MUNYON

HAS A CURE FOR EACH DISEASE.

With Munyon's Improved Homœopathic Remedies in the House Mothers Can Become the Family Physician-

Professor Munyon is honored today as the leading authority in the medical world. His new and humane methods of treatment have swept away all the old-fashioned ideas of doctoring with poisonous drugs that create a dozen diseases in the effort to get rid of one. He does not claim that he has one remedy that will cure all complaints, but that he has prepared a specific cure for nearly every disease. He does not claim that Munyon's Rheumatism Cure consumption, dyspepsia or any other complaint, but he does assert that it will cure rheumatism. Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure is prepared expressly to cure dyspepsia; Munyon's Cough Cure to cure coughs; Munyon's Catarrh Remedies to cure catarrh; Munyon's Kidney Cure to cure kidney troubles. The same may be said of all Munyon's different remedies. They may be obtained at drug stores, mostly at 25cents a bottle.

Testi-monial

C. P. Fletcher, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I do not wish to return to Montreal without expressing my gratitude to you for the very excellent Bell Piano that you placed at my disposal for my recital. I have tried many Canadian Pianos of different manufacturers and must say that, considering the size of the instrument, I have never found one to equal it for depth and brilliancy of tone. The action is quite as elastic and responsive as in American Upright Pianos of the highest grade. Again thanking you, very sincerely,

I remain,

Yours,

NOW THEY DON'T SPEAK.

A Little Mistake In Friendly Advice Caused all the Trouble.

"Don't you and Agnes speak to each other now?" asked the prettier girl of the two as a third maiden swept indignantly past them. "And, by the way, she wasn't at the Waitell's dance, was she?"

The other girl smiled repressedly and threw a forgiving glance after the retreating figure.

"No," she said demurely, "and that's why we don't speak. She blames me for having to stay away. I never do a really kind action but somebody turns against me."

"What did you do for Agnes?" inquired the pretty girl keenly. "Did you lend her that awful purple waist of yours, or"—

"No," was the quiet response. "I didn't, but she had such a bad cold the day of the dance that her nose was awfully red, and I was so sorry for her. I told her that grandma always cured me when I was like that with a hot footbath. It leaves your face just lovely and white, you know. So I went home with Agnes and fixed the bath ready for her, and she said she could just feel her nose getting whiter. So she kept her feet in the water for an hour. It did her lots of good, but there! She always was ungrateful anyway. The next day she wouldn't speak to me."

"Why?" queries the pretty girl curiously. "What did you do to her?"

"Nothing," responded the other girl, more demurely than ever. "It was what I didn't do that made her mad. You see I forgot to tell her that mustard water always blisters tender feet if you keep them in just a mite too long, and she didn't go to the dance because her feet were so sore by the time she took them out that she couldn't get even her bedroom slippers on. And now she blames me because her skin is so sensitive."—New York Press.

A Joy That Endures.

Cures Made by Paine's Celery Compound are Permanent.

Recent Testimony of a Lady Cured Years Ago,

Some years ago Mrs. D. O'Connor, of Guelph, Ont., suffered from the tortures of indigestion, neuralgia, heart trouble, noise in the head, sleeplessness, despondency and weakness. Her case was an exceptionally serious one, as her troubles had been dragging her down for twenty-five years. At the time her case quite baffled the skill of the best doctors.

Getting wearied with medical treatment that gave no promising results, she was fortunately directed to that life saver, Paine's Celery Compound, and like thousands before her, she found a new life. Mrs. O'Connor was recently asked the question, "What is your present opinion of Paine's Celery Compound?" She answered as follows:

"In reply to your communication rearding Paine' Celery Compound, would say that I cheerfully recommend it to any one afflicted as I was. It did for me all that was requised. My advice to every one I come in contrct with is, 'Always keep a bottle of Pain's Celery Compound in the house.' Several people have used it on my recommendation and have been benefitted. You can use these lines in any way you desire."

A Du Maurier Story.

One of the best stories told of Du Maurier is this from the English journal Lloyds, as related by a correspondent: "There was some years ago in Hampstead road a pavement artist, now dead. Du Maurier often dropped a coin into the poor man's hat. One cold day the author of 'Trilby' told him to leave his 'pitch' and go to the model soup kitchen in Euston road to get some food. Du Maurier, as a joke, consented to take charge of the mat. When the man was out of sight, he proceeded to wipe out the pictures of battle scenes, faithful dogs, etc., and commenced drawing portraits in chalks of the society ladies and gentlemen made famous by him in Punch. Passersby stopped to look and remunerated the deputy, and when, an hour later, the man returned he was pleased to find so much in his hat, but regretted that his work had been destroyed. 'This may attract some people, but it ain't art,' he said to the amused Du Maurier as he commenced wiping out the society males and females. 'Now, this pleases everybody,' he continued, drawing the picture of a soldier."

