Parkdale Decides To Build New School To Cost $80,000

Parkdale is to build a 3-room school. Construction of the new building will start as soon as plans submitted by Mr. Pickard, a Summerside architect have been approved. The all-brick construction will be on a 4-acre lot on Confederation Street, which runs between the St. Peter's Road and the Mt. Edward Road. The cost is expected to be in the vicinity of $80,000, or $10,000 a classroom.

The decision to build the new school was unanimously agreed to by a well-attended meeting of the ratepayers held last night in Parkdale Hall. A resolution empowered the trustees to secure funds for capital expenditure and requests that the Provincial Government guarantee bonds as to principal and interest. Two new trustees were named to the school board, Davis Carson and A. Myers. It is expected that at least two of the classrooms will be available by the first of the year.

More Gov't Closure Moves Threatened

OTTAWA (CP) - The possibility of more government closure motions appeared again Friday as the explosive Commons pipeline debate drew within 14 sitting days of the government's June 7 deadline for approval of its proposal. The prospect of the debate-limiting motion was raised this time by Agriculture Minister Gardiner. He said the government will impose closure three more times if necessary to overcome Opposition delays of the pipeline legislation. However, Friday's sitting ended without the necessary one-day's formal notice of closure. So normal debate will continue Monday. Mr. Gardiner made his statement in debate on second reading - approval in principle - of the government's proposal for construction, starting this year, of the 2,200 mile natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Montreal.

PARTY FIGHT CONTINUES

Friday's debate also saw a renewal of the open fight between Carl Nickle, Calgary, Social and Progressive Conservative colleagues. They oppose the government plan. Mr. Nickle supports it with vigor. C.C.F. and other Conservative members continued their opposition to the bill charging it is a "betrayal of the national interest" and a result of blackmailing tactics by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Seventh Twins In Quebec Family

ROBERVA, Que. (CP) - The seventh set of twins born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul, Emile Tremblay arrived Thursday at a hospital in Alma, in the Lake St. John district, home of the couple. The twins, both girls, weighed five pounds, eight ounces and five pounds, 10 ounces.

FALL SESSION LIKELY

Chances Of Federal Vote This Year Are Almost Nil

OTTAWA (CP) - Chances of a federal election this year faded almost completely Friday. Prospects of a fall meeting of parliament increased. Prime Minister St. Laurent said in the Commons that new tax-sharing arrangements with the provinces "must necessarily be dealt with" before an election. He added that an election would make "quite impossible" the government's plan for a start this year on the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline, now under bitter Commons debate. Informants said parliament likely will be called in the fall to implement the new tax proposals made to the provinces. The current session would be either adjourned next month until then, or prorogued with a new session later in the year. Mr. St. Laurent made his statement in reply to a question by Thomas M. Bell (PC-St. John-Albert). He apparently had decided to use the question to refer to repeated Opposition challenges during the pipeline debate to take the issue to the voters.

ELECTION SPECULATION

There has been speculation the Prime Minister plans to call an election for June 17, 1957, to be preceded by a spring cabinet shuffle. The last general election was on Aug. 10, 1953, and although each Parliament is elected for a five-year term the government usually calls elections after four years. With an election campaign ruled out this summer, Trade Minister Howe would be left free to carry out his program of supervising a start on the Prairie leg of the 2,200-mile pipeline by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. Parliament now is being asked to approve by June 7 a loan of up to $80,000,000 to the company to permit the start. The summer recess starting next month would make it easier for the 74-year-old prime minister to get away to attend the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference opening June 27 in London.

ENABLE NEW BUDGET

Another session before the election also would enable Finance Minister Harris to bring down a new budget. Opposition members said his March 20 budget this year, with no change in basic tax rates, paved the way for election year tax cuts in the next budget. Whether the fall meeting of Parliament this year would be an entirely new one or a continuation of the present session depends on how quickly the Commons approves the government's spending plans for the fiscal year started last April 1. If Parliament voted the government's entire money supply for the year before the recess, the session could be prorogued and a new one called. If all spending estimates are not approved, the government would have to ask for a temporary money vote to carry it through the summer months. The new federal tax-sharing arrangement was offered to the provinces last March on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. No province has yet formally announced acceptance. The plan, to go into effect in the fiscal year starting next April 1, has not yet been submitted for Parliament's approval. Authorities said there would be enough time for debate and passage if the proposal is not introduced until next fall.

