Weak and Nervous

Whenever the body has been weakened by disease, it should be built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

"About two years ago I suffered with a very severe attack of inflammation of the bowels. When I began to recover I was in a very weak and nervous condition, and suffered intensely with neuralgia pains in my head, which caused loss of sleep, and having no appetite, I and weak. Fortunately a friend who had used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great benefit, kindly recommended me to try it. I did so and a perfect cure has been effected. I am now as well as I ever was, and I would not be without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house for anything." MRS. G. KERN, 245 Manning Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Scott's Emulsion

is Cod-liver Oil emulsified, or made easy of digestion and assimilation. To this is added the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, which aid in the digestion of the Oil and increase materially the potency of both. It is a remarkable flesh-producer. Emaciated, anæmic and consumptive persons gain flesh upon it very rapidly. The combination is a most happy one.

Physicians recognize its superior merit in all conditions of wasting. It has had the endorsement of the medical profession for 20 years.

CHAPTER I.

AFTER A STORMY LIFE.

To hear people talking about North Devon, and the savage part called Exmoor, you might almost think that there never was any place in the world so beautiful or any living men so wonderful. It is not my intention to make little of them, for they would be the last to permit it; neither do I feel ill will against them, for the pangs they allowed me to suffer; for I dare say they could not help themselves, being so slow-blooded, and hard to stir, even by their own egrimonies. But when I look back upon the things that happened, and were for a full generation of mankind accepted as the will of God, I say that the people who endured them must have been born to be ruled by the devil And in thinking thus I am not alone; for the very best judges of that day stopped short of that end of the world, because the law would not go any further. Nevertheless, every word is true of what I am going to tell, and the stoutest writer of history cannot make less of it by denial.

My father was Sylvester Ford of Quantock, in the county of Somerset, a gentleman of large estate as well as ancient lineage. Also of high courage and resolution not to be beaten, as he proved in his many rides with Prince Rupert, and, woe that I should say it! in his most sad death. To this he was not looking forward much, though turned of three score years and five; and his only child and loving daughter, Sylvia, which is myself, had never dreamed of losing him. For he was exceeding fond of me, little as I deserved it, except by loving him with all my heart and thinking nobody like him. And he, without anything to go upon, except that he was my father, held, as I often heard, as good an opinion of me.

Upon the triumph of that hard fanatic, the brewer, who came to a timely end by the justice of high Heaven—my father, being disgusted with England as well as banished from her, and despoiled of all his property, took service on the continent, and wandered there for many years, until the replacement of the throne Thereupon he expected, as many others did, to get his estates restored to him, and perhaps be held in high esteem at court, as he had a right to be, but this did not so come to pass. Excellent words were granted him, and promise of tenfold restitution; on the faith of which he returned to Paris, and married a young Italian lady of good birth and high qualities, but with nothing more to come to her. Then, to his great disappointment, he found himself left to live upon air—which, however distinguished, is not sufficient—and love, which being fed so easily, expects all who lodge with it to live upon itself.

My father was full of strong loyalty; and the king (in his value of that sentiment) showed faith that it would support him. His majesty took both my father's hands, having learned that hearty style in France, and welcomed him with most gracious warmth, and promised him more than he could desire But time went on, and the bright words faded, like a rose set bravely in a noble vase without any nurture under it.

Another man had been long established in our hereditaments by the commonwealth, and he would not quit them of his own accord, having a sense of obligation to himself. Nevertheless, he went so far as to offer my father a share of the land, if some honest lawyers whom he quoted, could find proper means for arranging it. But my father said: "If I cannot have my rights, I will have my wrongs. No mixture of the two for me" And so, for the last few years of his life, being now very poor, and a widower, he took refuge in an outlandish place, a house and small property in the heart of Exmoor, which had come to the Fords on the spindle side, and had been overlooked when their patrimony was confiscated by the brewer. Of him I could speak with no contempt, because he was ever as good as his word.

