Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—
"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experiences with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly, and as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyson, (of Fernandina, Fla.) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

[WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER.] Lougong.

Sat, through the shadows, falling,
Deepening into night,
Plaintive the voices calling,
Oh, for the light!

Joy into sorrow fading;
Glist'ning tear-drops flow;
Sin, dark-won glory shading,
Tending to glo.

Mark all the world as weary,—
"Has every life its rain?"
How oft the day that's dreary
Circles again.

If, from the past-time ages,
Certain of sound, there floats
Wisdom of earthly sages,
Sweetest of notes.

Never relief supplying,
Wafled, they pass along—
Life is not to the dying
By love or song.

Yet, does the toil, repeated,
Bringing its weight of care,
Ever but incomplete,
Lead to despair?

List! to the strains, that, ringing
O'er every fainting heart,
Tuned to the angels' singing,
Comfort impart.

"I am the burden-bearer!
Cast all your care on me!"
Sweetest is life-time, fairer
Eternity!

ANON.

The Farm.

POINTS FOR FARMERS.

Take plenty of time with the colt. Too much haste and spoiled lots of horses.

With wire and good posts an effective, durable fence can be built at comparatively low cost.

Do not waste wood ashes. They are sufficiently valuable to pay for saving and applying to the soil.

Remember that one ill-tempered or slow walking horse will do much harm on a farm where colts are raised.

Keep the floor of the poultry house dry by all means. The dry earth stored last fall will now come in play.

"If you want a cow to do her best give her just as good quarters and as good care as you do your favorite horse," advises a Pennsylvania farmer.

White fowls when dressed for market do not show pin feather marks as do the black breeds. This is a point in their favor which is worth considering.

A big growth of clover is a great weed destroyer; but it must be "thick as hair on a dog" to do this effectually. Put on plenty of seed.

When egg-production alone is your object you need no males. The hens will lay as well without them (sometimes better), and the eggs will keep longer.

When some horses lie down they strike the back part of the fore leg with the calls of their shoes and bruise it. After a while a callous comes on and a sore. The only way to prevent it is to put a thick pad around the horse when standing in the stable, to keep the shoe from bruising the place. Dress the sore with any sort of liniment, and grease it till it is healed.

A Brahma pullet requires more time to mature than a Leghorn. In a majority of cases the pullets that commence laying early do not grow to as large a size as those that may be considered as late layers. They often, therefore, commence laying before they are fully matured.

In selecting eggs for breeding, the pullets should be about a year old, in order to receive the necessary vigor and vitality with the chicks.

D. N. Keun, the practical farmer: Our farmers must keep abreast of the times. They must think. They must read; they must study; they must experiment; they must exert their minds to the fullest extent to drag out from the mother earth her secrets of fertility. Let them do it, and she will reward them with fertile fields and good crops in abundance and they will enjoy the richest blessings of the most satisfying and noblest occupation on earth.

The Shorthorn cattle have doubtless been injured by keeping breeding animals too fat. They show off well in this condition, but with this breed as with all others, the moderate flesh indicative of a superabundance of flesh, which only interferes with their destined use. This is a fact well understood by all skillful breeders, but it is a point wherein those inexperienced in the business are likely to make a mistake, and all the more so because the Shorthorn breed naturally runs to flesh and fat unless very carefully fed.

Odds and Ends.

Here is the latest English Tory joke:—"Why cannot Mr. Gladstone have his life insured? Because no man living can make out his policy."

An amusing story comes from Japan of a native doctor who has so far assimilated his practice to European methods that an English resident, being ill, sent for him in the absence of the only European doctor of the district. The Englishman having elaborately described his symptoms, and the Japanese doctor in his turn made a long and vague statement, from which it was impossible to gather anything really definite. "But come, doctor," exclaimed the patient at last, naturally anxious to know the nature of his complaint, "you have not told me what it is." "Ah, you ask what it is?" returned the native medico, in what he intended to be in his best European manner. "Well, I will tell you, sir, it is five shillings."

Thirty Cases of Boots and Shoes just opened at Goff Bros. Come this evening and make your selection. tf—ap13

Horse Notes.