A FEW WORDS OF ADVICE BEFORE YOU DYE.

When you dye at home your chief view is economy. Home dyeing economy means the very best results from a minium of expense, time and trouble.

Your objects and desires are fully realized only when the Diamond Dyes are used your work. If you are one of the careless unfortunates who simply take a package of dye of the color required from your dealer, you will in nine cases out of ten suffer loss and great disappointment as many merchants will hand you some common dye ruinous to your goods, dangerous to handle and worthless as far as coloring power is concerned, and on which a large profit is made. If you secure the Diamond Dyes your success is sure and certain.

Diamond Dyes have a long record of triumphs in home dyeing work; they have been used and tested in every land and have become friends and family necessities. Happy women everywhere dye with Diamond Dyes, Quackery is always discovering remedies which will act upon the germs of disease directly and kill them. But no discovery has ever yet been approved by doctors which will cure consumption that way. Germs can only be killed by making the body strong enough to overcome them, and the early use of such a remedy as Scott's Emulsion is one of the helps. In the daily warfare man keeps up, he wins best, who is provided with the needed strength, such as Scott's Emulsion supplies.

Aids digestion wonderfully Adams' Tutti Frutti.

THE AFRICAN BABOON

DAMAGE HE DOES TO SETTLERS WHO CALL HIM ADONIS.

Extraordinary Intelligence Attributed to the Beast—Poison Useless, as It Is Detected—How the Monkeys Amuse Themselves.

The South African colonists have got rid of their lions and elephants, but they have not yet been able to get the better of the baboons. A baboon, although somewhat like a dog, has all the mischievousness of a man. He is the ugliest animal in all creation. The Boers call him Adonis and never designate him under the official name that has been given to him by science.

Now this creature is the curse of Cape Colony. He commits depredations for the love of the thing. Any imprudent tomcat that ventures too far away from home is sure to be captured and strangled for fun by a baboon. Nearly all the Angoras, the choicest and most costly animals imported by the colonists, have been destroyed by these huge monkeys. Even the dogs share the same fate. The bravest and most pugnacious of the English canine breeds are unable to cope with adversaries armed with just as powerful jaws, and with the immense advantage of having four hands instead of four paws. With a dexterity that conspicuously exhibits his surgical aptitudes, the baboon bleeds his enemy in the throat, and in less than a minute the duel ends in the death of the dog.

When the shepherd is away and the dog has been disposed of, the flock is left without defense. Although the baboon generally feeds upon lizards and beetles, he does not despise a few mouthfuls of mutton, which he devours seated on the back of his living victim. Unfortunate are the goats and sheep that are attacked by these cynocephali! When Adonis finds his appetite fully satisfied, he enjoys at a little distance the contortions of his victim. He frequently attacks cows, but never attempts to get into close quarters with a bull. The ostrich, thanks to its extraordinary speed, can easily get away from the baboon, but it is very much afraid of him and immediately runs off on hearing his bark. It is noteworthy that nature has given to the baboon not only the head of a dog, but also the voice of a dog. All birds that are not remarkable for their intelligence have an insurmountable dread of the cynocephali.

One of the principal amusements of these big monkeys is to gambol around the wire fences that protect the tame ostriches just to terrify them. The panic among them is so great that they often break their legs in their wild rushes. This is a pastime which the monkeys seem to enjoy hugely. It is known that a broken leg for an ostrich means a death sentence.

A baboon runs away from a man, but he has no fear of a woman. After all there is no good ground for the mortal terror which Adonis inspires among some of the negro women of South Africa. As a matter of fact, the fear of the cynocephali is often merely a pretext among the young Zulu and Basuto belles to get the escorts of their choice to accompany them to the wells. The baboon is a very bad fellow and an intolerable neighbor, but he should not be slandered.

