LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—Wednesday next 25th inst., is set apart as "Thanksgiving Day" in this Island.

CORRECTION.—A paragraph in our last issue relating to shipping—copied from and credited to the Halifax Citizen—first appeared in the Herald.

EXHUMED.—A number of human skeletons were exhumed at Ottawa on Monday last from the site of the old graveyard used by the residents of Bytown in its primeval days.

Mr. Thomas Cannon, of St. Eleanor's, killed on Monday last, a fine pig, 14 months old, weighing 428 lbs. This is the best pig we have heard of this fall.—Sum. Journal.

Mr. Napoleon Pineo, of Rustico, a fisherman in the employ of Mr. Howard Churchill, caught during the past season 33,760 mackerel. This, we believe, has never been equalled on this Island, by any one fisherman.

A boy, seventeen years of age—named John Gillis, of this Island—was recently sentenced in the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, to eighteen months imprisonment in the penitentiary for stealing a horse.

JOURNALISTIC.—A new morning paper to be called The Standard, Conservative in commercial principles, will shortly be established in Ottawa, by Messrs. Taylor & Green.—The British Colonist, of Halifax—now tri-weekly—will soon be issued as a daily.

'PROFESSOR ANDERSON'S LECTURE.'—To the disappointment of a great many citizens—who had made their way, through the muddy streets, to the door of the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on Wednesday evening last, in the expectation of receiving a rich intellectual treat—Professor Anderson's lecture was postponed till this (Monday) evening.

SHIPBUILDING AT RIVER JOHN.—We are informed that the keels of three new ships have already been laid in the different shipyards. Mr. Kitchin's ship is intended to be of 1,200 tons register; Mr. McLellan has one of 1,000 tons; and Mr. Henry one of 600 tons, all to be classed for nine years. There are to be ready to be launched by April next.—Pictou Standard.

Mr. James Annand, the youngest son of Hon. William Annand, was accidentally shot at Hayti. He had intended to go shooting; and in putting his gun into a boat it was accidentally discharged into his breast, killing him instantly. The young man had been several years in Hayti and was prosperous and popular. We greatly regret the untimely death of so young a man, and the sorrow that will be caused among his family and friends.

TRADE AT MONTAGUE BRIDGE.—Our own correspondent at Montague Bridge writes (Nov. 20):—This week I intended to have given you a list of the schooners and vessels that loaded and cleared within the last ten days; but I will do so in my next. Yesterday, four schooners arrived, some of them laden with prime lumber, apples, cabbages, &c. You will hardly hear anything about the streets but potatoes and oats. The latter is still bringing 48 cents per bushel, and the farmers are hauling to market at a great rate. Potatoes sell at from 24 to 26 cents. There are two American schooners here, besides seven or eight others, which are going to load with potatoes, oats, turnips, pork, beef, &c. Pork is worth from 7 to 8 cents per lb.; beef, 5 cents per lb.; turnips, 20 to 22c. per bush.; hides 7c per lb. The Brigantine 'New Era' is going to sail for Georgetown to-morrow, where they contemplate finishing her load. The 'Aurora,' (Messrs. A. A. McDonald & Bros.) is getting loaded very rapidly, and in a few days will be fitted up. Two men, from Charlottetown, a few days ago, purchased over 300 sheep about Montague and vicinity, and drove them to town.

D. Currie, Esq., Collector of Customs, paid a flying visit to this place last evening, and Dame Rumor says that he was installing Mr. Rowe—who supersedes Mr. Sprague—as Collector at this Port.

"WESTMINSTER REVIEW."—The reprint of the Westminster Review for October has just been published by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay Street, New York. Our space will allow us to do little more than mention the articles which make the present number unusually interesting. I. 'The Revolt of the Res Iuum.' An exposition of the causes of the fall of the Gladstone Administration, a result brought about by the temporary disaffection of a large class of Liberal voters who were not so much alienated from the principles as dissatisfied with the measures of their party. II. 'The Character of Achilles.' A portrait of the typical Greek hero, who 'more than any character of fiction represents the qualities of the Greek race in its heroic age.' Art. III. reviews Prof. Cairnes' recent work on some leading 'Principles of Political Economy. The reviewer mainly confines himself to a discussion of the theory of wages, the subject of value, and international trade. The examination of the trade of the United States opens up the subject of protection, the observations on which, though brief, merit attention. Art. IV. is devoted to recent Theories on the Origin and Development of Language, and compares and discusses the opinions of Max Muller, Farrar, Darwin, and Hewitt Key. The reviewer contends that the faculty of language is not a special endowment abruptly bestowed, but is the result of gradual development; he claims it as 'congenial to man—born with him but it is only congenial as a beard and mustache are congenial.' V. 'Charles and Mary Lamb.' The imperfections of all editions of these works are pointed out, Mary Lamb's memory having hitherto suffered great neglect. Art. VI. exhibits a very defective system of administration with respect to Indian Public Works. Art. VII. takes up Dr. Clarke's recent work on 'Sex in Education,' and impeaches the accuracy of his conclusions. The statistics here produced go far to prove that whatever be the nature and extent of the physical deterioration is not due to the present system of educating girls, 'whether in institutions devoted exclusively to them, or in those in which the youth of both sexes are educated together.' After disposing of Dr. Clarke, the reviewer considers some of the causes which, singly or combined, modify the hygienic state of American women. The whole article merits careful perusal. VIII. 'The Best Food for Man.' An argument for a fruit and farinaceous diet. Besides the above a large number of short notices of recently published works will be found under contemporary Literature. Our readers will do well to provide themselves for the coming year with one or all of the periodicals reprinted by The Leonard Scott Publishing Co. They are as follows: The London Quarterly, Edinburgh Westminster and British Quarterly Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine. Price, $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all.

