

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JANUARY 4, 1883.

Meeting of Parliament.

The Leaders of the opposing parties will meet their followers in Parliament at Ottawa on the 8th February.

On the other hand, Mr. Blake will miss the aid of Sir Albert Smith, of Sir Richard Cartwright, of Mr. Anglin, of Mr. Huntington, and of many other leading followers, while the whole body politic of Gritdom is in a state of comparative chaos.

Our telegraphic correspondent says the coming session will probably be short. Having settled the trade question, the Pacific Railway Question, the Civil Service Reform Question, and other questions of importance, there remains few National questions ripe for legislation.

Our Shipping.

There are now registered in Charlottetown, 248 vessels of 41,684 tons. Of these 13 are steam vessels, and 235 sailing vessels.

We trust that in the present year there will be added to the list at least one or two good steamers such as we require.

"Heroes of Lost Causes."

LECTURE BY REV. GEO. W. HODGSON.

A fairly large audience assembled last night at the Y. M. C. A. to hear the Rev. G. W. Hodgson's lecture on "Heroes of Lost Causes."

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Hodgson said that a cause which had been lost, probably deserved to be lost, but that he would ask the sympathy of his audience not for lost causes, but for their heroes, the men who had fought, and struggled, and died, for what they believed to be their duty, and yet were apparently unsuccessful.

The second of the heroes was one from Roman History. The lecturer spoke of the state of the Roman government after the Republic had conquered the world, giving it as his opinion that a Republic could conquer a world wide dominion, but could not successfully govern it.

The third hero was Pontiac, the great Indian Chief of last century. He was the only Indian who knew anything of united action against a common foe.

The fourth hero was general Lee, the great soldier of the Southern States. Mr. Hodgson pointed out that the South was right from a merely legal point of view; but that in living national sentiment the North was right.

Several other heroes were touched upon by the lecturer—Herward, Palissy, Stradivarius, Kosciuszko, and the boy hero of the lost cause of French Imperialism who fell in Zululand. The lecture ended with some general remarks on duty. The only way to be heroic is not to try to pose as a hero, but to do simply and quietly the duty that lies nearest.

Charlottetown Pottery Works.

The Pottery Works which are situated in the suburbs of this city are well worth visiting at the present season. Work is being carried on in the establishment as lively as in mid-summer, and the ware turned out is pronounced by dealers to be superior to the imported articles.

Yesterday, the writer visited the works in company with a representative of the Patriot. We were cordially received by the Superintendent and conducted through the different buildings—the pottery, the kilns, the bone mill and ware-rooms.

On concluding our inspection of the stock on hand, Mr. Hornsby gave an exhibition of its manufacture. He, on beginning, explained the manner in which the clay is prepared. Taken from the pit it is placed in an iron "pugmill" or "blinger," and there mixed until it presents the appearance of cream.

The clay so flexible is placed on an iron disk which is turned by simple cog-wheels. As the disk revolves the potter moulds with his own hands, a pot, a jar, a vase, a pan, or any of the wares to be found in the large catalogue which the Charlottetown Pottery Company presents to the public.

The ware manufactured at the Charlottetown Pottery, as we have said before, is exceptionally good; it is uncommonly cheap and very durable. It is the kind of ware which is used in every house in the Province.

An Answer Wanted.

To the Editor of the Examiner. SIR.—Could you inform me what is the correct or the commonsense use of the term "Professor?" I have always understood it to mean a University officer. But it seems now to have a wider application. Does it require any authority to confer it, or may I assume it myself, if I please? J. W.

Honor to Doctor O'Brien, the Archbishop-elect of Halifax.

On New Year's Day His Grace preached his farewell discourse to his Indian River parishioners, by whom he was presented with a well-filled purse, accompanied by the following

ADDRESS:

To His Grace The Most Rev. C. O'BRIEN, Archbishop-elect of Halifax: YOUR GRACE.—Having learned with deep regret that you are about to take your departure from amongst us, we, your humble parishioners of St. Mary's Church, Indian River, cannot permit you to leave us without giving expression to our high appreciation of you as our much beloved pastor.

During the eight years of your ministry in our midst you have labored zealously and indefatigably in all the work incident to the duties of your position. Through your unceasing exertions and wise counsels, all the affairs of the church are in a most satisfactory condition.

