S'side Woman Reports Attack And Robbery

SUMMERSIDE — In a daring raid last evening about nine o'clock a burglar was reported to have attacked a Summerside woman in her home and made off with a pair of candlesticks and a wristwatch she was wearing.

Mrs. Denis Frenette, 401 Rayner Avenue, wife of Flying Officer Frenette, RCAF, reported to police she had answered a knock on the door of her second floor apartment to find a masked man wearing a hat pulled low over his face. She told police he struck her on the back of her head and that was all she remembered until she recovered consciousness 10 minutes later.

Town police with Chief Donald Wanamaker leading the investigation said the articles reported stolen were found by them on the back steps of the apartment. The RCMP were also on the investigation and Dr. Hubert McNeill, Summerside physician, was called to examine the victim who was reported in a nervous condition.

Other tenants in the apartment house reported hearing nothing unusual and those in the adjoining apartment said they were unaware of events until they saw the police arrive.

FO Frenette was absent from the apartment at the time but was located by police and quickly returned to his home.

It was reported that when Mrs. Frenette regained consciousness she had telephoned a woman friend in a neighboring apartment house and she immediately came to stay with her until the police arrived.

Chief Wanamaker said last night he had no comment to make immediately pending a thorough investigation but town police officers were ordered to maintain a watch for anyone answering the vague description given them of the burgler.

Agreement On Hot Line Reached

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. and Soviet communications experts have reached full technical agreement on a hot line teletype circuit intended to prevent accidental war, it was disclosed Thursday.

The agreement has been accepted by the U.S. government and only Soviet government approval is still needed to start technical work on the unprecedented link.

The U.S. and Soviet delegates at the 17-nation disarmament conference and technicians from both sides put the final touches to the agreement at a two-hour meeting Tuesday.

It was the last of 18 such meetings that took place periodically during the last month on the sidelines of the conference. The agreement is the first achievement of the otherwise deadlocked conference.

U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle and Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin, co-chairmen of the conference, will give the other delegations formal notice of their agreement as soon as Tsarapkin receives the go-ahead from Moscow.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under heavy British urging, President Kennedy has accepted Thursday night to have decided to meet with Prime Minister Macmillan at the end of this month during Kennedy's European trip.

An announcement of this addition to the president's schedule is expected to be made within the next few days. The report lacked formal White House confirmation but administration officials appeared to have no doubt that the president would, in fact, see Macmillan.

Buildings, Livestock Lost In Bedeque Fire

SUMMERSIDE — Damage estimated at $3,000 resulted in an early morning blaze, which levelled a barn and shed at Central Bedeque, owned by Gordon Hammill.

The blaze, which started about 6.30 yesterday morning, is believed to have been caused by lightning. Lost were a 40 by 80 foot barn and a storage shed about 15 by 30 feet.

Also destroyed were six head of cattle, a pony, 100 hens, two tractor pulleys, 1,200 bales of hay and straw along with a quantity of oats.

Mr. Hammill was not certain whether or not the 11 tons of fertilizer stored in the shed would be fit for use. He reported that the loss was covered by very little insurance.

He said that at approximately 6.45 he noticed his yard was full of smoke. 'I went out at once," he said, "and when I tried to open the barn door it wouldn't come because some kind of pressure had been built up." When he managed to open the door he saw the entire contents of the building was in flames."

Mr. Hammill said he rushed to the nearest home with a phone and asked if they would phone for the Kinkora fire dept. "I thought the fire trucks were on their way a few minutes later," he said, "but I found out later that the phones were out of order and they had to drive to Kinkora to get the trucks."

The department arrived after some time, and a few minutes later a crew from Summerside showed up to fight the blaze.

Mr. Hammill commented that he had been up at 5.00 o'clock, and gone back to bed because of the heavy rain fall. "At about 6.30," he said, neighbours phoned and reported they had seen an awful flash in the direction of our place but I didn't check outside."

