Borden and Vicinity

Congratulations to Mr. William Chaisson of Borden who came first at the step-dancing and fiddling contest in Kinkora recently.

Mrs. David MacLeod and little daughter Jo Anne spent a few days in Charlottetown recently with her sister, Mrs. Frank Butler, returning to Borden on Nov. 9th.

The regular auction party of the Borden Women's Institute was held in the town hall on Thursday evening with five tables playing. Ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Archie Gallant, gen's by Mr. Elmer McInnis, with consolation prizes going to Mrs. Foch McKenna and Mr. Jack Chisholm. The freizeout prize was won by Mrs. James V. MacDonald.

—Many friends of Mr. Harold MacDonald of Borden who has been employed with the Canadian Dock and Dredge Co. at Picotou regret that he has been admitted to the hospital there with an ulcerated tooth complication.

Mr. A. P. Ceretti, Assistant District Commissioner of Boy Scouts, accompanied the Borden Scouts to the celebration at Charlottetown on November 9th, and left in the evening for Moncton, N.B.

At Borden as elsewhere the coming of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh was eagerly awaited. The car ferry M.V. Abegweit carrying the Royal left Cape Tormentine about 7 A.M. and when over half way across the Straits the Duke came from his car. He was met by Captain John R. B. Maguire and escorted through the ferry. He talked with other officers about the ship and when the boat docked a few minutes after 8 A.M. he was watching her dock from the bridge. When leaving the pier the Duke stayed at the rear platform of the train waving to workmen everywhere until past the upper powerhouse. He then went inside the car probably thinking that was Borden and when the train pulled in to the station where nearly a thousand people from far and near had gathered hoping to catch a glimpse of their Royal Highnesses, the shouting soon brought the Duke to the platform again where he graciously acknowledged the cheering by smiling and waving his hand. A special train took the school-children and many others to Charlottetown where they saw the Princess and Duke at close hand.

Probably the little boy who received the biggest thrill of the day at the capital was Aubrey Darrach, little seven-year-old son of Warrant Officer Writer Eldon Darrach and Mrs. Darrach of Borden. Aubrey was accompanying his uncle, Mr. Lloyd Yeo, who was in charge of Animal Husbandry at the Experimental Farm and when the Princess and the Duke were passing through one of the buildings with Mr. Yeo they shook hands with Aubrey and the Duke took him along by the hand. When talking he told the Duke, "My daddy is in the Navy". The Duke asked him if he would like to be in the Navy when he grew up and Aubrey promptly replied, "I might be, I like their uniform". The Duke told him he was a fine little fellow. Later the court photographer presented Aubrey with an autographed photo of their Royal Highnesses.

SPURNS METERS

SHEDIAC, N. B.—(CP)—Town Council turned thumbs down on a proposal to instal parking meters here. A special committee reported it felt that they would not be a paying proposition for Shediac at the present time.

BROOKFIELD W. I.

The regular meeting of the Brookfield Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Wood on October 9th.

Meeting opened by repeating the "Creed" in unison and the minutes of the last meeting were read and signed. Roll call was answered by nine members, each of whom brought a hat for the sale, during which 90 cents was realized. Purchasers thought so much of their newly purchased hats that they kept them on for the remainder of the evening. Collection was 40 cents.

The sick committee had nothing to report and the school committee stated they had visited the school and a new globe was needed. It was decided the teacher should be asked to get one. One pair pyjamas was passed in to the Red Cross convener. $21.23

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WRECKED

Nature manages to provide a great assortment of weather conditions just at the season when travel in Birdland is at its peak. Equinoctial gales, torrential rains, sleet, and freezing temperatures are interspersed between days of sunshine and calm. Not so many years ago this was all with which the migrants had to deal; now, with the progress of civilization in America, hazards multiply.

Last May immense flocks of Warblers flying north from their winter quarters were grounded by strong winds on Padre Island off the coast of Texas. Hundreds were killed in Corpus Christi by striking buildings, street lights, and telephone poles. Occasionally land birds attempting to migrate close to the east coast of America are blown far out to sea. Vessels sometimes encounter hosts of small song birds struggling to turn back to shore.

