand shows a remarkable increase. Large amounts of money have been spent in creating a demand in the United States and Canada. The English circles say the progress has been slow, and now the expenditure, "after several years of anxious work and costly expenditure," has nearly doubled—from 1,300,000 pounds to about 2,300,000 pounds a year. The Australian colonies appear to be relying on to drink the English product from patriotic motives.

President Cleveland comes to the front with a glowing testimony that he is happy, though married. Writing to congratulate a friend about to wed, the president says: "As I look back upon the years that have passed since God, in His infinite goodness, bestowed upon me the best of all His gifts—a loving and affectionate wife—all else, honor, the opportunity of usefulness and the esteem of my fellow countrymen, are subordinated in every aspiration of gratitude and thankfulness. You will, I know, feel that our kind wishes can reach no greater sincerity and fervent desire than that you and your bride may enjoy the same felicity that has made our married life one grand, sweet song." Good enough. And as the world gets on, there are, we are sure, more and more people who can say with truth what Grover Cleveland says. With the more just idea of the mutual responsibilities of married life which grows with the spread of education and intelligence, there is, the Ottawa Globe hopes and believes an increasing amount of mutual love and respect and happiness between man and wife.

For the twelve months of the fiscal year the total duties for consumption have been $105,557,992 and the duty collected $17,880,623, as compared with $112,931,801 entered for consumption and $19,378,106 duty collected in the same period last year. The total duties for the twelve months have been $110,765,103, as compared with $114,488,718, a falling off of $3,723,616, of which $924,048 is in the produce of Canada and $2,799,568 in the produce of other countries. The following table shows the increases and decreases for the twelve months in goods the produce of Canada:

Table with 2 columns: 1893-4, 1894-5. Rows include Produce of mines, Fisheries, Produce of forest, Animals and their products, Agriculture, Manufactures, Miscellaneous, and Coins and bullion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

TO WHICH WING DOES HE BELONG? Sir—While I sympathize with Mr. L. H. Davies in his desire to get away from Ottawa as soon as possible, and while I admit the strong influences which combined to draw him to his native Province and his home, I cannot but regret that he left the capital without having himself on record in regard to the Manitoba School question. We ought to know whether he sides with the Liberal wing of Quebec, which would have the Government because they have not allowed the Manitoba Act or forced Remedial Legislation through Parliament, or the Liberal wing which would hang the Government because, after giving Manitoba every chance to right itself, the Government failed to do so, to bring in Remedial Legislation. In politics as in religion, a man ought to be either a man or a mouse. A leading member of the Opposition, who is usually quick to declare his opinions, ought not to be so clear about letting his constituents know what he and his party would do under all the circumstances. Surely he ought, before he came away from the Capital, have seized upon an opportunity to let the people know what he thinks about a matter of so much interest. Had he been remained in his seat when the McCarthy vote came up, we should have known by his action whether or not he thinks the Government have done right in the premises. But he rushed off just before McCarthy's motion was announced, and came away home to breathe of his native air. This is not like our Prince Rupert. It is not satisfactory.

A CONSTITUENT.

DR. McDUGALL'S LECTURES. Sir—A paragraph in yesterday's Examiner informing its readers that "large audiences greeted Dr. McDugall at Philharmonie Hall yesterday" (Sunday) requires a little notice. The afternoon audience was about the usual number that attend the regular meetings held by the Railway men; the evening audience, however, perhaps, the smallest public meeting ever held in the city. J. Spencer Ellis's first meeting was in 1887. The writer in yesterday's paper would seem to place no difference between speaking in a meeting and writing; hence he may regard it as not morally wrong to write a letter. We are further told that the "Dr." presented his subjects in an amicable and unassuming manner. Yes, truly. His object was "to carry conviction," but how miserable the failure! For, I venture affirm, that, apart from the three followers, no one believed in the "Dr." or his subjects in an amicable and unassuming manner. The Bible or his God of the Bible, both which he spoke of in most reprehensible terms by prolonged invectives. The weakness of the cause presented was clearly felt both by the "Dr." himself and his three friends by their refusal to accept a challenge to discuss disputed points. For this refusal the audience branded the quartette as moral cowards. The disgraceful and humiliating part of the affair, that any one professing the Christian religion should have let the Hall for such a vile purpose as it was engaged for.

CITY, JULY 23, 1895.

A RICH TREAT. Sir—If our theatre goes with "large audiences" they will cast their ballots for "Our Boys." The company at present playing here showed themselves to be all artists last night—"Our Boys," which is to the drama what Pinocchio is to the opera, will be many years abroad. It was played here about fifteen years ago to a large and enthusiastic audience. Vote for "Our Boys" and see the old buttermilk.

THEATRE GOER.

IS THERE ANY DIFFERENCE? Sir—Would the foreman of the late Grand Jury, also the tailors who prosecuted the Suit Club case against G. A. Dixon, kindly inform the public what the difference is between the scheme now run by one of our grand juries and that run by G. A. Dixon, for which he was tried before the Grand Jury—and he did not advertise his scheme by circular or through the press.

ANSWERS ESQUIRE.

VOTE FOR "OUR BOYS." Sir—Last night at the Opera House votes were taken for a play on Thursday night. Among the list of plays is "Our Boys." This is a good play and the company could not do better than produce it. I remember when in London seeing it produced, and in my opinion it is well worth seeing. By all means drop your ballot for it.
