THE SITUATION IN EUROPE!

The New York Herald, always vivid in imagination, thus speculates and advises upon the affairs of Europe. The Herald soars aloft most ambitiously :—

"It can scarcely fail to be a cause of gratitude to many that Lord Stanley and the Marquis Moustier are agreed, and in their opinion the future tranquility of Europe is secured. The circumstances are noteworthy that simultaneously with this announcement we learn that the fire which has been smouldering so long in Spain threatens to burst forth in a general and terrific conflagration, and that an arrest has been made in Hungary which may prove fruitful of results along the line of the Danube.

It is only ten days ago since, looking at the general situation in Europe, we gave it as our opinion that if Napoleon would march his armies across the Pyrenees and permanently annex Spain and Portugal to the French Empire he would, by one stroke, accomplish the best thing possible for France and the best thing possible for the Iberian peninsula in the circumstances. We did not conceal from ourselves the fact that a stroke which would not be so bold in itself and which would greatly enlarge the territory and so mightily increase the power of France would be almost certain to create feelings of jealousy on the part of the great Powers. France, her population increased by some twenty-one millions and her territory extended over the richest part of Europe, would be a dangerous rival to all her neighbors. England, Prussia, Austria, Russia, might again tremble for their independence and by another Holy Alliance proceed to rectify boundaries and adjust the balance of power in Europe. In such a case it would be difficult for France to maintain her position. Europe combined, especially if backed up by Great Britain, has always been too much for her; and Napoleonism might be forever ruined, and the pride of France permanently humbled by another allied occupation of Paris.

It is not, however, by any means certain that events would take such a turn. They might, and they might not, and the presumption is rather in favor of the negative. The occupation of the Iberian peninsula by the armies of France would unquestionably, in the first instance at least, beget jealousy, would certainly call forth loud and general remonstrance; but it is questionable whether even so bold a step would call into existence another anti-French-coalition in Europe. The Europe of to-day is a very different Europe of that of 1812, of 1814 or of 1815. It has different interests; it pursues a different policy; it is governed by different principles; the dynasties are weaker; the people are stronger. Governments, in a word, are more isolated and more concerned about national than international interests. In such a case as we have supposed Great Britain would, perhaps, be the most dangerous enemy with which Napoleon would have to contend. It would not be possible for him to defend his vast extent of seaboard if attacked by the iron-clads of England. It would be the less easy if attacked by Prussia on the north. Would it not be possible however to buy the consent of England by allowing her to take entire possession of Egypt, Suez canal and all? To give up her hold on Egypt would be an immense sacrifice to France. To have Egypt entirely under her control would be an immense gain to England. England, in truth, as Mr. Disraeli some time ago with his accustomed pungency remarked, is no longer a European, but an Asiatic Power. The British Isles are but the head-quarters—the seat of government The empire is elsewhere—in India in Australia, in Africa, in Canada, in the West Indies and in all sorts of out of the way places under every sun. Her North American and her West Indian possessions are but of little value to her and promise to become of less. Of all her possessions India is that which she most prizes and which she would 'cast willingly let go. To hold India she needs Egypt. Besides, with Egypt entirely under her control she might make Africa her own, out of those regions, made illustrious by Livingstone and Baker, by Speke and Grant, and forever associated with the immortal exploits of Napier, it might be impossible to create a grander than even her Indian Empire. Let Napoleon make the British Government the offer of Egypt, and it will be more than surprising if a European coalition against him is not rendered impossible. Prussia would be easily satisfied. Bismark has but to be permitted and encouraged to complete German unity Germany to unite and under Prussi n Supremacy would be an ample compensation for any loss which Prussia might be supposed to sustain by the aggrandizement of France. In such a case it would be necessary to allow Austria to extend her Empire to the shores of the Black sea and make herself mistress of the mouths of the Danube. But to this neither France nor Prussia could object. Turkey is too weak to offer any effective opposition, and Russia is too much engrossed with weighty matters in the East to attend to such trifles in the West.

