Pugwash Statement Warns Of Peril To Civilization

PUGWASH, N. S. — Fourteen distinguished American, British and Canadian historians and men of letters joined Thursday in a call to their colleagues to "work in cooperation with the scientists to help create an atmosphere of common understanding which can prevent the mass suicide of mankind." unquote.

This "Pugwash statement of the Anglo-American conference" came at the conclusion of a week's deliberations by the group as guests of Canadian-born Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Easton at this Thinkers' Lodge here. During their sessions, which were devoted to the general theme of "the preservation of the values of the Anglo-Saxon tradition in a scientific world," the conferees met on successive days with the Lieutenant-Governors and premiers of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

QUESTION OF SURVIVAL

The Pugwash statement cited the need "to bring man to his senses, to a realization of his peril and to an understanding of the ways that are required to induce a toleration that will permit the survival of the best of our traditional civilization."

"A way of life that reduces nations merely to armed garrisons may ultimately result in a race of surviving troglodytes creeping about on the floor of these caves that offer maximum security," the statement asserted

"It is the duty of historians to point out the mistakes of the past and to provide a perspective that will save civilization from this degradation and final destruction. The need to make the greatest intellectual effort yet required in the life of man binds together the historian, the classical scholar, the scientist and the artist. It is the effort to re-examine the forces of religion, history and national aspirations and so reshape them that the peoples of the earth may live together in harmony and so continue to live at all."

DISTINGUISHED AUTHORS

Prominent among the authors of the Pugwash statement was Boston business executive Thomas Boylston Adams, who is president of the Massachusetts Historical Society and a direct descendant of John Adams, third President of the United States, John Quincy Adams, sixth president, and Charles Francis Adams, U. S. Ambassador to England during the Civil War.

The 13th duke of Bedford, whose title dates back to 1540, came from Great Britain for the sole purpose of attending the Pugwash conference, as did Dr. Robert Birley, head Master of Eton College, Dr. James Drner, dean of faculty of arts of Edinburgh University, Dr. F.C. Francis, keeper of the British Museum's department of printed books and Dr. Ronald Syme of Brasenose College, Oxford University.

Other U.S. conferees included Dr. Francis Berkeley, curator of the University of Virginia Library, Dr. Julian Boyd of Princeton University, editor of the papers of Thomas Jefferson, Dr. Lyman Butterfield of Harvard University, editor of the Adams papers, Dr. Myron Gilmor, chairman of Harvard's history dept., Dr. John Haskill Kemble, professor of Naval history at Pomona College in Claremont, California, Walter Muir Whitehill,, director of the library of the Boston Athenaeum and Dr. Louis Wright, director of the folger Shakespeare library of Washington, D.C.

Serving as special Canadian participant in the Pugwash conference was Dr. Colin B. MacKay, president of the University of New Brunswick.

Flash Fire Forces Crew To Swim Ashore

A flash fire, which originated from the engine of a Tignish lobster boat, forced the crew members to abandon the craft and swim ashore near Nail Pond last Tuesday afternoon.

Tignish lobster fishermen Wendell Harper and Chester Handrahan were en route to overhaul their traps when the fire broke out. They were being assisted for the day by Wendell's father, Mr. Fred Harper, also of Tignish area.

The fire spread very quickly and, fearing an explosion, the two younger men dropped overboard and made their way to the shore which fortunately was not far away. Handrahan being unable to swim, was assisted by Harper. The elder Harper remained aboard and attempted to disconnect the gasoline tank in a hazardous try at saving the boat. Finally giving up the task he also made his way ashore and heard the tank blow up seconds after he had reached safety.

The boat, rented from Myrick and McIntosh, burned down to the water line. Also lost were three sets of oil clothes and some hand-lining equipment. The boat engine was owned by the two fishermen.

A fire had broken out near the engine the previous day but was brought under control before getting out of hand.

Missing Girl Found With Carnival Here

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — A 15-year-old girl missing from her home at nearby Camp Aldershot for 25 days has been found in Charlottetown working with a travelling carnival.

RCMP said here a picture of Pauline Fay Schofield published in Thursday's Halifax Chronicle-Herald led to her liscovery. A New Glasgow man reported seeing the girl with a carnival in Charlottetown about the same time an army sergeant at Camp Aldershot reported to RCMP he saw the girl with the show.

The girl was the subject of a search begun Aug. 5 when Shirley May Arenburg of Berwick, N.S. was found injured in a ditch near Perth, N.B. She told po'ice she jumped from a car when the driver molested her.