"YOUR MONEY OR YOUR LIFE."

A FRENCHMAN HAS A FRARFUL CONTEST WITH ROFFERS.

MR. PAPERNEWS,—i has a tarrable stury about rober to tole you. I am sure when you here dat your har wil stan on your body lac a porcupine's quil. To tole you my stury rite, i must began in de mornin. I day, week before las, i get Joe Fabang, Joe Mash, Joe Perush an Poshclare to help me haul me stuf in town. We has big load of pork, an oat, and barly an potatse. When we arive in town i sel me hoat on Peek, me pork on Conly. Mill Bitchel buy me barly an give me 82 cent a price for all i has. Me potatse i has to sel every whar. When i get pay for all dat stuf you may depen i has a pile of money on me carcase dat i never has de lac of it before at I taam. When we was heet me diner on de pablic hous, we hear so many stury of rober dat i got scare me. im sure dat der was more den 20 mans on dat hous dat has bran new pistol dat dey buy to protect derself from rober, an dey devise me to buy I to. Wel after diner, i go on Baldy, dats de place dem chap buy der own, an i hax him what a price dem machin you has to kill rober. He say he has not I lef, but if ill wait I week he will has plenty. He say dat he sel more pistol since der was talk of rober, den was sel in charlytown for 20 years before. i den go on dawsing, an he tel me a stury about rober dat make me wish i was home a long si my ole wimins. But i buy a pistol from him, de las he has. When i show dat mashin to Joe Mash, he laugh lac to kit hiself, and say dat he beleve dat dem stury bout rober was mak a parpos to mak foolish mans give der money for a machin lac dat. But when Joe go on to charlytown he go to much wid big felo lac Cornel Greay, an drink to much brandy, on its no use to mind what he say. We start for home den, and when we was 5 or 3 mile from town, 2 big mans jump from de bush an ketch me bridle horse an hax me for all dat money i has. i get such a scare when i see dem dat i forget dat i has a bran new pistol i buy dat day a parpos to kil rober. I felo jump on me wagon an try to pull me of, but I strik dat felo an aful blo on de face and hax him how he lac dat for money. i am sure that felo is so much mash up dat his mader wil not no if dat is her boy. When i give him dat blo i see de fire fly out of his eye jus lac chain lightnin; when i fix dat felo in such a way dat he was all spoil, i sriks de nex felo on de body. i tank no man ever get such a blo as dat was before i feel me arm go pas de elbo in his carcase. Den i pile him on top of fus felo and jump on dem wid me heel boots. Every jump i mak i feel me go trou dem lac if i was go trou a hole in de ice. if dem rober is alive yet, am sure dey has black all over der body. i tank dis was no fight lac dat since de taarable fight of de Batterloo, an i feel as proud as ole Bony mus feel when on top of de halps. But i has de drolest part of me stury to tole you you yet. Altho de oder 3 felo was wid me all de taam on de road, dey see no rober dey hear no noise, an dey see no fight, an Joe Mash he swar dat dat is a stury i mak a parpos to mak peep believe i's am a great mans. An he say dat all dem felo dat tel a big stury about a fight wid rober is all a nonsence, what you tank Mr. Papernews.