The course seems to be clear to Napoleon. It is not opportunity, but courage, which is wanted. We are sick of hearing Spanish misery. What Spain needs is a strong and paternal government. Napoleon can give the peninsula precisely what the peninsula wants. Let him annex it at once. It may be our duty at no distant day to imitate his example. His success may encourage us to confer upon the Spaniards and Portuguese of the New World what he will have conferred upon the Spaniards and Portuguese of the Old—the blessings of good government.

The New York Herald, referring to the late sudden fluctuations of the gold market, says :—

"Gold will continue to tend upward for several reasons. In the first place, about seven hundred millions of our national securities are held in Europe, and large amounts of these are liable to be returned to us at any time, while the interest on the whole has to be remitted in coin, and in this way we are drained of our specie. In the next place, our national extravagance causes our foreign imports to largely exceed our exports in value, and the difference between them that is not liquidated by shipments of five-twenties has to be remitted in coin, and in this way we are still further drained of our specie. In the third place, the wretched mismanagement of the Treasury and the miserably mistaken and short-sighted policy of Congress have left the Treasury poor, and it has only about forty-five millions of coin in its vaults that it can call its own. It is, therefore, Mr. McCulloch now says, unable to sell any of its coin because its surplus is so low and the November and January interests will aggregate so large a sum as to reduce the balance in hand to a much smaller amount than has been hitherto held by the department at any one time. No wonder, therefore, that men buy gold so confidently when they know that we have shipped from this port alone, sixty-three millions since the 1st of January, and that the amount remaining in the country is much smaller than at any time since the commencement of the rebellion. But for these very reasons excessive speculation in gold should be discouraged, and the exaggerated pictures of the future condition of the country corrected as far as possible. We want stability in the standard of values, and the fluctuations of the last few days in go'd are clearly opposed to the interests of the community.

A friend, residing in the Western portion of the Province, writing to us, says :—"His Grace the Archbishop left here a few days ago, after having spent several weeks amongst his spritual children of this Western portion of his Archidocese. His Grace's visit to those parts was no holiday trip, no summer recreation; the weeks spent down here were weeks of unrelenting, not merely Episcopal, but missionary labour. Day after day he spent long hours in the Confessional; and averaged from three to four hours in public daily instructions. The Confirmations were very numerous, in some of the French missions amounting to over three hundred. Large numbers also approached the Holy Sacraments of Penance and the Eucharist.

It was generally remarked that His Grace was able to endure more fatigue, and perform more missionary labour than any of his priests. There is every reason to believe that the beneficial effect of his ministrations will be long felt in those parts. That he may be spared for many years to continue his Apostolic labours is the earnest prayer of those in whose behalf he excercised them.'—Hx. Express.

Blood Money.—By latest quotations, it would appear that this is on the rise. Some eighteen hundred years ago "thirty pieces of silver" was the correct thing; and to-day, as we see by an exchange, the man Ste. Marie, who volunteered to swear away the life of his comrade, Surratt, has received no less than $10,000 for the job from the United States Government. This Ste. Marie, who, to the disgrace of our country, is a Canadian by birth, sailed for Europe, there to enjoy his hard earned wages; whilst Judas, poor fellow, bought a halter and hanged himself off hand. It must be admitted that the "blood money" business is every way more profitable to-day, than it was in the time of our old acquaintance, Iscariot.—True Witness.

The volunteers lately reviewed by the Queen at Windsor were indignant that no regard was paid to their wants. It was said that they could not get even a cup of water. The attendance at Wimbledon was very small, and the absence of the volunteers is attributed to their dissatisfaction.

A correspondent of the Halifax Citizen, writing from Sydney, C. B., speaks of a sad affair which occurred there on Sunday the 16th inst. A man named William Stiles, Senr., attacked and beat his wife with a bar of iron so severely that no hopes are entertained of her recovery. He would have finished his fearful work at once had not some sailors been attracted to the spot, and rescued her before life was extinct. Stiles then ran away, and some time after his dead body was found in Sydney river. It is supposed that he committed suicide. It is impossible to account for the sad affair. The parties were advanced in years, and had always lived together on the best terms.