She said she was hitch-hiking from Berwick to Toronto, with Schofield girl but later said Pauline left her in Nova Scotia.

L. Montague Native Dies At Attleboro

Ellsworth C. Field, 58, born in Lower Montague, a son of Mrs. Lillian (Hewitt) Field and the late Rev. William M. Field, died Saturday in Sturdy Memorial Hospital, Attleboro, Mass.

Mr. Field, a sales executive of the L. G. Balfour Co., Attleboro manufacturing jewelers, for 35 years, was stricken at his home a week ago.

Survivors include his wife, his mother, two daughters, Joanne and Patricia, a brother and sister.

The funeral was held on Wednesday at Attleboro.

Mainland Exhibitors Heavy Winners In Jersey Classes

Two Jersey herds — one from Truro, Nova Scotia and one from Rothesay, N. B., made rough going for Island breeders at the Provincial Exhibition yesterday.

Margaret Norrie from Truro took eight first prizes and went on to take the junior male championship, the junior reserve champion female, the senior reserve championship and the female reserve grand championship.

The Campbell MacKay herd from New Brunswick which has been an annual exhibitor here for some recent years took six firsts and won the senior and grand male championship as well as the senior and grand female championships. MacKay also took the reserve junior male championship.

STIFF COMPETITION

Island breeders however had no reason to reproach themselves in losing to such high class competition. Both mainland herds are what might be termed "hand picked stock" where the purchase price is no obstacle to the owner.

A. J. Boswall of Marshfield took the junior female championship and veteran Jersey breeder, Edison B. Mutch of North River took reserve senior male championship and reserve male grand championship was "River North Beacon Royal".

The Boswall herd took five first prizes, six thirds, three fourths and one fifth. Ledwell Boswall took a first and a fifth; Fred Kitson, George MacMillan and Clark Bros., each got into the top placings. Kitson's herd captured more than twelve of the biggest monied ribbons.

Fred Coles of Milton got into the winning column with three seconds, four thirds, four fourths and one fifth. Elmer Myers Bruce MacDonald and Gordon Docherty made good showings.

Hereford Show Is Very Keenly Contested

With only four exhibitors in the breed, the Hereford show at the Provincial Exhibition this year proved to be one of the most keenly contested.

For the past number of years the show was pretty well dominated by one breeder, Fulton Sanderson and Sons, North River. This year the Sanderson herd acquitted themselves well but not before they had met some real stiff competition from Gordon Matheson of Hunter River, Clark Johnston of Milton and Lowell Wyand and Son of Cavendish.

Sanderson's herd had the senior champion female and reserve and these two animals went on to take the grand female and reserve. The North River breeders took the junior champion male reserve and the junior champion female.

Gordon Matheson showed the junior champion male. He also had the reserve grand champion male and the reserve junior female. The grand champion male animal of the show was owned by the P.E.I. Hereford Breeders' Association.

Altogether the Sanderson herd captured eight firsts, eight seconds and two thirds. Matheson had six firsts, three seconds and three thirds. Lowell Wyand had one first and one third. Clark Johnstone had one first two seconds and two thirds.

Competition Is Keen In The Red Poll Show

Although the Red Poll Cattle show was dominated by the entries of Lank Bros. the senior champion male and grand champion male were shown by Alex Buell of Murray Harbour.

The senior champion female and grand champion female was shown by Harold Scott of Clyde River.

The herd of Lank Bros. of Charlottetown R. R. took the lion's share of ribbons as they walked off with Junior Champion male and Reserve Junior Champion male, the Reserve Senior Champion male, the Reserve Grand Champion male, The Junior Champion female, the Reserve Junior Champion Female, the Reserve Senior Champion female and the Reserve Grand Champion Female.

Adding to their all ready abundant supply of prizes the Lank Herd also captured a large number of first placings.

A Trophy donated by the Bank of Montreal and a halter donated by the Provincial Red Poll Club was also won by the herd.

The following are the results of the Red Poll judging:

Car Damaged In Hit And Run Crash

A hit-and-run collision occurred last night when a Pontiac car moving south on Prince Street struck the rear section of a Chevrolet car parked in front of the Guardian Office. The Pontiac cut directly into the parking area, narrowly missing two cars to strike the Chevrolet.

The driver immediately backed out of the area and continued down Prince Street with either the fender or bumper scraping the roadway or wheel. City Police were immediately notified of his action, and given the number of the car which was soon found abandoned on West Street. The driver was not apprehended at the time.
