VERNON RIVER TEA.—The tea at Vernon River, on Wednesday next, promises to be a great success. The committee are working hard and the ladies are determined to sustain their good reputation for catering. All amusements usual on such occasions will be provided. Go and have a good time.

LAST CHANCE.—A great number of people called at Johnson's Drug Store last evening to see Mrs. Mills' shoe, which was so badly shattered by lightning recently. The shoe is still on exhibition at the store, but will be removed after to-night. Call and see if before it is taken away.

OBSTRUCTING THE SIDEWALKS.—A limit should be set to the time given to parties in utilizing a part of the sidewalk while building operations are going on. It appears that such inconvenience is unnecessarily given in allowing barricades to remain when their existence is unnecessary.

The passengers included three Sisters of Charity, Miss Hunter, Homer Taylor, George Law, Miss Mooney, Miss L. T. Mooney, Mrs. Brennan, Miss Smith, from Montreal; Miss Dalhousie and J. Tickets by the railway will be issued at one first-class fare.

EXCURSION.—The steamer St. Olaf, with an excursion party from Cape Breton numbering about one hundred, on board, arrived here from Pictou last evening about ten o'clock, and left on return about two o'clock this afternoon. The steamer left Pictou about seven last evening. William Cook, the veteran pilot, is in charge. The excursionists are fine-looking people, and their behaviour about the city is in pleasing contrast to that of some others who have visited us.

THE OPERATION TOO PAINFUL.—A young girl named McLeod, servant at D. J. McRae's, Haddock, C. B. tried to cut her throat on Friday last. She went to bed in the afternoon and cut several gashes in her throat and other parts of her body, but finding the operation too painful began to scream, which attracted the attention of the other inmates of the house. She did not give any reason for her strange action. She wrote a letter to her parents saying she was going to kill herself but gave no reason. She is not considered insane.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Interior Department Officials in Trouble.

The Tarte-McGreedy Affair Further Ventilated.

OTTAWA, July 11. Yesterday the Deputy Governor-General gave the royal assent to thirty-five bills.

The debate on the budget occupied the whole day. Turner and Henry, two employes of the Interior Department, were suspended yesterday, and Deputy Minister Burgess tendered his resignation.

In the Tarte-McGreedy investigation, two expert accountants were appointed to examine the books and report. Nicholas Connolly swore that the large sums which Murphy claims to have paid Langevin and McGreedy were protected by Murphy and Robert McGreedy, and reference to Murphy's and McGreedy's bank accounts show deposits to their credit at corresponding dates agreeing with the amounts alleged to have been paid Langevin and Thomas McGreedy.

Distress in India.

LONDON, July 11. The distress in India is reported to be on the increase. Prices are rising still higher. The supply of fodder in many districts is exhausted and cattle are dying.

Fishery Bulletin.

(Fisheries Intelligence Bureau Report.)

HALIFAX, July 11.—The codfishery was very good to-day at Seven Islands and Perce and Newport Point, but poor at Grand River and Paspebiac, Que. There are no reports of fish taken to-day on the northern coast of New Brunswick. Yesterday a heavy storm prevailed by which three boats and one schooner were lost, but no lives were lost. It is probable that more disasters will yet be heard of, as the whole fishing fleet were out and have not returned. A fair catch of cod reported at Malpeque, P. E. I., and Mabou, and St. Peters, C. B. A fair catch was made at Canso, but good at Port Medway, where they are reported plentiful 18 to 20 miles off shore. The herring fishery did fairly well to-day at Perce and Newport Point, Que., Port Hawkesbury, C. B., and Digby, N. S., but good catches are taken at Port Medway. Mackerel are taking hooks freely at Miminigash, where 100 per boat were taken. Fair catches are also reported at Alberton, Horse Head, Nail Pond, Tignish and Malpeque, P. E. Island, Port Hawkesbury, C. B., and Port Medway, N. S. Halibut and haddock are reported good at Digby, N. S.; haddock fair at St. Peters, C. B. Mackerel and herring are reported schooling at Lunenburg, N. S.

Supreme Court.

SATURDAY, July 11.

The jury in the case of McKeena vs. Fisk, after four hours deliberation, brought in a verdict for the defendant on all the issues, standing 5 to 2. Morson for plaintiff; Hazzard and Peters for defendant.

Joseph Wise vs. Janet McKinnon.—Action of ejectment. By direction of the Court a verdict was found for plaintiff.

