

FIGHTERS WIND UP TRAINING

"Balding Bud" Ramsay of the Summerside is seen at Civic Stadium where he winds up training tonight in preparation for the Wednesday night 10 round main event in Summerside against Roy "Tiger" Steele of Charlotteville and New Glasgow, N.S. This boxer...

Walter "Peanuts" Arsenault is seen late evening shortly after receiving word that because of an injury to his opponent Al MacKall of New Glasgow, he will be matched against an even more formidable opponent in the person of Doug "Sluggo" Turnbull of New Glasgow, in a six round event on tomorrow night's boxing card at Summerside.

SPORTS FRONT

Robin Roberts got a victory to his credit Saturday afternoon but in the first inning it looked very much as if the Phillies were bound they were not going to give him any runs to work on. It was the last of the first with Philadelphia batting. Runners were on first and second there was nobody out. The batter connected for the doubling double which Bob made a game effort to grab. The batters, fearing Bell would make the catch held up. The batter however was off with the crack of the bat. The Sox really folded. They led the man on first when the ball was hit, finally overtaking Ritchie Ashburn who had been on second. The "order of march" was finally rectified with Ashburn darting from home and being out at the plate. The next in line was caught between third and home and the batter narrowly missed being tagged at third which he took amid all the confusion. The next batter fled out and the Phils settled that inning without a run. How often have you seen or heard a batter hit a two-base knock with runners on base and as a result a double play follows. This time it narrowly missed being a triple killing. The game ended 5-4 for the Phils but if Roberts had needed those two runs some base runners' faces would have been red indeed. As it was they must have blushed pretty well.

The Boston Red Sox once again are doing their bit to help New York Yankees win the American League pennant by falling down every time the Stengelman take a look at them. Sunday afternoon Bob Turley won his eighth game as the Bombers walloped the Bostonians 10-4. But it was Saturday that the Sox really folded. They led 3-0 with the Yanks coming to bat in the top of the ninth. The New Yorkers rallied for three, then won the issue in the tenth.

It was only last week that rumblings were heard that the Yankees were thinking of cutting Enos Slaughter loose. The old veteran must have heard the news and decided Saturday to do something about the matter. He came up as a pinch hitter in the ninth and got himself a single. Then in the tenth he merely won the ball game for reliever Duren by slamming out a two-run homer.

If nobody else is going to try to catch the Yankees, the Kansas City Athletics can't be accused of any such quitting. When the Yanks lost four in a row, the A's were winning three. Over the weekend the underated K.C. outfit kept pace by winning both their ball games from the faltering Cleveland Indians. Right now the Athletics are four games above the .500 mark and are still getting good pitching and some surprising hitting. Ray Herbert gave them a complete game Sunday, tossing a six hitter and Gorman and Urban combined for a five-hitter on Saturday. Bob Cerv continued to wield the big bat, slamming home run No. 14 on Saturday.

Nobody should discount those Athletics. They have inspiration from their early season successes and have enough material to make it rough for everyone from here home.

St. Louis Cardinals picked by many to provide Milwaukee Braves with the stiffest opposition in the National League, are beginning to some sense of living up to that reputation. The Red Birds split a pair with the world champions the first part of last week, then proceeded to take three out of four from the front-running Giants. Right now they trail San Francisco by seven games but only five in the all-important lost column. They are only three games below the .500 clip, with 19 wins to go with 22 losses. Saturday they showed great comeback ability. They trailed Bill Rigney's gang 8-1 as late as the fifth, yet bounced back to win the slugfest 10-9 in 12 innings.

Yes, it looks like the Birds have really begun to fly. Those who at present occupy loftier positions in the league standing had better watch out for Hutchinson and company.

Junior Basilia Youth Club did the unexpected Sunday when they downed RCAF Flyers twice in the Airmen's own park for their first two wins of this 1958 softball season.

The Juniors looked good defensively in their two first games in Charlotteville getting good pitching performances from Garnet Steale, John Hughes and Father Clarence Roche. But their bats lacked authority and they were shut out on both occasions. They remedied this defect on Sunday in Summerside getting 19 runs across the Airmen. And they came up with two more pitchers in John MacDonald and Mike O'Brien who both went the distance in gaining their victories.

The Juniors' double win made the league look a lot better. There's seems little doubt that the Airmen will be able to look after themselves with a few more practices under their belts. Their twin loss has not by any means established them as the soft touch in the league.

