REPORT TEST BLAST UPPSALA, Sweden (AP)—A new Russian underground nuclear test explosion in the Semipalatinsk area was recorded by the Seismological Institute here Friday. After evaluating the recordings, institute head Marcus Baath told reporters it undoubtedly was a new test explosion reaching a magnitude of 5.8 on the Richter scale. This is similar to the magnitude of one recorded last Aug. 5, and close to the over-all average of nuclear underground explosions in this area.

Berton TV Charges Are Denied

TORONTO (CP) — Statements made on a Sept. 21 Pierre Berton television show concerning alleged brutality at an unnamed Ontario institution for the mentally disturbed were "irresponsible and in some cases, not true," Health Minister Matthew Dymond said here. "I emphatically and vigorously deny that the girl in question was ever in a treatment centre or institution operated by the department of health or any other department of the provincial government," Dr. Dymond said in a statement. Mrs. Jacqueline Lucie, 23, of Toronto, interviewed by Berton on a television program on CHCH Hamilton, said she had been kept in solitary confinement for three weeks for misbehaving. "I have checked with officials of the treatment centre operated by sisters of the Roman Catholic Church where the girl claimed she had been kept in solitary confinement for several weeks for stealing radishes," Dr. Dymond said. "They've told me the charges are absolutely untrue."

Dr. Dymond said Mr. Berton had said on the program that incidents of alleged brutality in treatment centres supported by public funds were "happening now." "That charge, too, must be regarded as a complete falsehood unless Mr. Berton can produce evidence. "If he has such evidence, it is his duty to forward it to the authorities and appropriate action will be taken."

Free Trade Policies Seen Canadian Need

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada can become both richer and more independent by rejecting nationalist economic policies and opting for a free trade relationship with the United States and other industrial countries, a leading Canadian-born economist said here. Harry Johnson, who holds appointments at both the University of Chicago and the London School of Economics, said Canadians will prove themselves politically immature if they retreat into "vain and self-defeating nationalist economic policies." To take best advantage of this country's potential for industrial and general economic growth, a Canadian industry needs maximum access to the large markets of other countries, he told members of the Canadian Club at a luncheon here. "This is necessary to permit both specialization on those products in which Canada has the greatest comparative advantage, and the exploitation of the economies of large-scale production." Prof. Johnson said tariff barriers are no longer necessary to ensure the existence of a strong industrial economy in this country. Canada therefore should use its influence as a leading trading nation to get U.S. British and European support for the idea of a free trade area. SEES OPPORTUNITY LOST Prof. Johnson said Mr. Pearson's government has been letting a golden opportunity slip away in recent years. Instead it had spent its time touting the possibility of making more bilateral agreements with the U.S., such as the automotive products agreement, which are but "clever tricks to obtain dubious short-run gains." Professor Johnson said that policies suggested by the former finance minister, Walter Gordon, for decreasing American investment in Canada would, if implemented, impede Canadian economic growth and sacrifice economic efficiency. American capital has assisted the economic growth of the country and has thus increased rather than reduced the average Canadian's sense of independence, he said. The text of Professor Johnson's speech was issued to the press before delivery.

Ontario Medical Group Bids For More Doctors, Facilities

TORONTO (CP) The Ontario Medical Association has called on government to turn its attention from medical care to providing more doctors and treatment facilities. The Ontario Medical Review, official organ of the association, carries in its current issue five articles outlining what it calls "the crisis in health resources." The articles discuss what are called serious shortages of doctors, other health personnel and of hospital beds, and need for funds in the fields of psychiatric services, rehabilitation and medical research. Dr. Glenn Sawyer, general secretary of the association, writes that the articles are presented now "because the federal government is proposing legislation which would commit large sums of tax money to a medicare program — the one area in the health field where federal government money is required least of all." The OMA president, Dr. Ross Matthews of Peterborough, writing on the shortage of medical manpower, says that statistics showing one doctor for every 766 persons in Ontario are misleading. Only 54 per cent of these doctors were available to take direct calls from the public. Recommendations for training new physicians made by the royal commission on health services would do no more than maintain the 1961 ratio but "all the while the demand for medical services will be increasing." Dr. Patrick Bruce Lockhart of Sudbury, a past president of the OMA, says some of the province's largest hospitals have waiting lists requiring almost 5,000 beds. Dr. R. A. Dolan of Hamilton, chief of neurosurgery at Hamilton Civic Hospital, writes of need for more facilities and personnel for rehabilitation and carnage for the aged.

Briton Considers Ban Near On Nuclear Arms And Tests

LONDON (AP) — Lord Chalfont, Britain's disarmament minister, says East-West agreements banning the spread of nuclear weapons and underground tests are in sight. He told an interviewer that "with good judgment, careful diplomacy and some luck" the accords could be ready for presentation to the 1967 session of the United Nations General Assembly. Toward this end American, British, Canadian and Italian experts are beginning work on new draft treaties on both subjects. A nuclear non-proliferation pact would embody parts of rival American and Russian proposals. An underground test ban pact, which might take the form of a renewable two-year moratorium, would either be offered as a brand new agreement or as an extension to the 1963 limited test ban treaty signed in Moscow. Chalfont made clear he expects neither China nor France to adhere to the foreseeable future, to the two proposed treaties. But he saw an accumulation of evidence suggesting the United States, Russia and Britain—the world's other nuclear powers—are profoundly convinced of the urgent need for agreement. Chalfont said all know that failure to agree would bring perils of a runaway atomic arms race. SHOWS DANGER Countries such as Canada, India, Sweden, South Africa, West Germany, Japan and Switzerland all possess, in greater or lesser degree, the scientific knowledge or political motivation to qualify as nuclear powers. Not all are necessarily interested in doing so. But once one or more of them did produce an atomic weapon, chances of halting the nuclear spread would vanish. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) A cutback in new houses is helping to feed inflationary pressures, an economist says. "Restricting the supply of new dwellings at a time when the need for accommodation is growing fast is producing a shortage of housing," W. Allan Beckett told the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association Thursday. "The result will be rising rents which will help feed inflationary pressures." He called on the federal government to "give some thought to stimulating house-building" rather than restraining it. "One can sympathize with the laudable objectives of the government in attempting to control inflation. But it is a fact that a restrictive monetary policy falls unevenly on different sectors."

Que. Constitution Committee To Get Enlarged Mandate

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson has announced he will enlarge the mandate of a committee which will pave the way for a new Quebec constitution, to be drafted "without the intervention of the federal government or Her Majesty the Queen." Mr. Johnson, speaking after having received two joint briefs from three major Quebec unions, said he will reinstitute the constitutional committee and enlarge its mandate. The committee, set up by the previous Liberal government to study internal constitutional problems of the province, ceased to exist last April when the legislature was dissolved. "The committee will have its mandate enlarged so that it will be able to attend the problem of the constituent assembly; a constituent assembly which once formed will establish a constitution for the province of Quebec, and that without the intervention of the federal government." NEED FUMES CONTROL

TORONTO (CP) — Canada soon will need laws to control fumes from car exhausts, says a U.S. air pollution expert. "Visible smoke pollution is greatly reduced since 1947," Charles Howison, chairman of the U.S. National Cleaner Air Week Committee, said Monday. "But the other forms of pollution — car exhaust and ragweed pollen — can still be serious health and pollution problems."