The Court took recess till three o'clock this afternoon when the prisoners found guilty during this term were sentenced as follows by Chief Justice Sullivan:—

John T. Connolly—indicted with one Geo. Taylor for breaking and entering the premises of A. White, and taking therefrom a sum of money—three years' imprisonment in Dorchester penitentiary.

Norman Valley—larceny of liquor from warehouse of W. W. Clarke—two years in Dorchester penitentiary.

Mari Cumming, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the premises of W. W. Clarke and taking liquor therefrom, was given three years in Dorchester Penitentiary.

William Potter and William Mahar—Breaking and entering the warehouse of Archd. Kennedy and taking therefrom a quantity of knives, etc. In this case sentence was withheld because of the extreme youth of the prisoners, who promised faithfully to be better boys for the future. They were released on their own recognizance to appear for sentence when required.

—Mr. Wier, one of the editors of the Halifax Evening Mail, writes an interesting letter from Georgetown in which he advises that Haligonians who feel the need of a holiday could not do better than turn their steps towards "the garden of the gulf"—otherwise Prince Edward Island, and in which he remarks that, "a brand new Government is wrestling with the affairs of P. E. I. just now. It is not Liberal-Conservative, and the majority of the people I talked with appeared to regret that such was the case. While there are good men on both sides of the House, it is very generally conceded that the brains and executive ability are at present in opposition. Hon. Neil McLeod, as clever as he is big, and as genial as he is clever, no longer marshals the Government host, for the reason that said host is of the wrong persuasion. He is still on hand, however, and apparently enjoys sitting in opposition. One can easily discover a satisfactory smile on the ex-premier's face as he watches his successor's more or less successful attempt at handling the reins. And these same reins must needs be carefully handled, for although charitably disposed towards the new Government, the opposition is not composed of men who sleep while their friends the enemy make mistakes. The men in opposition are in point of fact very much alive."

Written For The Examiner.

On the Gulf Shore at Brackley Point.

Faded and gone, the sweet and full delight Of a fair summer day by wind-swept shores, A twilight eve beside the surging wave, And homeward wanderings beneath the light Of trembling stars, through quiet country roads,

While friendly voices charmed the listening night With story and with song. The happy hours Have glided by and entered silently The sacred realm of memories golden zone, Where evermore, like music faintly heard From far-off worlds, their influence lingers on.

Oh dear companions of the ocean shore, Already, faint and far away, the surge Is gleaming as of yore o'er stretching sands, The salt grass waveth on o'er sandy dunes, And quivers as the cool breeze passeth by— And like an opal gem, whose beautiful light Shines clearly from its crystal loveliness, So gleams the pearly hue on rippled cloud From out the soft faint azure of the sky.

But far away and shadowy as a dream The opal loveliness of that brief day, Its light of morn, its glow of afternoon, Its tender pensiveness at twilight hour, Oh friendly souls, I see you once again, In scattered groups about the windy shore, While sea birds sweep from out the distant main,

Like spirits from another world and evermore The breakers curl upon the gleaming sands, And then again my fancy wanders o'er The vast mysterious waste of waters wide About whose far horizon silently The distant wanderers sink below the verge To seek for other shores and one by one Kind memory calls the dear, the loving friends Who sighed farewell and sought the spirit's realm.

Far in the west the sloping sunbeams fall Along the purple haze that hangeth o'er The fruitful fields of peaceful Rustico, Whose gentle toilers came from Acadie In olden days of war and earthly strife. Now peacefully about the distant hills, Their homesteads nestle 'mong the leafy trees And sloping fields, where ever silently By day, by night, through sunshine and through storm, The hidden seed expands to harvest bloom.

Slowly from o'er the distant stretching sands, Towards his peaceful, well-loved cottage home, The patient rustic comes at close of day With heavy freight of weed from sea-swept shore,

The tribute of old ocean's solemn depths To ripening harvests of the smiling earth. Out on the sweet blue fields of briny foam The fisherfolk have toiled from morn to eve, And gleaming fair, and slowly drifting on, About the waters all the livelong day, Their snowy sails hang o'er the soft blue sea, Where, in the olden days, the mariners From France and England came and glided on, And felt the fair enchantment of the scene,

And marked the loveliness of this sweet land, And heard from Indian lips the sacred name Of lovely "Abegweit," fair home upon the wave. The day is done, and all material things Have vanished in the shadowy realm of night, And underneath the glow of shining stars, Suggestions of the clearer, brighter light Of immortality come thronging one by one. Farewell again, dear friends, good night, good night; May many another morn and balmy eve, By wind-swept shores and under kindly skies, For you and yours come with the future years.