Barry's Lions, however, are still the ones to down in this five team loop but it's going to be quite a battle to wrest first place away from last year's provincial winners. From here it looks like plenty of great softball competition this season of 1958.

Los Angeles Dodgers are still ten games out of first place in the National League race but they enjoyed a most satisfactory weekend at the expense of the Chicago Cubs. Carl Erskine and Fred Kipp combined their pitching talents Saturday as Alston's boys won 9-4 and Stan Williams, making his first major league start on Sunday tossed a brilliant two-hitter to earn a 1-0 decision over Dick Droit and his Chicago Cubs.

Duke Snider got in on the action Saturday by walloping a four-base blast. Game little Don Zimmer also belted a home run. The Dodgers are still in the cellar but at least they are beginning to show some signs of moving to other less embarrassing positions. A long winning streak could still make the Los Angeles crew a power to be reckoned with. How about it Dodgers?

Billy Loes, who lost his fifth straight game Sunday, may be just about the end of his big league career.

The temperamental moundsman, once a problem child of Brooklyn Dodgers, got some extra heavy pampering from Baltimore Oriole manager Paul Richards in the hope that it would pay dividends. But even Richards was disgusted Sunday when Billy blew his top and went after umpire Larry Napp for a call at the score and a man took third while Loes played the part of the spoiled child.

Richards showed great patience with Mr. Loes but even his patience had to be at the breaking point. You can put up with a guy when he wins ball games for you but when he loses five in a row and displays fits of bad temper like the exhibition Sunday you can be sure even a fellow like Paul Richards goes sour. Loes drew a $100 fine from his manager and an indefinite suspension from the club.

Nuxhall Stars; Redlegs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS Joe Nuxhall was a one-in-man show Monday as he turned in his first route-going pitching performance of the season for an 8-2 victory by Cincinnati Redlegs over Pittsburgh Pirates. It was the only scheduled game in the National League.

In the American League, two night games were scheduled, Chicago at New York and Washington at Baltimore. Nuxhall allowed the Pirates seven hits and struck out eight. At the plate he got three hits, drove in two runs and scored two himself. He also stole a base. He got some lusty batting support from his teammates, too, with Don Hoak contributing a triple and Steve Mako a double. The victory moved the Redlegs into fourth place in the National League.

The Redlegs clipped Pirate starter R. G. Smith for a pair of runs in the opening inning. Cincinnati added two more in the fourth and knocked Smith out in the next frame when Hoak homered after Smoke Burgess walked. Nuxhall's bid for a shutout was blasted in the ninth as Frank Thomas doubled two runs home with two out.

HAS WRONG SLANT ON RACE

MONTREAL (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Stephens of Montreal and the police are wondering why someone apparently thinks the paymaster at a race track can determine which horse is to win a race. Mr. Stephens, paymaster at a Montreal harness racing track received an anonymous telephone call Saturday afternoon just before he left for his job at the track. The caller said a very important letter would be left on his doorstep "in a few minutes."

The letter was found on the doorstep as promised. It included was a racing form with 10 selections. The letter, whose words were clipped from a newspaper, said "if these horses don't win" a building in the area would be blown up. It was signed "disgusted."

Mr. Stephens passed the incident off, but Mrs. Stephens phoned the police, who posted a guard at their home. Soon afterwards the same man called again and asked if the Stephens had received the letter. He immediately hung up.

A check after the races showed that two of the 10 selections won. And no buildings in the area of the Stephens' home have been blown up.

Annual Banquet Of Bowlers Held

The annual banquet of the five pin and candle pin leagues of the Charlotteville area was held Saturday night, May 31 in Spring Park Hall. Before the presentation of prizes and awards a delicious turkey supper was enjoyed by all.

The winning five pin team was the Red Sox composed of Sterling Roberts (capt.), Ralph Pinau, Harold Poulton, Apps Arsenault, Len Arsenault, Frank Acorn and Billy Acorn.

Candle pin champions were also the Red Sox. Team members in this competition were Sterling Roberts (capt.), Apps Arsenault, Ralph Pinau, Charles Weatherbie, Donnie Richards and Phil Perry.