In the course of time, we had grown used to live according to our fortunes. And I verily believe that we were quite content, and repined but little at our lost importance. For my father was a very simple-minded man, who had seen so much of uproarious life, and the falsehoods of friends, and small glitter of great folk, that he was glad to fall back upon his own good will. Moreover he had his books, and me; and as he always spake out his thoughts he seldom grudged to thank the Lord for having left both of these to him. I felt a little jealous of his books now and then, as a very poor scholar might be, but reason is the proper guide for women, as we are quick enough in discerning it, without having to borrow it from books.

At any rate we were living in a wood, and trees were the only creatures near us, to the best of our belief and wish. Few might say in what part of the wood we lived, unless they saw the smoke ascending from our single chimney, so thick were the trees, and the land they stood on so full of sudden rise and fall. But a little river called the Lynn made a crooked border to it, and being for its size as noisy a water as any in the world, perhaps, can be heard all through the trees and leaves to the very top of the Warren wood. In the summer all this was sweet and pleasant; but lonely and dreary and shuddersome, when the twigs bore drops instead of leaves, and the ground would not stand to the foot, and the play of light and shadow fell, like the lopping of a tree, into one great lump.

Now there was a young man about this time and not so far distant from our place—as distances are counted there—who managed to make himself acquainted with us, although we lived so privately. To me it was a marvel, both why and how he did it; seeing what little we had to offer, and how much we desired to live alone. But Mrs. Pring told me to look in the glass, if I wanted to know the reason, and while I was blushing with anger at that, being only just turned eighteen years, and thinking of nobody but my father, she asked if I had never heard the famous rhymes made by the wise woman at Tarr-steps:

"Three fair maids live upon Exymoor,
The rocks, and the woods, and the dairy door.
The son of a baron shall woo all three,
But barren of them all shall the young man be."

Of the countless things I could never understand, one of the very strangest was how Deborah Pring, our only domestic, living in the lonely depths of this great wood, and seeming to see nobody but ourselves, in spite of all that contrived to know as much of the doings of the neighborhood as if she went to market twice a week. But my father cared little for such stuff; coming from a better part of the world, and having been mixed with mighty issues and making of great kingdoms, he never said what he thought of those little combings of petty pie-crusts, because it was not worth his while. And yet he seemed to take a kindly liking to the young De Wichehalse, not as a youth of birth only, but as one driven astray perhaps by harsh and austere influence. For his father, the baron, was a godly man—which is much to the credit of anyone, growing rarer and rarer, as it does—and there should be no rasp against such men, if they would only bear in mind that in their time they had been young, and we are not quite so perfect then. But lo! I am writing as if I knew a great deal more than I could know until the harrow passed over me.

No one however, need be surprised at the favor this young man obtained with all who came into his converse. Handsome and beautiful as he was, so that bold maids longed to kiss him, it was the sadness in his eyes, and the gentle sense of doom therein, together with a laughing scorn of it, that made him come home to our nature, in a way that it feels, but cannot talk of. And he seemed to be of the past somehow, although so young and bright and brave; of the time when greater things were done, and men would die for women. That he should woo three maids in vain, to me was a stupid old woman's tale.

"Sylvia," my father said to me, when I was not even thinking of him, "no more converse must we hold with that son of the Baron de Wichehalse. I have ordered Pring to keep the door; and Mistress Pring, who hath the stronger tongue, to come up if he attempted to dispute, the while I go away to catch our supper."

He was bearing a fishing rod made by himself, and a basket strapped over his shoulders.

"But why, father? Why should such a change be? How hath the young gentleman displeased thee?" I put my face into his beard as I spoke that I might not appear curious.

"Is it so?" he answered, "then high time is it. No more shall he enter this"— house he would have said, but being so truthful changed it into—"but. I was pleased with the youth. He is gentle and kind; but weak—my dear child, remember that. Why are we in this hut, my dear? and thou, the heiress of the best land in the world, now picking up sticks in the wilderness? Because the man who should do us right, is weak, and wavering, and careth but for pleasure. So is this young Marwood de Wichehalse. He rideth with the Doones. I knew it not, but now that I know it is enough."

My father was of tall stature and fine presence, and his beard shone like a cascade of silver. It was not the manner of the young as yet to argue with their elders, and though I might have been a little fluttered by the comely gallant's lofty talk and gaze of daring melancholy, I said good-by to him in my heart, as I kissed my noble father. Shall I ever cease to thank the Lord that I proved myself a good daughter then?