Fire Situation Remains Serious

EDMONTON (CP) - Strong winds and warmer-than-normal weather kept fierce brush and grass fires sweeping over large areas in scattered parts of Alberta Friday but in western Saskatchewan firefighters brought under control a huge blaze that burned over nearly 60 square miles on the Sweetgrass Indian reserve. Three new fires broke out in the Buck Creek, Alder Flats and Berry moor districts 70 miles southwest of Edmonton. T. R. Hammer, senior superintendent of forest protection in Alberta, said if winds were to slacken off, he said, most of the fires could be controlled. Temperatures have been in the high 70s.

GENERAL TIEUP HAD THREATENED

Shipping Strike On Great Lakes Reported Settled

MONTREAL (CP) - A strike that threatened to paralyze Great Lakes shipping ended Friday when shipowners reached wage agreements with three unions representing seamen and officers. The settlement removed fears of a general tie-up at a season when wheat from the Prairies is normally carried in vast quantities along the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence river system to Montreal and other ports for shipment overseas. Federal mediator H. Carl Goldenberg won plaudits for his part in effecting the agreement that involves wage increases of 16 per cent to seamen and 19-per cent to deck officers and engineers.

ada, said all calls for crews would be "honored by the union immediately" and ships affected by the walkout could be back in operation Monday. Fourteen vessels were tied up in the Montreal area alone. Mr. Goldenberg said SIU members will receive an increase of 16 per cent on present gross monthly earnings, the hoist being retroactive to the beginning of the current retroactive year. Hal C. Banks, SIU chief in Can-agreement, the strike had continued pending satisfactory completion of negotiations between the companies and the engineers and mates. The three unions - representing a total of some 5,000 men - had joined in bargaining for the first time, and although only the SIU men called the strike, they would settle only on the basis of overall agreement. The SIU called a strike May 10 against two of the association companies, and the association retaliated with a threat to tie up all the 220 ships that come under its control. A total of nearly 125 ships had been tied up by Friday, including the 63 owned by the two strike companies, Upper Lakes and St. Lawrence Navigation Company and N. M. Paterson and Sons Ltd. Mr. Goldenberg announced the agreement at 6 P.M. ADT, stating the strike was being called off immediately, as well as the retaliation tactics of the shipowners.

Brewery Explosion Kills One Injures Two Men At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) - An early morning brewery explosion here killed one man, injured two others and blasted out the four walls of the big structure at the eight-storey level Friday.

Permenting beer bubbled from manholes and poured across adjacent streets. Senator Hartland deM Molson, president of the Molson's brewery, said damage still is being estimated for the building, largest of fermenting units. Plant production still is proceeding although reduced, he said. The blast, believed touched off by ammonia, flung bricks and debris hundreds of feet around hurling the body of chief night brewer Paul S. Cheese, 32, into the street to his death. It was found an hour after the 3 a.m. ADT explosion, buried under a pile of rubble. Seriously injured was employee Real Dufour, 27, with a broken wrist, shock and cuts inflicted by flying glass. The blast barred the internal walkways of the brewery. The roof stayed on, supported by interior structure. The building's equivalent in height to a 13-storey structure, was built 4 1/2 years ago. It cost $2,000,000. An inquest into the death of Mr. Cheese will be held June 8. Officials said that the blast would have caused more casualties had it occurred during normal day working hours, when a much larger labor complement would have been present.

Cigarette Smuggling Down To Dribble

OTTAWA (CP) - Cigarette smuggling into Canada has dwindled to a dribble, Revenue Minister McCann said Friday. He informed the Commons estimates committee that in September 1952, for instance, there were 273 seizures amounting to 3,817,000 illegal cigarettes. But the smuggling had been steadily declining and in March this year there were only 68 seizures, amounting to 78,000 cigarettes. It has ceased to be a major problem for customs men and the RCMP, Dr. McCann said. All of the seized cigarettes were distributed to veterans' hospitals.