The Adonises travel in packs of about 50 or 60. They always keep out of gunshot range and watch for a chance to do mischief in the absence of shepherds or guards. To get rid of the ugly marauders the colonists some time ago established poisoning clubs, which were subsidized by the British authorities. All the old poisons and the new discoveries of chemistry were tried, but they proved worthless. A hungry panther or jackal might easily enough swallow a few grains of arsenic or a strychnine pill placed in a piece of raw meat, but a baboon is never deceived by so simple a method. He is a delicate and refined fellow, accustomed generally to live upon eggs, fruits, lizards and different kinds of insects. He becomes carnivorous at rare intervals only, and apparently, in some degree at least, for the pleasure of torturing the unfortunate domestic animals that may fall into his clutches. His infallible instinct teaches him to distrust men, even when they are offering presents. With a marvelous scent that might well do honor to a professional expert he detects the presence of a mineral or vegetable poison in the quarter of mutton that he finds by chance as he travels along. Moreover he is thoroughly aware of the fact that wise apes in permanent contact with barbarians from Europe should never swallow pills.

These animals are possessed of almost human intelligence. It is impossible to get near them in the daytime, and at night during their hours of repose they are always surrounded by a cordon of sentinels whose vigilance is absolute. At the slightest indication of the approach of an enemy one of the sentinels yells out: "Yah hou! Yah hou!" And in an instant the whole troop disappears. It is unfortunate that, in his dictionary of the language of monkeys, Mr. Garner does not give us the exact derivation of "Yah hou!"

It is also noteworthy that the baboons never attempt to fly if the man who comes to trouble their repose is not armed with a gun. Although they exhibit extraordinary power of measuring by instinct the average range of a rifle and cautiously keep out of the way, they exhibit no fear whatever of cold steel. If they find themselves confronted by a settler with no means of defense except a hunter's knife, they send a shower of stones at him, and the lord of creation is obliged to retreat before a battalion of cynocephali that hurl projectiles at him while keeping at a distance, because a man, even when he is beaten, never entirely loses his prestige among the baboons.—Paris Figaro.

Dr. Kane's Simile.

Dr. Elisha Kane, the arctic explorer, on being asked what he thought of a certain after dinner speech, replied that it was like an arctic sunset. "What do you mean by that?" asked his friend. "It was bright and interesting," replied the doctor, "but provokingly long in operation."

Handy For Waiters.

Doors in the dining rooms of hotels and restaurants can be automatically opened by a new device, consisting of a lever attached to the bottom of the door, to be pressed by the foot and to unlatch the door and swing it open at the same time.

No matter how strongly a man pretends that he doesn't believe in ghosts, it may be doubted if he ever goes by a churchyard at midnight without feeling as if something were going to grab him from behind.

Kidney Trouble Cured.

A WELL KNOWN HOTEL-KEEPER RELATES HIS EXPERIENCE.

He Suffered Greatly From Kidney Trouble and Indigestion—He Doctored for a Long Time Without Getting Any Relief.

From the Standard, Cornwall.

The march of the world's progress is forced, protracted and continuous, the competition for supremacy is keen. The man of business must keep rank if he would secure any covetable measure of success. The watchfulness, vigilance and thought involved in modern superintendency produces a severe strain on the physical and mental powers of modern business men, and exposes them to the attacks of certain diseases. Considering that much depends on health in this struggle, it behooves those who would be victorious, to guard against the first approach of disease. Neglect of early adjustment of digestive and kidney disorders is often fraught with dire results, added to this is the unpardonable trifling with health by experimenting with all manner of worthless decoctions. It is simply invaluable to make the acquaintance of a safe and effective remedy such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. James Macpherson, hotel keeper in the village of Lancaster, and Glengarry county, has done business for a number of years in Lancaster, and having successfully catered for the patronage of the travelling public therefor is favorably known not only at home but also abroad. In conversation with a newspaper reporter he enumerated some of his ailments and how he was cured. About two years ago he said, "my whole digestive apparatus seemed to become disordered. Some days I could move around, then again I would be obliged to go to bed. I tried several things but with indifferent success. Occasionally I felt relieved, but in a day or two the old symptoms would return with a more depressing effect. This kind of thing went on until I became troubled with my kidneys, which was a very annoying addition to my sufferings. I was restless, with a sensation of sickness at the stomach, with intermittent pain in the small of my back. I was miserable enough when I consulted the doctor who probably did me some good, because I felt relieved. The doctor's medicine was taken and his directions obeyed, but I did not improve. I had heard of the fame of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. My wife believed in and urged me to try them. I am glad I did so for after taking one box I felt better, and I continued taking the Pills until I was completely cured. This summer I had an attack of the same complaints and I found Dr Williams' Pink Pills as effective as before. I had this advantage, my knowledge and belief in the pills saved me from costly and tedious experimenting such as I had undergone previously. I may further add that both myself and Mrs Macpherson have derived much benefit from the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills, and I can cordially recommend them to those who are suffering similarly.'

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapper bearing the full trade mark, Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.
