

Publisher May Merge 2 Magazines

TORONTO (CP) — Publisher Percy Bishop said here "there is a distinct possibility" he will merge The Canadian and Saturday Night magazines.

"The Canadian would be absorbed by Saturday Night to make it a stronger publication," he said in an interview.

Mr. Bishop launched the Canadian, a monthly magazine devoted to business and national affairs, last November.

Four months earlier he bought Saturday Night and Liberty magazines from Jack Kent Cooke, former owner of CKEY radio station in Toronto and present owner of the Maple Leaf in the International Baseball League. Mr. Cooke now lives in Los Angeles.

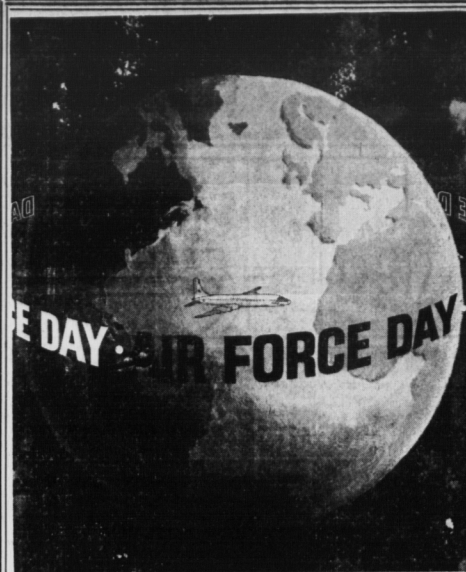

The proposed merger has been preceded by a reshuffle of executive posts on Saturday Night and the Fensate Publishing Company Limited—the company Mr. Bishop formed to operate Liberty and Saturday Night.

Arnold Edinborough, formerly Fensate president and Editor of Saturday Night, now is editor and publisher of the twice-monthly magazine.

I pulled up the anchor and then I thought my rod was hooked onto a snag. It wasn't a snag... It was this big trout and he near-he pulled me off into the water". The point of this story is: This big whallop probably watched this blob of wiggling worms for an hour before deciding it was safe to swallow. I don't suppose he knew he was hooked until Sam woke up... Just laid there with a full stomach.

Moral: If Sam hadn't fallen asleep, he'd never have hooked that trout.

Mrs. Douglas Sees Things Going Well

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Irma Douglas gave her own progress report here of the New Democratic election campaign.

"Things have been going really very well," the wife of leader T. C. Douglas told a meeting organized by the Vancouver NDP women's committee.

Mrs. Douglas, who joined her husband on the campaign trail last week for the first time, said she thought one talker in the house was enough.

However she departed from her maxim to give one election forecast — she would be "terribly surprised" if Malcolm Maclean, NDP candidate in the Nova Scotia riding of Cape Breton South, was not elected. Mrs. Douglas visited Glace Bay last week.

TEMPO OF

(Continued from page 10) earth savings some of which were printable and others were not. At any rate they sure covered the subject under discussion. Good trout weather is temperamental. Sometimes it lasts for hours but for the most part is of short duration. I have hurried to the car and rubbed out to a favorite spot and before I got the rod assembled the curtain had run down. Sometimes, if one is lucky, it will occur while one is on the spot.

THE HARD WAY

True one can take trout a few at a time in the period from deep dusk till dark even if there is no wind or even the slightest breeze. My partner likes to get trout the "hard way" as he terms it. He'll always wait it out till the curtain of night lowers in earnest. I know it's quite a thrill to cast out into an almost black void and hear that water churning "wallop" and feel the rod snap into an arc like as if a rampaging steer was hooked in the tail. I have watched old time anglers creep up on a top trout pool bent double and treading so softly one would think they were walking on eggs. They were the boys who hooked into the big ones. After a trout was played and crested they'd all sit out for maybe twenty minutes and have a smoke. As they would say: "Just to let the pool settle".
