BANKRUPT NATIONS.

Five years before its occurrence a statistician, rendered by the fulfillment of his prophecy the most distinguished in all France, predicted the collapse and ruin of the Panama canal scheme, and the same person, Mr. L. B. B. B., now predicts the imminent bankruptcy of France and Germany.

France has just refunded its 4 1/2 per cent in a 3 per cent loan, effecting thus a saving of $1,500,000 per year, but has been practically ruined by an increasing deficit, which between the years 1881 and 1891 amounted to more than $100,000,000 per year.

In addition to her military and naval expenditure, which are of crushing weight, the state is being drained in all manner of subsidies, for agricultural credit, co-operative societies, pensions for old age and a great number of similar outlays, some of which are to be met in response to an urgent popular demand for them, not accompanied by any perception of the additional strain which they impose upon the state's already overstrained finances.

Mr. B. B. B. points out that this cannot go on for ever, and his forecast attracts a good deal of anxious attention. At the same time the annual deficit of Italy in late years is $50,000,000, and that of Spain, from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. Portugal and Greece have been practically bankrupt for years, the former running behindhand about $10,000,000 a year, and the latter about $4,000,000.

All the borrowing countries have out all the money which they could find anybody to lend to them, and have nothing left to show for it, having gone in military and naval expenditures and in keeping the machinery of the respective states going.

Germany as yet makes ends meet, but is perhaps the most oppressively taxed country in the world, and is forced by its territorial situation to keep armaments which cannot be sustained permanently by any community. The financial situation of Europe is manifestly precarious, and it gets worse from year to year without sign of improvement in any quarter.

According to the economist, the only effective centre of relief is in the reduction of the enormous armaments which the nations are obliged to maintain in order to repress the disposition of their neighbors to do as they please and read and annihilate and destroy them. But this reduction is more likely to be made upon the battlefield than by any amicable agreement of the powers.

Looking out on the whole, the future is not bright, but for that matter it never is. The European storm cloud of battle is always gathering or breaking, and the majority of her nationalities are always on the verge of bankruptcy.

The present state of the world is a constant balance on the wrong side of the ledger and an increasing difficulty in making ends meet. In comparison with these, which are chronic abroad, our own financial, industrial, and economic, lose something of their oppressive aspect.

COLOSSAL FORTUNES.

By a calculation made a short time ago, by an American statistician, it seems that seventy citizens of the United States possessed among them an aggregate sum of $2,400,000,000. That gives an average of $27,500,000 for each person. To come to particulars: There was one estate—We refrain here from mentioning names—reputed as worth no less than $30,000,000. There were five individuals valued at $20,000,000; one valued at $14,000,000; two valued at $12,000,000; six valued at $10,000,000; six valued at $5,000,000; four valued at $4,000,000; six valued at $3,000,000; ten valued at $2,500,000; four valued at $2,000,000; and fifteen valued at $1,000,000.

The brain reels before such figures. These immense masses of wealth which the ordinary mortal is powerless to grasp. Besides these seventy colossal fortunes there are fifty other persons in the Northern States alone valued at over $2,000,000 each, thirty of them being valued in all at $20,000,000. There were some time ago published lists of sixty-three millionaires in Pennsylvania possessing in the aggregate $50,000,000, and of thirty persons in America whose wealth aggregated $100,000,000. In Boston fifty families pay taxes on annual incomes of about $200,000 each.

We have nothing to compare with such colossal masses of wealth in Great Britain. Baron Rothschild and Lord Overstone each left about $3,500,000; the late Lord Dudley left $4,000,000; the late Duke of Buccleugh, estimated to be the richest Scotchman, left an estate valued at $5,000,000. One living English duke is valued at $10,000,000 and another at $8,000,000, but not many names could be added to these to place against the above list of American fortunes.

In 1884 there were only one hundred and four persons in the United Kingdom whose incomes from business profits were returned as over $50,000 a year. In 1888 there were only seventeen estates which paid probate duty on about $250,000 each.—Chambers's Journal.

I had a severe attack of the grip in the winter, and after getting over the fever I did not seem to gather strength, and had no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla proved to be just what I needed.