Hon. B. Fasig gives the following advice to the owners of brood mares, respecting the selection of a stallion: Don't breed to an unsound horse. Don't breed to a pedigree alone. Avoid a lunk-head stallion, no matter what his breeding. (In such a case the pedigree is the tail, and it wags the horse; you want a horse that can wag his pedigree.) Don't breed to a horse that can't trot himself but depends entirely on the performance of some relation for his reputation. A horse cannot transmit a power he does not himself possess. There are many stallions parading under a fashionable pedigree (and a number) that can't trot as fast as a pig can swim. A horse that is bred to trot, and can't trot, cannot do what he is bred to do; and is, therefore, a fraud and a failure. Breed to a horse that is good himself; that can trot himself; that is trotting-bred through proved trotting lines; a handsome horse, a good sized, a good gaited one. Find the stallion that combines all these qualities in the greatest degree, then breed to him. Let your neighbor breed to theory only; you stick to reality, and what your common sense tells you is right, and when the test comes you will find that your reality gets the money from your neighbor's theory every time. Use your own judgment; don't be unduly influenced by visionary theorists, whether they write for the papers or "talk stud horse" on the street corners, many of whom scarcely know whether a horse should be fed oats or broom handles, or whether to put the crupper of a harness over a trotter's ears or under his tail.

REGALIA.—A few Oddfellows Processional Regalia may be had at the Diamond Bookstore.

ISLAND HORSES.—Mr. W. S. McKie, of this city, had twenty choice horses at Smith's stables, St. John, on Friday.

I. O. O. F.—St Lawrence Lodge holds its regular session to-night at 8 o'clock. The initiatory and third degrees will be conferred.

A faded or gray beard may be colored a beautiful and natural brown or black, at will, by using Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.

DRAWING THE LINE.—And now the question of admitting colored children to the schools is greatly troubling the enlightened citizens of Dartmouth, N. S.

HE STILL LIVES.—The man who understands your business better than yourself is constantly giving you points about it, and at the same time never knows his own business, is not dead yet.

EARLY POTATOES.—An exchange reports that Alfred Annis, of Caledonia, N. S., who planted potatoes in his field on the 18th March, has now the pleasure of seeing their sprouts well above ground.

DISAPPEARED.—Charles Lapierre, for thirty years past accountant in the Montserrat City Water Department, disappeared suddenly a few days ago. It is not yet known that there is any defalcation.

Pectoral has been a century ago Chery Fectoral for nearly half a century popular remedy in the world. The constantly increasing demand for this remedy proves it to be the very best specific for colds, coughs and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

PARNELL FUND.—The Irish Literary and Benevolent Society has decided to forward at once the money collected in St. John for the Parnell defence fund. The total amount is $505, which includes the receipts from the meeting addressed by Hon. Mr. Anglin.—Tel.

For the delicate and aged and all in whom the vitæ current is impoverished and sluggish, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the very best tonic. It restores the wasted tissues, and imparts to the system surprising elasticity and vigor. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

WISER NOW.—It is said that Mrs. Mosher of Avondale, N. S., who eloped with Fred Curry of the same place a short time ago, has returned to Halifax and hopes for a reconciliation with her husband. Curry is willing to provide for his wife and child, and will not fight the divorce suit which has been brought against him.

THE ODDS AGAINST HIM.—According to an exchange, a sporting man in Chicago was so certain that his dog would win a proposed fight that he mortgaged his cigar factory and all his jewelry, and even persuaded his sweetheart to put up all her loose cash. The other dog won, and his factory was closed out, and his girl committed suicide.

EXAGGERATED.—Official reports say that the newspaper accounts of the famine in Corea are greatly exaggerated. Owing to the scarcity of rice in the southern districts the import duties have been removed from all food in the products of cargoes of rice purchased from Japan for distribution among the sufferers, by the direction of the king.

BIG FURNESS LINE STEAMER.—Christopher Furness, of this town, has, we observe, just ordered from the firm of W. Gray & Co., a steamship of 6,300 tons burden, to be built at St. She is to be finished about the end of the year, and will be the largest vessel ever built in this port.—West Hartlepool paper.

Mr. W. W. Clarke is the agent for the Furness Line in Charlottetown.

UTILIZING.—Frederick Villiers the war correspondent, showed his ability in overcoming difficulties at Windsor N. S., a short time ago. The white sheet on which his pictures are shown, was lost en route and in order to give his performance, was compelled to utilize a quantity of bed clothing for the purpose. He evidently "cut on" and was determined that having travelled so far he would do his duty.
