Potato Lore.
Potatoes may be used in a variety of agreeable ways, and the P. E. Island article being of excellent quality generally, it is well to adapt them attractively to their table uses. Potato-puff is a valuable addition to the breakfast rasher, or sausage. Take a bowl of mashed cold potato and heat it to a cream with about two ounces of butter melted; then mix in two well-beaten eggs, and one cup of cream or rich milk. Pour into a deep dish and bake in a quick oven.
In Scotland, cold boiled potatoes are frequently squeezed up and mixed with flour or oatmeal, and an excellent cake or scon obtained.
There is a country fashion in England of ribbing potatoes—that is, after paring them, to soak them in water for about ten minutes, and then dry on a cloth. Then peel them into ribbons till the centre is reached. They are cooked like doughnuts and served hot, but the lard or butter must be allowed to drain off. Dust them with a little salt.
A delicious accompaniment to delicately broiled mutton cutlets, may be made from mashed potato rubbed through a sieve, and moistened with stock or broth, and about two ounces of butter to the pound of mash. Stir it well while over the fire until hot, when it is ready to serve.

The Maamtrasna Murders.
The New York Sun's cable special of the 19th says: "It is now believed that Lord Spencer is inclined to favour a full enquiry as to the confession of Thomas Casey and Anthony Philbin, who have sworn that Miles Joyce and others were hanged on perjured testimony for the Maamtrasna murders. The Lord Lieut. has been greatly agitated by the revelations obtained by Timothy Harrington, M. P. for West Meath, in his search for information among the Connemara peasants who lived near Maamtrasna where John Joyce, his wife, and three children were murdered. Mr. Harrington's discoveries seem to show that political exigencies required an exhibition of the English Government's power in Connemara, that the Joyce murders, which were brutal and revolting, but in no way connected with politics or agrarianism, were seized upon the pretext for a wholesale admonitory hanging, which was made needlessly horrible by the drunken bungling of Marwood, and that all these facts were known to George Bilton, the Crown Solicitor. It is certain that this episode will form a prominent feature in the next Parliamentary debate on Irish affairs, and the adhesion of the Parnellites to the Liberals or the Tories will hinge largely upon the Government's action in this matter. Lord Spencer is now said to feel some twinges of conscience regarding these hangings, which have time and again been stigmatized as judicial murders. He has sent a force of Government detectives to examine the locality, and pick up all the information possible as to the murders, the trial, the executions. The reports of the detectives are to be submitted to Dublin Castle in time for Lord Spencer's report to be in the hands of the Government before the re-assembling of Parliament, and great curiosity is manifested regarding the Lord Lieutenant's report. It is rumored that Earl Spencer desires to resign, and that he will be succeeded by the Duke of Connaught.

A Bankrupt Contractor.
Mr. Dewar, the bankrupt contractor of the new city hall, makes the following statement to a Sun reporter regarding his affairs: "I admit to owing about $7,500, or thereabouts, to the Bank of Nova Scotia, having been advanced that amount on the strength of giving in liquidation of it the estimate I thought I would receive from the architect. That money was nearly all put into the building. I think I have a little of it, but do not know. I am now having a statement made of my assets and liabilities, and shall now better than. Some of the money went to pay for materials purchased a month before the bank advanced the money, and on which, of course, I could get no estimate. I expected an estimate for the labor performed on the building, but did not get it, because Mr. Barber says he gave me an over-estimate for $1,000 previously, and that nothing is now due me. That being the case, I saw I could not pay the bank, and stopped work. I might have made other creditors and paid the bank, but did not think I would be justified in doing so, or that it would be honest. I had no money to meet my liabilities with, and the $8,500 had to be lost by some one. I am sorry for the loss, but after all it is better able to lose it than private individuals with whom I might have contracted debts. Mr. Stevens the manager of the bank, tries to make out that I deceived and defrauded him. If I did deceive him, I did it innocently.—Winnipeg Sun.
To Clean Guns and Rifles.
Guns and rifles may be easily cleaned from lead by the following:—If a muzzle-loader, stop up the nipple or communicating hole with a little wax, or, if a breech-loader, insert a cork in the breech rather tightly; next pour some quicksilver into the barrel, and put a cork in the muzzle, then shake it up and down for a few minutes. The mercury and the lead will form an amalgam, and leave the barrel as clean and free from lead as when new. The same quick-silver can be used over and over again, if strained through wash-leather, as the lead will remain in the leather.
The United States' estimated peanut crop for the present year is 3,200,000 bushels, grown chiefly in Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina. Last year the consumption reached 2,170,000 bushels, valued at $2,600,000 in the fruit market.

