Early Closing.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—We are now living in a progressive age, and I am pleased to see that our leading dry goods merchants are determined to keep pace with the times. They have made a step toward reform by consented to close their places of business at six o'clock in the evening, for a few weeks, in order that their employes may have a little time for healthful recreation; and I hope that these of our merchants who have not yet fallen into line, will reconsider the penny-wise and pound-foolish stand they have taken in this matter, and give to their clerks that amount of consideration and fair play denied only to slaves.

During the busy season in spring and fall most of our dry goods' clerks have to work very late hours, frequently until midnight, in fact all the year around they work longer hours than any other class of mechanics or labourers; and, in the face of all this, when a small share of fair play is asked by them, we will find men possessed of so little of the milk of human kindness, so devoid of gratitude, that they refuse to make the slightest concessions.

The interests of the merchants and their employes are identical in this case.

Clerks who feel that they are unjustly dealt with, or are denied privileges enjoyed by their brother clerks, cannot, and will not, serve their masters' interests with the same will did their masters manifest some interest in their welfare; and not only that, but after a few years they become broken down in health before they have reached the years of manhood, and are then unfit for any other position. There is plenty of room for healthy competition between merchants, without endeavouring to build up a trade at the expense of the health of their employes.

But, it may be said that customers who buy at night cannot do so in the day. I don't believe any such trash. I am quite satisfied that if people found that stores closed at six for a few weeks, they would make it a point to make their purchases before that hour. I could say more on this subject, but I will leave it until another time. I thank you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

ARABI POSES AS ONE INSPIRED.—NARRATIVE

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 5.—The Sultan whole day.

BRITISH PREPARATIONS.
LONDON, July 5.—Sir Charles Dilke stated in the House of Commons that further instructions had been sent to Admiral Seymour with regard to the armament of the forts at Alexandria which would meet any contingency. Notice has been sent from the War Office to sixty one towns in the Kingdom, including some in Ireland, ordering the military authorities to prepare for the immediate calling out of the reserves, and that he believed the summons would be issued before the end of the present week. The news foreshadows English armed intervention in Egypt, and says it would be penny wise to count the cost, which the news estimates at from £4,000, 000 to £4,500,000.

A battery of artillery has been ordered to be ready to embark for Malta.

The Standard's Bombay despatch confirms the statement that the Indian troops are about leaving the Suez. The troops will hold the line of canal between Suez and Ismailia. A separate line of railway will probably be constructed along the Canal.

Bombay, July 5.—Orders have been given to prepare a force of 1,800 English and 5,000 native troops, including three batteries of artillery, for Egypt. Large siege trains are being organized at Agra and Bou bay.

DEVONPORT, July 5.—The armored troop-ship "Thalia" has been ordered to prepare immediately to go into commission.

LONDON, July 5.—Orders have been sent to Woolwich, Chatham, and Aldershot, to prepare a rendezvous for the reserves.

DISTRIBUTION OF ARMS.
LONDON, July 5.—Twenty thousand arms have now been distributed to the various military centres, in readiness for arming the reserves. The distribution of 20,000 more has been ordered.

A Massachusetts professor has discovered that the Falls of Niagara have been receding less than half an inch every year.

He has calculated that about 1,267,700 years have been required for them to eat their way up the river to their present location. In that time ten miles of solid rock have been worn away, and the visitors of to-day behold the effect which water has had upon the tough limestone in the lefting cliffs which fringe the narrow river towards the north. The same exact professor believes that in about 3,153 years more the twenty-five miles of solid rock between the village of Niagara and Lake Erie will have been wasted away, and the natives of Buffalo, instead of organizing excursion parties and coming down to behold this wonderful cataract, will have it at their very doors.

A wine merchant at Neustadt, Germany, was recently fined 10,000 marks, had his entire stock confiscated, and was sent to prison for three years and a half for making a certain quantity of wine out of substances innocent in themselves but bearing no relationship to the grape.