LIFE IS SHORT, BUT ETERNITY HAS ONLY FOUR MORE LETTERS

NEAR RIOT IN MOSCOW

Mollet, Russian Mobbed

MOSCOW (AP) - French Premier Guy Mollet and Communist party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev were mobbed by a crowd of some 500 Russians in an unprecedented explosion of public sentiment outside Moscow's French embassy Friday night.

The near-riot broke out after a last hush-hush conference in the French ambassador's study between Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and top Soviet government leaders. The meeting put the last touches on the communique on three-day Soviet - French negotiations from which both sides have emerged without budging from their original positions. A high diplomatic source said Mollet reported to NATO ambassadors at a luncheon at the French embassy earlier that no agreement was reached during the negotiations and neither side suggested an agreement.

KEEP NATO TIES

"About the most important result of the talks, according to Mollet," this source said, "was the Russians were finally convinced France will not give up her NATO ties."

As they stepped out into the street, a crowd pinned back by militia on the opposite side of the road broke into a roar of applause. Then Khrushchev precipitated the near-riot. He grabbed Mollet impulsively by the arm and started across the street toward the crowd.

CHAMPAGNE AND TALK

The departure climaxed a boisterous evening at which Khrushchev - with Bulganin at his elbow - poured champagne and held forth on disarmament, hunting, the Soviet leaders' recent visit to England and the importance of friendly relations. The occasion was a lavish reception in honor of Mollet, attended by Moscow's entire diplomatic corps. After the reception, Bulganin, Khrushchev, Mollet, Pineau and French ambassador Maurice Dejan disappeared into the ambassador's study for an hour's private talks. There was no immediate information on the topics discussed but informed sources said North Africa did not come up. They said it would be discussed when the French and Soviet gather this morning. The French are reluctant to admit discussions of North Africa because they always have maintained North Africa is an internal French problem.

EXCHANGE QUIPS

At Friday night's reception Khrushchev told Mollet: "The cold war is like a corpse but gathered around it are a lot of people who are weeping and hope the corpse will come to life."

Mollet replied: "We want to bury the corpse."

Khrushchev retorted: "But at the funeral there will still be a lot of people weeping."

Mollet exchanged a series of quips with Soviet leaders. Former Premier Georgi Malenkov remarked to him, as Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan chatted on and on, "You see what collective leadership is like. One man talks for all."

"Really?" said Mollet. "When one of you eats, do all of you stop feeling hungry?"

HAS INTERESTING TRIP TO OTTAWA

Douglas Cudmore, 19, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Cudmore, Elm Avenue, City, is being greeted on his return at the Charlottetown airport by Rotarian J. L. Doyle, manager of Canadian National Telegraphs here. Whilst in the capital the group, which comprised a large number of youths from various sections of the country, were interviewed over the CBC national network on three occasions. On four other occasions they took part in general discussions over the international network, these latter were held at Carleton College. In the discussions the lads were asked to give their own impressions as to what appealed to young Canadian students the most and what was their opinion of the Parliament Buildings and the City of Ottawa. During their visit to the House of Commons, the most interesting discussion they had the privilege of hearing was that on the trans-Canada pipeline. It proved so interesting that some of them voluntarily returned to listen to the evening sessions. The group was addressed by the Hon. Mr. J. W. Pickersgill, who also presented them with citizenship papers. Others by whom they were addressed were: the Hon. Stewart Garson; Hon. George Douglas is fourth year student at Prince of Wales College. In 1955 he was king of the campus, in 1956, president of the Student Council and was an outstanding hockey and football player. His intention at the present time is to enroll at MacDonalld College, Montreal, this coming fall. This summer, as in others, he plans to return to his seasonal employment at the Science Service Laboratory, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Charlottetown. He will be a guest speaker at Rotary on May 22.