The Belle of the Fair.
The interesting uses to which agricultural fairs and lieutenant governors may be put have just been illustrated at the recent fair of the West York and Vaughan Agricultural societies, in Ontario. Says the Mail's report:—A novel part of the day's proceedings was the presentation of a splendid gold ring set with pearls, from Mr. E. Swan, Toronto, to the best looking lady at the fair. Messrs. R. Donald, Fr. S. Wilkins and Wm. Bradshaw, of Toronto, were appointed judges. The three judges went around through the assemblage to pick out the young lady who was entitled to the prize. The duty was an extremely difficult and delicate one. After several hours of arduous labor the judges awarded the prize to Miss M. Fisher, of F. S. Henville. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, presented the ring, and expressed the pleasure it afforded him to do so. When he was asked to make the presentation he thought the Lieutenant Governor had a great variety of duties to perform. He had to dedicate churches and open Parliament, but in no duty did he take more pleasure than in the present one. The young men who made the selection might have been prejudiced, but if they were they were quite justified. He had great pleasure in placing the ring on the finger of the recipient in the hope that she would be soon presented with a better ring by a handsome man. The speech was followed by a hearty round of cheers from those assembled.

Dressing Bear Skins.
After having cut off the useless parts, and softened the skin by soaking, remove the fatty matter from the inside and soak it in warm water for an hour. Next mix equal parts of borax, saltpetre, and Glauber's salts (sodium sulphate) in the proportion of about half an ounce of each for each skin; spread this with a brush over the inside of the skin, applying more on the thicker parts than on the thinner; double the skin together flesh side inward, and place it in a cool place. After standing twenty-four hours, wash the skin clean, and apply in the same manner as before a mixture of 1 ounce sal soda, half ounce borax, and 2 ounces of hard white soap, melted slowly together without being allowed to boil; fold together, and put away in a warm place for twenty-four hours. After this dissolve 4 ounces alum, 8 ounces salt, and 2 ounces saleratus in sufficient hot rain water to saturate the skin; when cool enough not to scald the hands, soak the skin in it for twelve hours; then wring out and hang it up to dry. When dry, repeat this soaking and drying two or three times till the skin is sufficiently soft. Lastly, smooth the inside with fine sand paper and pumice stone.—Scientific American.

Protection has risen to high level in French politics. From all parts of the country comes the demand for increase of duties upon foreign imports to protect the agricultural as well as the industrial industries. M. Meunier, minister of agriculture, has introduced a bill to place duties upon imports of live stock, of wheat and flour. The Republique Francaise openly advocates it as necessary for the salvation of the distressed industries which are suffering from foreign competition. Even Premier Ferry declares that his government is favorable to the principle, and has indicated that by proclaiming its intention of putting a duty on cereals.

A large meeting was held in Toronto on the 22nd inst., to make preliminary arrangements for a public reception and banquet to be tendered to Sir John Macdonald to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of his entry into public life. A general committee comprising about 200 was appointed, out of which will be struck the various sub-committees. The date for holding the demonstration will be fixed by Sir John. The utmost enthusiasm was manifested during the proceedings.
Messrs. James W. Carmichael & Co., of New Glasgow, N. S., have recently contracted with Messrs. Alex. Stephens & Sons, Linthoupe, well-known builders on the Clyde, for the construction of an iron sailing ship of 1,400 tons register, to be launched next spring.
The Maine Industrial Journal says that Col. J. N. Greene has left Bangor for Fort Steele, Wyoming Territory, where he will remain about one month. When the colonel returns he will be ready to push the Shore Line Railroad into Washington County and on to Eastport and Calais.
