S'side Fire Dept. Meeting
 —The regular monthly meeting of the Summerside Fire Department was held last night in the Town Hall with Chief, Abdon Arsenault in the chair.
 Jack Schurman acted as secretary in the absence of George Hogg, now on holidays.
 Little business was dealt with but Captain Mac Steele reported three hydrants leaking at the sides.
 Chief Arsenault asked for the ages of all firemen so that the town could put their insurance policies into effect. All over 60 years of age will be unable to secure protection in fires but not necessarily retired from the department.
 Various members of the department expressed sincere regret that Chief Arsenault was not officially invited to the Maritime Fire Chiefs convention in July at Kentville, N.S. It broke a long standing practice.
 It was not known whether the Maritime Fire Chiefs organization slipped up on this occasion or whether the town received the literature and invitation and failed to pass it on to the department.
 However, the secretary was asked to write the Maritime Fire Chiefs organization and get particulars.—S

Most Passengers
 United States Navy helicopters, British Navy craft and commercial planes from Greece, Israel, Turkey and Lebanon joined in the search for the plane after it landed. The first clue that there had been survivors came when the wife of Rene Guymard, one of the passengers, received a telegram from the little Turkish port of Feihlyc saying he was safe. Shortly afterward came the company's announcement about the plane being found.
 Among the passengers was Mrs. Marjorie Yabavi of Portland, Ore., and her year-old baby. Most of the other passengers were Middle Easterners.
 The Constellation was on an over-all Paris-to-Tehran flight.

Plan Big Welcome
 Final preparations were being rushed to give the first 400 returning Allied prisoners a heartfelt welcome when they start through "freedom gate" at 9 a.m. Wednesday.
 Presumably the first group of Allied captives reached Kaesong by train Monday night. Kaesong, the advanced Red truce headquarters, is within 15 miles of Panmunjon.
 Communist correspondents at Panmunjon said the Allied repatriates probably would be housed in the same brick schoolhouse buildings the Communists used for sick and wounded prisoners exchanged in April.
 Once the exchange begins to flow the Reds have agreed to hand back at the rate of 400 daily some 8,186 South Koreans, 922 British and 342 prisoners from nine other Allied countries. All but 500 were reported in sound physical condition.
 In exchange, the Communists will release 49,000 North Koreans and 5,000 Chinese at the rate of 2,400 able-bodied and 360 sick and wounded daily. About 3,000 Reds are reported ill.
 The truce supervisory commission announced Monday night that top army officers from Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia would be ready to proceed to Keel sea, rail and air ports of entry in the north and five in the south—to see that truce limits on entry and departure of men and arms are obeyed.
 No checks on the ports have existed since the armistice became effective at 10 p.m. July 27.
 At a meeting Monday of the joint military armistice commission, the Reds stipulated that no pictures would be taken on the Communist side of the 2-1/2-mile demarcation line across Korea's waist. Allied helicopters may not cross the cease-fire line running down the middle of the zone.
 The Allies offered to help remove mines and other hazards from the demilitarized zone. The Reds said they would study the proposal.

Passes To Civilians
 Civilians who formerly lived within the zones will be given passes to enter the area but will not be permitted to cross from Red to Allied territory, nor from the Allied to the Communist side.
 Even as new regulations hardened the demarcation line between North and South Korea, the Republic of Korea's National Assembly unanimously backed President Syngman Rhee's demand that the United Nations walk out of the post-armistice political conference if it fails to reach agreement on unification of Korea after 90 days of deliberation.
 The action was taken on the eve of State Secretary Dulles' scheduled arrival in Seoul for conferences with Rhee.
 The assembly also demanded a three-point resolution that the political conference include only nations whose troops fought in the war, and called for rejection of any unification plan that overrides South Korean sovereignty.
 Dulles and Rhee will talk over plans for joint action at the political conference, which is scheduled to start no later than Oct. 28.
 An item for the conference will be the disposition of 7,800 North Korean and 14,500 Chinese prisoners who refuse to return to their homelands.
 For 90 days the reluctant prisoners will be visited by Red "persuasion" teams in camps guarded by a five-country repatriation commission, headed by India.
 In New Delhi, the Indian government announced that a 12-man advance mission to the repatriation commission leaves for Korea Wednesday.

Reciprocal Trade Agreements Law Passes U.S. Senate
 WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Senate Monday passed and sent to President Eisenhower one of the final most bills of the session—a one-year extension of the 19-year-old Reciprocal Trade Agreements Law.
 Passage was by voice vote. The House acted on the compromise bill Saturday.
 The Senate won the big controversy that had been tying up the measure for more than a month. This involved a provision put in by the House of Representatives to add a seventh member to the tariff commission to give Republicans a four-to-three edge.
 Senate Democrats contended this would involve "partisan stacking" of the agency and knocked out the provision.
 The commission advises the president as to the concessions he may make to other countries in negotiating the reciprocal pacts. It has been split evenly three-to-three since the two major parties since it was established in 1916.
 The commission, headed by India, in New Delhi, the Indian government announced that a 12-man advance mission to the repatriation commission leaves for Korea Wednesday.

Contract For Dredging Let At Summerside
 —Mr. J. Watson MacNaught received word yesterday morning from the Federal Department of Public Works to the effect that J. P. Porter Co. Ltd., have been awarded a contract for dredging around Holman's wharf.
 Twenty three thousand cubic yards, place measurement, will be removed.
 Because construction on the new Marine Wharf is still in progress, Mr. MacNaught stated that he had urged the department to have such a contract awarded to some dredging company because shipers are anxious to make use of the wharf for loading pulpwood and pit props and for importing fertilizer. Mr. MacNaught said that it is also hoped that it will be possible to use it this fall for shipping potatoes, although it would not be possible for the larger freighters to dock there.
 Holman's Wharf is now owned by the Federal Government.
 The Porter Company is at present rebuilding the Marine Wharf and the dredging equipment is at hand.
 Mr. MacNaught said the company will co-operate in an endeavor to have the work at Holman's Wharf completed as soon as possible.—S

Finances Cause Growing Concern For Universities
 MONTREAL, (CP)—Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, said Monday that financial problems are causing increasing concern among universities throughout the Commonwealth and in the United States.
 Dr. James made the statement in an interview on his return from Britain where he attended the Convention and the July meeting of the Association of Commonwealth Universities. The Association includes representatives from 102 Commonwealth universities and the heads of 10 leading United States universities.
 Delegates to the meetings, he said, stressed the need for more assistance to universities from national governments.
Costs Rising
 Administration costs were continually rising, and a greater burden was placed on the colleges by their programs of research. No great savings could remain great, said Dr. James, without conducting research, which is extremely expensive.
 A few weeks ago, Dr. James disclosed that McGill faces a deficit of $888,000 for the coming academic session. He said the loss of federal grants-in-aid had been a serious blow.
 The Quebec government, after allowing them for one year, has refused to accept federal grants-in-aid for universities.
 Even United States schools, generally considered rich, admitted to financial difficulties, said Dr. James.
 In Britain, more than half the costs of maintaining universities was borne by the national government.
May Influence Students
 The generally higher costs of university education not only added to difficulties of administration, but influenced the number and quality of students attending.
 Without aid from government sources, a university facing rising costs would have to pass them on to the students, thus keeping potentially good students out of college.
 He noted the growth of student aid in Britain, where four-fifths of all university students receive aid of some sort from municipal, county, or national funds.
 Either the college or the student would need financial help if academic standards were to be maintained despite rising costs.