I remain, your frien,

BIG SYLVESS.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE FOR DECEMBER, 1874.—A characteristic feature of Harper's Magazine is the expansive development of the subjects treated in its illustrated articles. To give examples would be to recite the contents of volumes. Thus in its articles of travel, Harper's Magazine, instead of moving rapidly over a large extent of country, takes up some subject full of interest—as in its recent articles on Newport, Marblehead, and Portsmouth—and leaves no important feature untouched. We have a striking instance of this method in the opening article of the December Number—the first part of a magnificently illustrated papers on St. Augustine, from the pen of Constance Fenimore Woolson. It is evidently the result of patient study; but the author has looked upon the old city with fresh eyes, and has invented a new style of treatment, weaving the threads of romance with those of travel. Her story is embellished with twenty-five bright illustrations of scenery and character. Miss Woolson also contributes a Florida poem, 'Pine Barrens.'

Professor Simon Newcomb contributes a popular article, amply illustrated, on 'The Coming Transit of Venus.'

Nothing could be more timely than Mr. Conway's third paper on 'Decorative Art and Architecture in England,' which among other interesting features, describes I. Alma Tadema's house, the decorations of which were ruined by the recent great gunpowder explosion. Illustrations are given of these decorations, with a portrait of Tadema.

We have in this Number the second paper of 'The First Century of the Republic,' which is the running title of a series of papers commenced in the November Number—a review of the progress of the Century now closing. Each department is treated by a specialist. The present instalment is the first of three or four papers devoted to the department of Mechanical Progress, from the pen of Edward H. Knight, of Washington. This article contains thirty-six illustrations, and covers the progress made in agricultural implements the applications of steam, and the machinery for the manufacture of cotton.

Senor Castelar's papers on the Republican Movement in Europe are continued. In this month's instalment there are brilliant characteristics of Rousseau, De Foe, and Pestalozzi.

The 'Rape of the Gamp,' Mr. Mason's bright and vigorous serial story, grows more fascinating as it progresses, and Mr. Frederick's illustrations are especially happy.

An illustrated poem, by Miss M. C. Pike, entitled 'The Ballad of Breakneck,' narrates in strong verse a very touching legend of the Hudson.

Three excellent short stories are given: 'A Character Mask,' by John McCarthy; 'On the Circuit,' by Fanny Hodgson Burnett; and 'The Survival of the Fittest, by the Rev. William M. Baker, the author of 'Mose Evans.'

An eloquent and instructive paper on the 'Genesis of the New England Churches,' is contributed by Eugene Lawrence, apropos of the recent publication of Dr. Bacon's book with that title.

The Editorial Departments are as comprehensive and attractive as usual.

HALIFAX MARKETS.—Halifax advices of the 19th inst., report P. E. Island, oats firm at 60 cts. per bushel, with very light arrivals for the season. Potatoes in fair demand but stock heavy and prices unchanged. Butter in large supply and quiet. Lard unchanged.

By a steam tug explosion near New York yesterday, five persons were killed and the captain fatally injured.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

TEMPERANCE.—The Grand Division assembles in this city on Thursday, Dec. 3d.

PERSONAL.—Rev. D. McDonald arrived home on Monday evening last.

THE WEATHER.—There was "a cold snap" on Saturday night and Sunday, the thermometer registering as low as 17.60.

THE RAILWAY.—The railway is, we are informed, finished, and the engineers are finally inspecting the line. A large amount of freight—oats, barley, etc.—is accumulated along the road, and it is hoped that there will be no delay in commencing the runningof trains.

SIR JOHN'S ELECTION.—Telegraphic advices from Kingston report that Sir John A. McDonald's Council admitted some bribery on the part of Sir John's friends; but he said that if "the petitioner went on with personal charges he did it at his own peril and at risk of being liable for costs."

The petitioners counsel, stated that petitioners would proceed with the case for personal bribery. Witnesses were then called, the first being James Shannon, who lives in Kingston. He testified that he took part in the last election; was not a member of the committee, and have my own doubts as to their being any committee; spent $400 last election; got $500 from Sir John; also got $1000 from different parties—some from Hon. James Patten; but don't know various items, as I handed amount of balance, with memo., to Hon. Alex. Campbell. This was three weeks before the, election.

A special to the Tribune, reports that "Sir John A. McDonald occupied the witness box all Wednesday last. No evidence of personal bribery was elicited from him. Before leaving the box he said he did not directly or indirectly sanction or approve the spending of any money for bribery, nor did he promise any. Bethune, petitioner's counsel, afterwards addressed the court, arguing that the respondent should be disqualified, notwithstanding there was no special act of personal bribery proven against the respondent. Bribery by agents, he thought, was sufficient to disqualify him. Wa ken, for Sir John, argued that it was not shown that any of the money placed in the hands of the respondent's agents had been used for improper purposes. He asked the case to be dismissed, the petitioner paying costs.

A late despatch to the St. John Telegraph states it is probable the petitioners having failed to prove personal bribery, will have to be mulct in costs of inquiry.
