United States Trade with England.

The Commercial Enquirer contains an analysis of the trade between Great Britain and the United States for the year ending 30th June 1880, from which we gather some interesting facts. The following table shows the money value of exports of merchandise from the United States to the United Kingdom for the two years ended respectively June 30, 1879 and 1880:—

EXPORTS OF DOMESTIC PRODUCTS.
1880.	1879.
England.....	$354,091,535	$281,665,645
Scotland.....	28,241,373	22,616,756
Ireland.....	68,661,336	42,173,470
Total.....	$450,994,244	$346,455,871

EXPORTS OF FOREIGN PRODUCTS.
1880.	1879.
England.....	$2,574,893	$2,164,619
Scotland.....	109,546	129,295
Ireland.....	117,814	57,643
Total.....	$2,802,253	$2,351,557

The following table shows the money value of imports of merchandise from the United Kingdom in the same fiscal years:—

IMPORTS.
1880.	1879.
England.....	$189,266,307	$97,709,167
Scotland.....	17,046,332	8,736,538
Ireland.....	4,301,055	2,093,167
Total imports.....	$210,613,694	$108,538,872

It appears from the foregoing table that the increase of the United States exports to the United Kingdom, in 1880, was $104,968,058 against an increase of imports, from the same country, amounting to $102,074,881. It also appears that the balance of trade in favor of the United States, and against the United Kingdom, was:—

1880.	1879.
In 1880.....	$243,182,803

The following table shows United States imports from and exports to Great Britain, of coin and bullion, foreign and domestic in the aforesaid fiscal years:—

COIN AND BULLION.
Exports.	Imports.
1880.....	$ 4,746,007	$36,955,634
1879.....	14,185,507	3,432,954

Total Imports.....$40,288,539
Total Exports.....18,931,214

Excess of Imports.....$21,357,324

"It thus appears," says the Enquirer, "that we received coin and bullion to the amount of $21,457,374 in part payment of a balance in favor of the United States, amounting to $483,472,430, leaving a sum of $462,015,056 seemingly to their credit, and for which they received from Great Britain neither money nor merchandise. Yet we know that far from being her creditors, we are still largely indebted to her capitalists, who prize highly our securities, and owing to the state of the money market, have certainly not parted with any considerable quantity of them for the past eighteen months." Continuing, the Enquirer says:—

"It should first be observed that although our trade with the United Kingdom, taken separately, shows a balance in our favor of $483,000,000 in two years, our trade with all nations, including Great Britain and Ireland, reduces the figure to $432,345,578. And if we deduct from this the $71,189,050 in coin and bullion which we received from all countries during the two years under consideration, our apparent claim on the world, taken as a whole is further reduced to $361,156,528. This is the exact balance which England, as the clearing house of this planet, would have to pay us if we owed her nothing, either on money investments or for ocean transportation. Unfortunately, it is plain enough that we have contributed during the last two years $362,000,000 in cheap food and raw materials to the industrial supremacy of Great Britain, without receiving anything in exchange, besides contributing, by our indirect trade with other nations through her merchants and shipowners, untold millions to her commercial preponderance.

The "Lancet" on the President's Case.

The Lancet says:—"Portion of dress may have been carried into President Garfield's wound, and each abscess that forms is not only the direct source of danger from pain and fever and the danger of its spreading deeper, but with each there is fresh liability of blood-poisoning. It is quite an impossibility to feel any certainty that we may not hear of another abscess or relapse, and it is of great importance that the patient's constitutional vigour be maintained at as high a pitch as possible in view of future troubles. Absence of fever and severe exhaustion removes any cause for immediate alarm, but until the wound is quite healed and the bullet either removed or encysted, there will be a liability of recurring abscesses, each attended with the risk of blood-poisoning.

At the sale of Lord Beaconsfield's effects, the small quantity of champagne, consisting of only four or five dozens, was very warmly fought for, about two dozen of Vin Brut (Holdsworth) selling for 140s. a dozen to Mr. Tooth. Another lot of two dozen and six brought 101s. per dozen; but the crowning price was paid for a dozen and three pints of champagne Care d'Or, which was bought by Lord Haddington, at 200s. a dozen, or very nearly $5 a pint bottle.

Insanity statistics in France show that the number of persons in that country who are mentally deranged exceeds 100,000, as against 94,000 in 1869. Taking the average of the whole population, there is about one person unsound in the upper story out of every 400; but the arts and professions furnish relatively much the larger proportion, there being one madman in every 100 artists, 120 lawyers, and 230 professors and writers.