In the month of July the Hudson Bay Company, which controls more than a third of this continent, held its annual meeting in London, and the Directors reported that the dividend would be but three per cent, in place of four and three-fourths, the average for the three years preceding. It was stated that the fur trade held its own, but several losses had occurred which depressed the revenue. It was intimated, however, that government was negotiating for the purchase of their territory, in order to make a cession to Canada, and the ground was taken that it should not be sold for less than six million five hundred thousand dollars at which it was valued by the American Congress.

An Ottawa telegram to the Citizen of Saturday last, says an order is published in the Canada Gazette respecting titles of public men in the Dominin. Lieut. Governors are to be styled "His Honour." Privy Councillors, "Honourable," during life. Members of Provincial Executive, "Honourable" during office only. Legislative Councillors hereafter appointed, not to have the title of "Honorable." Senator to be styled "Honourable," while in office. All Legislative Councillors at time of Union to be styled 'Honorable' during life.

According to the New York Herald, Secretary Seward is reported to have another real estate speculation in view. It is the purchase, for a naval station, of an island in the East Indies, rich, fertile and beautiful, inhabited by a few Malays, and which, the Herald thinks, will place the United States upon an equal footing with any European Power in the eastern seas.

The 15th of september will be a day of great interest in Montreal, for at that date the Dominion Rifle Match will begin, and the Provincial Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition for 1868, open to competitors from all parts of the Dominion of Canada, will be commenced on that day, and continued during the 16th, 17th, and 18th.

On Sunday evening, the 16th inst., a terrific thunderstorm visited Lunenburg County, N. S. A barn belonging to Mr. Henry Beringer, of North-West, containing twenty-five tons of hay, some cattle, two pigs, waggons, etc., was totally destroyed by the lightning. In Lunenburg, Mrs. Lord was severely injured by the electric fluid, but is now recovering.

A Mrs. Boots, of Pennsylvania, has left her husband, Mr. Boots, and strayed to parts unknown. We presume this pair of Boots are rights and lefts. We cannot say, however, that Mrs. Boots is right, but there is no mistake Mr. Boots is left.

Her Majesty, after her tour upon the Continent, is expected to return to Windsor Castle about the 1st of September. The Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia are likely to visit England at the same time.

The shaft of a cross, which, for centuries marked the point whence Robert Bruce and his followers left Arran, has lately been removed, and used in the construction of a dry-stone-dyke!

Potatoes, weighing four pounds each, raised in fifteen weeks from the day of planting, without irrigation, were offered last month in the San Diego, California market.

The Rothschilds took two million pounds of the Dominion loan at 105⅛. They began to sell immediately after at 107 to 109.

TILTON & McFARLAND'S

BURGLAR AND FIREPROOF SAFES;

Steel Vaults and Combination Bank Locks.

Portland, July 14, 1868.

Messrs. Tilton & McFarland :

Gentlemen—This certifies that I have used one of your safes for the last number of years, and in the great fire of July 4th, had the misfortune to have it severely tested. I was situated in the second story of brick block corner of Cross and Middle Streets, and it fell into the cellar with other combustibles, and lay burning until July 11th, at which time it was thought prudent to open it. But on doing so, it was found so hot inside that blaze instantly showed itself, which being at once smothering, and kept so until the heat escaped from the inside. The contents were taken out in good order, so much that the books, papers and money were all perfectly legible and admitted of being handled without danger of falling to pieces. Some of the books may have to be rebound. I have given your agent an order for another safe of same size, and my confidence is so great in your safe that I should recommend them as being the best fire proof of any make of safe in our great fire.

Yours, truly,
F. W. KALER & Co.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—More precious than Gold.—Diarahœa, dysentery, and cholera are, through the summer's heat, carrying off the young as the winter's cold destroys the aged. In the most acute cases, where internal medicines cannot be retained, the greatest relief will immediately result from rubbing Holloway's soothing Ointment over the abdomen. The friction should be frequent and brisk, to insure the penetration of a large portion of the Unguent. This Ointment calms the excited peristaltic action, and soothes the pain. Both vomiting and griping yield to it; where fruits or vegatables have originated the malady, it is proper to remove all undigested matter from the bowels by a moderate dose of Holloway's Pills before using the Ointment.
