

This is true Liberty, when Freeborn Men, having to advise the Public, may speak free.—Euripides.

Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Monday, February 24, 1862.

THE WOMAN WITH ONE HAND. THE SURGEON'S STORY.

Medical Students are generally wild, reckless, and dissipated. I was neither. The discretion of old age seemed to have come suddenly upon me. I shared my comrades' studies, but refused to mingle in their orgies...

Would you value your old violin? he would say when any one remonstrated with him on the subject...

There, upon the steps stood Robert Redlaw and four other fellow students, all the worse for liquor, and all in Robert's spirits.

There was no use of remonstrance and one of us, my unexpected visitor imposed upon me, and took their places around my fire-side.

figure crossed the sill and stepped softly in. It was that of a woman, dressed in white garments, and I saw as she crept stealthily toward me, that one hand was gone.

But these fancies have left you now, I said. Yes, I hope they have, replied Robert. I have suffered from no optical delusion for two days, but to wish that terrible ground could be put a stop to.

Put such fancies out of your mind, Robert, I said. The truth is, you have been feverish, and the remembrance of your silly piece of work with that hand has acted upon your mind and caused these apparitions.

Robert assented to my proposition, and we set off together. At first he was more terrified than I, but as we went on, he grew calmer, and I saw with delight that his spirits were once more resuming their wonted tone.

Now, Bob, I said, when we had dined, we will finish this evening at the theatre, and banish those gloomy ideas from your mind.

I have nearly forgotten my gloves and handkerchiefs, Dinah, and he beckoned to the little black waitress.

engaged in the matter? They complain that the Prince of I and his colleagues, being incapable of pacific counsels, could propose nothing but that the English Emperors should be deposed into their power and made prisoners.

But that entire army will be there in his path, whenever it may happen in other quarters, and the time when it is attacked can hardly make the difference between victory and defeat.

MATRIMONIAL STATISTICS.—The Boston Courier has calculated the probabilities of matrimony at different ages, which exhibit results of rather a startling character.

THE AMERICAN OUTRAGE HAS COST US.—It is a grave and lamentable fact that England will have to pay for the war of 1861-2 to the extent of at least four millions of money, merely because Mr. Adams was not empowered to say, a month ago—If you wish the prisoners shall be returned to you.

PRINCE CONSORT TESTIMONIALS.—Testimonies of sympathy with Her Majesty, and of grief for the loss of the Prince Consort, continue to fill columns of the London and other newspapers.

AMERICAN CONSULS.—The Quebec Chronicle, in noticing the recent extraordinary announcements of Secretary Seward, in relation to the spy system established in these Colonies through American Consuls, says:—

A BEAUTIFUL FIGURE.—How beautiful is the following, and how happy must be the heart that can see these beauties and understand them:—

Suicide is one of the "specialties" of the French people; but an Englishman and his mistress—he sixty two years old, and she twenty-eight, have proved themselves not beholding hand in that peculiarity.

RUSSIA AND THE RIGHTS OF NEUTRALS.—The Journal de St. Petersburg contains an article congratulating Mr. Seward upon the uprightness and intelligence of his policy, and demanding that mediation be given to the belligerent powers.

THE BRITISH NAVY.—The annual official return of the British Navy has been published. The fleet in commission consists of one hundred and twenty-two vessels, each with an armament of from sixty to seventy guns.

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S REMONSTRANCE ON THE BLOCKADE OF CHARLESTON.—The following letter from the Secretary of the Liverpool Shipowners' Association, has been received:—

FOREIGN OFFICE, Jan. 15.—I am directed by Earl Russell to acknowledge the receipt of the Liverpool Shipowners' Association, and to inform you that the Government of the United States has adopted for closing the main channel of Charleston harbor by the use of iron batteries.