We feel that in parting with you we will lose a wise and devoted Shepherd. Your untiring zeal for our spiritual welfare and for the promotion of our holy religion; your unaffected piety, your unassuming and gentlemanly deportment, your irreproachable character, your unabating and faithful discharge of all the onerous duties pertaining to your Sacred Office have gained for you the character of a zealous Priest and Christian gentleman.

Although we deeply regret the idea of being separated from you, and of being deprived of your spiritual guidance, yet, we rejoice that you are about to be promoted to a high position, viz.—that of filling the place left vacant by the death of the venerable Archbishop Hannan. It is, doubtless, owing to your energy and rare talents, your zeal and piety, that you are now about to be elevated to a position where those inestimable qualities will have a more extended sphere of action.

We beg your Grace to accept the accompanying purse as a small but tangible token of our regard and esteem.

Whilst we now bid you an affectionate farewell, we ask of you to remember us in your supplications to the Throne of Grace; and be assured that we on our part shall not soon forget your many acts of kindness and your Christian devotedness in our regard, and that we shall not fail to offer up our humble prayers to the giver of all good things for your temporal and eternal happiness.

MULLIN, STEPHEN McMILLAN, ALEXANDER McINTYRE, JOSEPH McMILLAN, STEPHEN CAMPBELL, JOHN FORRISTAL, A. E. CLARKE, A. C. McLEOD, JOHN A. McDONALD, JOHN P. McLELLAN, DONALD S. McLELLAN, and the other parishioners of Indian River.

REPLY:

To MESSRS. TIMOTHY DRISCOLL, RODERICK GILLIS, and other Parishioners of Indian River.

MY DEAR FRIENDS,—I thank you very sincerely for your kind and too flattering address, as well as the generous gift which accompanies it.

It is, indeed, a source of real pleasure to me to find that my humble labors amongst you during the past eight years, have given such satisfaction. In that kindness of spirit which has ever characterized your relations towards myself, you attribute to me what, in great part, is due chiefly to your own generosity in the cause of Religion, and to the docility of your hearts to the words of my teaching.

Believe me, my dear friends, that the regret which you feel at our separation is shared by myself; for the ties of duty and love which have bound me to you have, every day, been increasing in tenderness and strength. Each day you gave some fresh proof of affection and ready submission to advice which was tendered solely for your eternal good. If any spiritual profit has been gained, to God be the glory. He it was who gave the grace to which you opened your hearts; and the garnered fruits are, I trust, securely laid up in Heaven.

As you say, I am called to a higher position; God knows I never sought it; and He, also, knows how truly I feel my unworthiness to it. Your fervent prayers will, I feel sure, help to procure me some of the many graces and gifts of which I stand in need.

The well filled purse which accompanies your address is only one of the many substantial tokens of your good will which I have received during these happy years of my ministry amongst you.

In bidding farewell to my quiet home at Indian River, and to my well loved parishioners, I can only pray that God may bless you all in your homes and families, in your going out and in your coming in, in your hopes and affections; and that, finally He may one day bring us all to meet in joy at the throne of His Eternal Majesty. O. O'BRIEN.

Mount Stewart Literary Institute and Debating Society.

On Wednesday, the 27th inst., the young men of Mount Stewart and adjacent localities to the number of about fifty, assembled in the Hall for the purpose of discussing the propriety of forming and organizing a Literary Institute and Debating Society. The meeting was opened by appointing Mr. James Gillis, Chairman, and the undersigned Secretary. The following officers were unanimously elected:—

President—Wm. James Logan, Esq., J. P. Vice-President—Mr. James A. McInnis. Treasurer—Mr. Felix Feehan. Managing and Executive Committee—Messrs. Edward Leeman, Roderick McDonald, and the Secretary.

After these preliminary proceedings were gone through, a subject for discussion was introduced, which was ably and eloquently sustained by both parties. Next question for debate: Which policy is the better for a nation to adopt, Free Trade or Protection? To be opened by Mr. Felix Feehan. The following gentlemen will no doubt speak in favor of Free Trade: Donald A. McDonald, Horace McEwen, Edward Leeman, Wallace Clarke, whilst the following gentlemen will as strongly advocate the benefits which accrue from Protection and the N. P., viz.:—The President, Rodk. McDonald, William Logan, junr., Doctor McKay and others. As the subject for discussion has a political bearing, a very lively and exciting debate is anticipated. Night of meeting, Wednesday at 6.30. PETER O'KEEFE, Sec'y. Mount Stewart, Dec. 29th, 1882.