It's All Nonsense.

For people to say there is no cure for consumption. Sufferers from that dread disease and kindred ailments are being saved every day by Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. Do not die without giving it a fair trial. If it will cure others it will cure you. The secret of its success lies in the fact that it creates new blood in the system, thus enabling sufferers from lung troubles to overcome the destructive forces at work to waste the tissues of the body. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood maker, and cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, scrofula and all lung affections. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

BUDS AND FLOWERS OF HOME LIFE.

The Little Ones Should be Healthy, Hearty and Happy.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND "MAKES THE CHILDREN WELL."

A FATHER'S LETTER.

The children, God bless them, are the buds and flowers of home life. They should ever be carefully tended in childhood and youth, if we expect them to ripen into perfect men and women.

In the home and at school the children have their times of ill-health and suffering. We often note the pallid and bloodless cheeks, heavy eyes, nervous movements and twitchings of limbs and muscles. They complain of headache, drowsiness, weariness, dyspepsia and indigestion. All such symptoms and ailments mean that the seeds of disease will have a fast and firm hold unless proper measures are taken to restore a perfect condition of health. Headache and nervous affections are terribly prevalent in the ranks of the little ones to day. Chorea or St. Vitus' Dance is now a very common trouble.

Thousands of wise and prudent parents have made their children happy, healthy and vigorous by giving them nature's medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. In many severe and critical cases Paine's Celery Compound has given a new life when children were given up by physicians.

Mothers! fathers! read the following letter from Mr. D. R. Pridham, of Amherst, N. S., whose child was cured by the medicine now so strongly recommended for your dear children:—

"It is with profound gratitude that I now give you my opinion of your valuable remedy, so well known as Paine's Celery Compound.

"About five years ago my daughter's health became so impaired that we felt very anxious concerning her. She complained of severe pains in the left side, also on the top of her head and in spine. The pains gradually got worse until she lost control of her limbs; we even found that her speech was affected.

"We consulted several skilled physicians; they pronounced it Chorea or St. Vitus Dance. The doctors prescribed various remedies for three years without affording any relief. She was so badly affected that she could not eat or sleep; she could not put a cup to her mouth at her will,

"After all other resources were exhausted I was advised by a friend to try Paine's Celery Compound. I resolved to give it a test, and immediately purchased five bottles and began to give it to my daughter according to directions. As soon as the fourth bottle was finished, I was agreeably surprised to notice a marked change for the better; so I continued with the Compound and she rapidly improved. When the fifth bottle was done she was in perfect health, and as far as I could see completely cured. She has taken no medicine for four months, and goes to school regularly. Many thanks for your valuable remedy, Paine's Celery Compound."

Commercial Travellers.

Wm. Golding, commercial traveller, 130 Esther St., Toronto, says:—For 15 years I suffered untold misery from Itching Piles, sometimes called pin worms. Many and many weeks have I had to lay off the road from this trouble. I tried eight other pile ointments and so called remedies with no permanent relief to the intense itching and stinging, which irritated by scratching would bleed and ulcerate. One box of Chase's Ointment cured me completely.

Bad Blood Between Them.

The ever slaving farmer's wife, her delicate sister in the city, suffer more than they care to tell. The dark rings round the eyes, headaches, dizziness, palpitation or rheumatic twinges, betoken a run-down system. The blood is poor, and is a bar to enjoyment of life. Scott's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, strengthens and vitalizes the system, and speedily restores the bloom of health to the cheeks. It cures when all others fail.

KEEP ENEMIES OUT.

All diseases that linger and finally kill are the effects of bad blood.

The blood must be kept perfectly pure. That is what the kidneys are for.

They have everything to do in filtering out the poisons.

This process of filtration may be interfered with by a cold.

Usually if there is any lack of good kidney work, it is a cold, or perhaps overeating and over-drinking.

Nearly every acute ailment starts with a cold. So do the diseases that finally kill.

The thing is to arrest the cold. This brings us to the question:—What is the best treatment for a cold. Experience teaches us, from the universal success of Dodd's Kidney Pills in all the forms in which derangements of the kidneys show themselves that there is no treatment known to man anywhere equal to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.