Individual awards went to: Apps Arsenault—high single in five pins—2 perfect game—450; High three—David Livingstone—873; High Averages—Phil Perry, 773; Tax-230.7. A gold medal from the Brunswick Bowling Tournament was presented to Apps Arsenault for his perfect 450

Senators Edge Orioles; Yanks Blank White Sox

BALTIMORE (AP)—Washington defeated Baltimore 2-1 Monday night when Albie Pearson singled home Clint Courtney in the 10th inning and broke up a tense mound duel between the Senators' Hal Griggs and the Orioles' Jack Harshman. Griggs gave up six hits in winning his second against one loss. He allowed only one extra base hit, Brooks Robinson's double in the fourth inning, when the Orioles scored the run. With the bases loaded, Griggs walked pinch hitter Bob Boyd to force in the run. Roy Sievers gave the Senators a 1-0 lead in the top of that inning when he hit his eighth homer of the season and his 123th with the club, a record for Washington. Goose Goslin held the former mark of 127. The Senators pulled the first triple play of the American League season in the sixth inning. Lennie Green singled through the box and Jim Marshall walked. Then shortstop Rocky Bridges grabbed Brooks Robinson's sinking liner near second, stepped on the bag to double up Green and threw to Julio Becquer, trapping Marshall off first.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Bauer belted a pair of homers and Mickey Mantle hit another Monday night, giving New York Yankees a 3-0 victory over Chicago White Sox. Victory Ford tied an American League record by striking out six in a row and won his fifth straight with his first shutout in two years. Ford, now 6-2, gave up seven hits, walked four and finished with 10 strikeouts. Ford was given a quick lead on Mantle's fifth home run in the first inning off right-hander Jim Wilson.

The modern major league record for consecutive strikeouts is eight, set by Milwaukee's Max Sur against Cincinnati May 25, 1953.

Chavez Ravine Battle On Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter O'Malley took over the pitching chores for the Dodgers Monday in the big battle for Chavez Ravine. While Carl Erskine, Johnny Podres and other Dodger hurlers rested, the portly president served up a dazzling assortment of pitches in the club's campaign for a ball park site on city-owned property.

The voters step up to the ballot box today and along about 10 or 11 p.m. O'Malley should know whether they've knocked him clear out of the park or whether he has finally found a home for the little band he led so hopefully from Brooklyn earlier in the year. Opposing O'Malley Monday in the windup of the heated campaign over the Chavez Ravine contract is city councilman John Holland. O'Malley's most effective pitch during a busy round of speeches at public gatherings and over television was his money pitch, delivered with varied twists. "I don't know how much money major league baseball will bring to Los Angeles," he said, "but baseball fans have spent about $35,000,000 in Milwaukee since the Braves moved there."

Holland also relied heavily on his money pitch. He said the Chavez Ravine site has a commercial value of $18,000,000, yet all the city will get in return is a minor league park (Wrigley Field) and its 10-acre site, valued at $2,500,000.

While the two main antagonists battled in the final inning, a tremendous pro - Dodger surge, built around the team's return from a long eastern road trip, gave heart to those hoping for a favorable vote on the referendum. A crowd estimated at 7,500 met the Dodgers at the airport Sunday night in what must rank as the most enthusiastic greeting ever given to a last place ball club. The arrival was shown on television as the climax to a five-hour show in which scores of top movie and TV stars paraded before the cameras to urge approval of the contract.

Barry's Lions sat out game. ST. LOUIS (AP)—Tension and fatigue were the reason for one of the most unusual days in Stan Musial's major league career. The 37-year-old St. Louis Cardinal, standing on the National League's leading hitter with a .431 average, sat out an entire game Sunday. The Cards lost 7-2 to San Francisco.

Not in 15 years—since someone had the foolish notion Musial couldn't hit left-handers—had he been benched for an entire contest on a single-game date except for illness or injury. A muscle in The Man's left leg has been bothering him. And he has been feeling the effects of heavy duty on the banquet circuit, intensified by the hubbub occasioned by his arrival at the 3,000-hit milestone recently.

"We don't play until Tuesday night and that should be time enough to get him over the hump," said Cardinal trainer Bob Bauman.

Herb Score's Arm Is O.K.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Herb Score, Cleveland snotpaw pitcher who has been inactive since April 30, was assured Monday there is nothing permanently wrong with his ailing arm.

However, an orthopedic specialist could give him no definite advice on when he could start pitching again. Score's left arm started to ache in a game in Washington at the end of April. He was making a comeback from last season when he was hit in the eye by a batted ball.

Score has pitched only 30 innings this season for a 2-2 record. He will rejoin the Indians in Boston.

