Fed up with "Fed-Up Women"

Dear Editor:

I am fed up with the "Fed-Up Women". If these women are concerned enough to lodge these complaints against UPEI, they should be adult enough to sign their names.

There are several things in this column I would like to mention. First of all, tuition only pays 25% of the cost of running the university, and professors' salaries have little to do with tuition costs. So I don't think we are paying the professors. Secondly, in reference to the statement "why doesn't the professor ever tell us where we are in [the book]", why are you unable to look up references to class material in the book yourself? If you are paying $150 for books (your figure of $400 minus $249 for tuition), these books must have tables of contents. Thirdly, in reference to the whining tone of the entire piece, who do you think you are to decide that the profs "think they know more than the text"?

There are some valid points said in this piece, namely that a university education is too expensive for many people, there are some good profs, and a prof who could be thought of as a mentor would be an interesting idea. My point in all this is to say that the university is overcrowded and under-equipped. If the Fed-Up Women are having this many problems with the system, maybe they should take some time off and open the system up to more mature students.

You got the wrong bridge, pal

Editor:

The so-called "bridge to Hell" you refer to in last week's X-Press just so happens to be the path to a brighter future. As to this mystic "Island way of life", I say wake up and smell the coffee! If this "Island way" means a chronic 20% unemployment rate, thanks but no thanks!!! I've had it with editorials like last week's and people who think they have all the knowledge on the link. This thing has been studied to death, and I say: build it!!

These so-called "Friends of the Island" are NO friends as far as I'm concerned. If they want to live in isolation with their backward mystical idea that the world ceases to exist beyond pure, clean PEI, fine. But why should they dictate

THIS IS MORE THAN JUST A JOB

THIS IS AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL

Transport Canada is looking for motivated people to train as air traffic controllers. This is an excellent opportunity for responsible, organized individuals with receptive minds and good judgement. Successful applicants will get more than just a job. They'll get a rewarding, long-term career.

As an air traffic controller, you'll work with a team in the efficient environment of the area control centre, managing and transmitting to pilots the information necessary to ensure the safe circulation of air traffic within your area of responsibility.

Set aside an hour for the Transport Canada information session in your area, and bring along your resume, if you have one. After a presentation by air traffic controllers you may also have the opportunity to write an aptitude test (3 hours) to qualify for the position. Applicants must have successfully completed high school or the equivalent, be in good health and willing to relocate. Bilingualism is a requirement in the province of Quebec and other designated areas. Transport Canada is an equal opportunity employer.

PRESENTATIONS WILL SOON BE HELD IN YOUR AREA.