But the reverse took place last summer when gales of 100 miles an hour battered those ocean divers, known as Brunnich Murres. Unable to contend with this force of nature, many were blown from the coastal waters of Labrador far up the St. Lawrence River. As their only diet had always been salt water fish, which could not be caught so far inland, from Montreal on, they left behind a trail of dead and dying comets. Exhausted and starved, the few that actually reached Lake Ontario could not survive.

A late spring snow storm often endangers the lives of migrants. Not only are they hampered by the heavy, wet snow, but their food is covered up. Early fall frost may seal small ponds, depriving fish eaters of their customary restaurants.

But it is man who erected light-houses and tall buildings against which so many travellers are wrecked. Man, too, is responsible for the death of Ducks that eat contaminated food found in the water of some lakes. Shot spells tragedy for many. Numbers are never retrieved, but left dead or wounded.

Oil on the surface of water where Ducks usually come down for rest and refreshment is a grave menace. Unsuspectingly, whole flocks descend from the sky only to be imprisoned by the oily scum that clogs their feathers. Scores are found unable to rise again. Sometimes this spilling of oil has been due to an accident, as when a tanker is rammed. At other times oil has been illegally dumped, as on the Thames, England, last August when the victims were Swans.

WHAT "JOB-RATED" MEANS

A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job . . . save you money . . . last longer. Every unit that SUPPORTS the load — frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires — is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed.

Every unit that MOVES the load — engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle — is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.

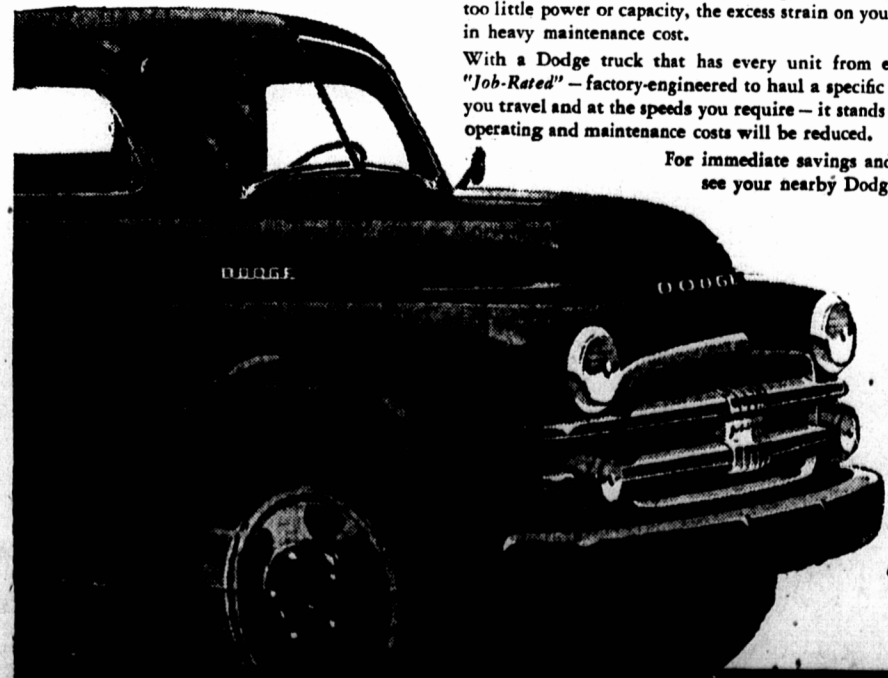

WITH DODGE "Job-Rated" TRUCKS

Whether your loads are big or little, heavy or light . . . your roads paved or rough, level or hilly . . . there's a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck engineered to fit your job.

If you now have too much power or capacity for your particular job, the surplus is being wasted — operating costs will be high. If you have too little power or capacity, the excess strain on your vehicle will result in heavy maintenance cost.
