IN MEMORIAM

MacEWEN—In loving memory of mother, Mrs. Lottie MacEwen, who passed away August 18th, 1948. Always remembered by Gladys and Eldon.

MACDONALD—In loving memory of Angus A. MacDonald, Flat River, who passed away August 18, 1951. There is no parting from those we love. No distance can divide. For today in memory's garden we still walk side by side. Ever remembered by Catherine.

RIX—In loving memory of Gordon Freeman Rix of Free-town who departed this life on August 18th, 1955. This month is here with deep regret. It brings back a day we will never forget. He fell asleep without saying goodbye. But memories of him will never die. Lovingly remembered by wife and family.

MACPHERSON—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Dougald MacPherson, who passed away on August 5th, 1956 and our father, Dougald MacPherson and brother, William Colin, who passed away on August 17th and 18th, 1934. So many times we think of you throughout the lonely hours, and give our grateful thanks to God. For all our cherished memories. Lovingly remembered by all the family.

PIERCE—In loving memory of a dear husband and father Robert A. who went to heaven with his savior on August 18, 1957. Words cannot express how we feel today. For it was a year ago God called you away. The precious memories of the few short years we shared, and your faith and courage the darkest hours have cheered. God's will is best for our lives we know. And do not ask why? when the clouds hang low. But ever thank him for the memories we have. And the dear little girl that he gave us to love. Lovingly remembered by wife, Edna and daughter Marilyn.

Khrushchev Attempts To Shift Blame To The West

By ROY ESSOYAN
MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev attempted to shift blame to the United States and Britain Monday for torpedoing a summit conference and leaving the Middle East crisis to the United Nations General Assembly.

He still expressed the hope the assembly emergency session starting Wednesday would clear the way for a "conference of leading statesmen of the East and West."

Denying that the Soviet Union backed down from a summit meeting in the Security Council, Khrushchev said he proposed the General Assembly session because it had become clear that the United States and Britain planned a Security Council session loaded against Russia.

The two Western allies wanted to use the meeting as an attempt to justify their "armed aggression" in the Middle East and to hurl charges of "indirect aggression" at other nations.

LETTER IN REPLY

Khrushchev laid out his views in a letter to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Dated Sunday, the letter was in reply to one Macmillan sent to Khrushchev Aug. 7, accusing the Soviet Union of backing down after first agreeing to a summit meeting within the Security Council.

The letter was one more in a new barrage from the Soviet leader. He sent letters to Sweden and Greece Sunday asking for support of the Soviet stand in the General Assembly debate.

In Cairo, the newspaper Al-Ahram reported that Khrushchev also had sent an important message on the Middle East to Crown Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

Khrushchev traced the elaborate series of communications between the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union on a UN summit meeting and said he came to this conclusion: "It became absolutely obvious that the United States government, and the British government in solidarity with the United States, decided to attend such a session of the Security Council with the purpose of justifying the aggressive actions of America and Britain in the Middle East, and to talk about a non-existent threat of indirect aggression."

PLACE RESPONSIBILITY

The two Western governments wanted, within the Security Council, to "place the responsibility for the dangerous situation in the Near and Middle East—which resulted from American and British military intervention—onto other governments."

At such a Security Council session, "there would have been no serious discussions by the heads of governments on the question of the situation in the Near and Middle East, and it would all boil down to an aimless waste of time."

The council, with its present composition, "probably would not come up with a proper and correct solution to the Middle East problem." He accused the United States and Britain of trying to involve the Soviet Union in "a labyrinth of fruitless discussion."

Khrushchev indicated that the presence of Nationalist China in the Security Council was another reason for his shifting back to calling for a discussion of the Middle East problem in the General Assembly. He finally turned down the Security Council summit idea after visiting Mao Tse-tung of Red China.

HIS PLAN

Khrushchev recalled he originally proposed a heads-of-government meeting of himself, Macmillan, President Eisenhower, French Premier de Gaulle and Prime Minister Nehru of India with UN Secretary-General Hammarskjöld participating.

"As we were then, so we are now, profoundly convinced," he said, "that if one makes a serious approach to the examination of such important questions, a meeting of heads of governments with the composition proposed by us might lead to the most speedy and effective settlement of the conflict which has arisen, in the interests of universal peace."

"The agreement of the heads of governments of all the powers to whom we proposed the calling of such a conference would have proved a businesslike approach of the governments to the solution of major international problems, and we had great hopes that precisely such an approach would be taken by all."

Plan To Extend Coal Loan Terms

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government gave notice Thursday on the Commons order paper it will introduce a bill at this session authorizing extended terms of repayment on a $7,500,000 mechanization loan to the Dominion Coal Company Limited.

Under an amendment to the Maritime Coal Production Assistance Act, the company will have until 1963 to resume repayment of the loan.

It began repayment in 1953 at 30 cents a ton on coal produced in its mechanized sections but decided in 1957 to ask for an extension. Under the new terms, repayment must be made within 10 years after 1963.

Woods Travel Ban Is Lifted

HALIFAX (CP)—A 33-day ban on woods travel in Nova Scotia was lifted Friday.

Chief Forest Ranger R. H. Burgess said rain and high humidity in recent days has reduced the danger of fire. "Also we are now getting a considerable amount of dew at night which is staying until mid-morning."

He anticipated "no other big fires" for the rest of the year. So far there have been 200 fires which burned less than 200 acres of "barren and young growth." Last year 554 fires levelled more than 1,000 acres of woodland.

A July heat wave prompted the ban.

Would Have Federal Aid For Louisburg

OTTAWA (CP)—Robert S. MacLellan (PC—Inverness) Richmond Thursday suggested in the Commons that the federal government help restore, at least partly, the old French fortress of Louisburg on Cape Breton Island.

Destroyed by the British in 1758, it had been the only walled city in North America and was the scene of perhaps the first steps toward French-English cooperation that eventually made a nation of Canada.

He said he knows it would be too costly to restore Louisburg fully, but better roads to the area and better facilities for visitors were needed. He suggested consideration of a long-term program of restoration and improvement, with moderate sums made available every year.

He said it would add to the tourist attractiveness of the province.

Yank Marines Load Gear To Quit Lebanon

BEIRUT (CP)—A battalion of U.S. Marines loaded gear aboard ships Wednesday for their departure from Lebanon amid a flurry of leaflets saying Yankee Go Home.

The last of the battalion is expected to quit the beach Friday under an evacuation arrangement Tuesday in advance of the Middle East debate at the emergency session of the UN General Assembly.

Military authorities said there was no plan for immediate withdrawal of more of the 15,000 marines and soldiers flown in at the request of the Lebanese government.

Lebanese, who came out in droves to see the battalion load July 15, paid little attention to their departure.

SCATTER LEAFLETS

But one carload of Lebanese youths scattered unsigned leaflets on the beach saying: "Go home Yankees. We want you will not stop short of anything, even death, if American soldiers are not withdrawn from our country in the soonest time."

The marines loaded the last some stuffed copies of the leaflets in their bags as souvenirs.

Wrangling continued over the makeup of Lebanon's delegation to the special UN assembly session in New York.

Foreign Minister Malik was delaying his departure in an attempt to form a more widely representative delegation—possibly including some opposition politicians.