Probable Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP) — Probable pitchers for Tuesday's major league baseball games (won-lost records in brackets): American League Kansas City at Washington 2 (win-night)—Terry (2-4) and Keller (0-1) vs. Griggs (1-1) and Kemmerer (1-2). Detroit at Baltimore (N)—Bunting (2-4) vs. Johnson (1-4). Chicago at New York (N) Donovan (2-5) or Moore (1-1) vs. Sturdivant (1-2) or Kucks (3-1). Cleveland at Boston (N)—Tomaneck (1-1) or Grant (4-2) vs. Brewer (1-5).

National League Pittsburgh at St. Louis (N)—Law (5-3) vs. Jackson (3-2). Philadelphia at Chicago — Simmons (4-5) vs. Phillips (3-0). Cincinnati at Los Angeles (N)—Lawrence (1-3) vs. Koufax (2-1). Milwaukee at San Francisco (N)—Burdette (4-3) vs. Gomez (5-3).

national did his level best to come to grips, and his aggressiveness won him the decision, but he wasn't as impressive as he can be when someone wades in and trades punches with him. The Oliver-Rogers go should draw a lot of rural fans to the Stadium Wednesday evening. They are big strong boys who haul off and let 'er go. Even the ref has to be sharp to keep out of the way of stray shots. We think if some of the other boxers took some of Oliver's or Rogers' Sunday punches, they'd have to be carried out of the ring, but the two big boys keep coming in for more. A he-man struggle it is bound to be, and one that many fans will get a real thrill out of.

The last boxing card at Civic Stadium rated with the best. Wednesday's card bids fair to top it by a wide margin.

Noureddin Out Of Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Noureddin, who finished third in the Kentucky Derby, was definitely withdrawn Monday from the $100,000-added Belmont Stakes by trainer J. H. (Slim) Pierce because of a foot injury. A small field of about six appeared likely for the mile-and-one-half three-year-old classic Saturday in which the Calumet Farm's Tim Tam will attempt to complete a sweep of the Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown. Noureddin is owned by Dr. Peter Graffagnino of New Orleans, who would have had to put up a $5,000 supplementary nomination fee by Monday night to make the colt eligible.

The first three finishers in last Saturday's Peter Pan Handicap are definitely starters in the 90th running of the Belmont. They are Joseph E. O'Connell's Flamingo, the winner, C. V. Whitney's Cavando and the Wheatley Stable's Nasco. Only eight horses have swept the triple, the last being Citation 10 years ago. Citation and Whirlaway, the 1941 winner, also were Calumet Farm colts. The others were Sir Barton (1919), Gallant Fox (1930), Omaha (1935), War Admiral (1937), Count Fleet (1943), and Assault (1946).

At the same time Kaline told about his arrangement, usually reliable sources reported several other Tigers players, including left fielder-first baseman Charlie Maxwell, made similar bonus agreements. M a x w e l l ' s clause was reported to call for an added $2,000 if he hits 25 home runs or drives in 100 runs.

Softball Activity

The rain really caught up with the City Softball League activity last night. Shamrocks and R. C. A. F. were to tangle at Victoria Park and Junior B. Y. C. and Rollaway Aces were scheduled to meet at Queen Charlotte diamond.

All games last week were played in drizzles but the rain came in real earnest last night and forced postponements of both encounters. The Aces and Junior B. Y. C. are going to try to get their ball game in tonight but the Shamrocks and R. C. A. F. will not make it before Thursday night at the earliest.

Wednesday night a meeting is called for Union Hall, Queen Street. At this meeting, the president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and a representative from each team will attend. The meeting will be held following Wednesday evening's games.

Kip Ready will umpire this evening's games between Rollaway Aces and Junior Basilia Youth Club at Queen Charlotte diamond. Game time is 6 o'clock.

French Colt Derby Choice

LONDON (AP) — The French colt Noelore II was quoted as the 9-2 favorite Monday for the Epsom Derby Wednesday, although his jockey, Maximino Garcia, is practically a stranger to the mile-and-one-half stretch of turf. Another French horse, Whalby II, was listed as second choice at 11-2.

Orioles Buy Souther

BALTIMORE (AP)—Southpaw Lou Sleater, who balked when Detroit tried to send him to Charleston, W. Va., was purchased Monday by Baltimore Orioles. The sale figure was not announced. Sleater pitched 5 1-3 innings, all in relief, for Detroit for a 0-0 record so far this season.