Partial Stripping Marks Burning Of U.S. Mission

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Hundreds of Venezuelan police are seeking eight pro-Communists who burned the U.S. Army mission, stripped occupants to their shorts and knifed a portrait of George Washington.

Three youths found loitering around the fire-blackened remains of the rambling, one-storey Spanish colonial building were arrested for questioning Thursday.

The Armed Forces of National Liberation, (FALN), a leftist - pro-Castro underground movement campaigning to overthrow President Romulo Betancourt was blamed for the fire.

Defence Minister Antonio Briceno Limares called on U.S. Ambassador C. Allan Stewart and expressed official regret.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said the loss was small. The building was leased from the Venezuelan armed forces.

The eight raiders burned the mission's U.S. flag in the attack Wednesday night and hoisted the black standard of the FALN while denouncing what they called Yankee imperialism.

The Americans were not armed, despite the fact anonymous telephone callers had declared the mission was marked for destruction because of the training the Americans gave Venezuela's armed forces.

The Americans and the Venezuelans were left outside the burning building as the band made off in its cars.

In Washington a state department spokesman said the United States does not plan to make any protest to Venezuela about the attack.

Press officer Lincoln White said "we are confident (Venezuela) is taking all steps possible to prevent recurrence of raids of this sort."

Cross-Border Military Orders Expected To Show Increase

WASHINGTON (CP) — Defence Production Minister C. M. (Bud) Drury predicted Thursday there will be an increased cross - border flow of military orders as Defence Secretary Robert McNamara agreed to remove restrictions on the placing of new U.S. orders in Canada for research and development of new arms and equipment.

This restriction was one of a number imposed by McNamara in efforts to restrain U.S. defence spending abroad to conserve the American gold stockpile. Drury said McNamara reaffirmed that none of the other restrictions will apply to Canada, adding at a press conference that his talks with McNamara were constructive, helpful and "very successful."

An aide to Drury later explained that removal of the restriction on research and development contracts in Canada will once again enable Canadian manufacturers to get in on the ground floor of U.S. military production. Without participation in research and development, Canadians might find many U.S. doors closed in the search for production - sharing contracts.

Following day - long discussions with McNamara, Drury predicted that the flow of Canadian military orders placed in the United States and the flow of U.S. orders in Canada will increase, with both he and McNamara agreeing the objective is to seek a balance in reciprocal production - sharing purchases.

Drury expressed doubt that U.S. orders placed in Canada will exceed last year's record $254,000,000. He maintained 1962 was an extraordinary year. However, he was satisfied with the outlook.

Drury brushed off questions on what new U.S. orders Canada might get.

Over the four years that the production - sharing arrangement has existed, Drury estimated U.S. orders placed in Canada exceeded by about $80,000,000 the orders placed in the United States. He anticipated this gap would be reduced.

'Walk To Boston' Starts At S'side

The two 65-year-olds, both veterans of the First World War, John A. MacKinnon and Gordice Gallant, are going to distribute literature on the Summerside Lobster Carnival as they visit the various towns and cities through which they pass.

They figure to walk 12 to 15 miles per day and expect it will take from six to eight weeks to reach Bean Town.

Literature which they will distribute has been sent on ahead to various legion branches.

Before leaving yesterday, Ross MacKenzie, past-president of the Summerside Legion Branch, presented them with a $50 cheque and sweaters.

Both men were recipients of gifts from various merchants and business houses in the town before they left.

CIGARETTE

(Continue From Page 1) would shift the risk of latent harm from the seller to the buyer.

In New York tobacco company stock prices tumbled in response to the Florida Supreme Court decision.

Trading in tobacco stocks was heavy on the New York Stock Exchange with losses ranging from fractions of a dollar to more than $2 a share.

American Tobacco stock fell 25 cents a share at $30 on a big opening block of 13,000 shares. The loss has widened in later trading.

In Montreal shares of Canadian cigarette manufacturers showed little reaction to the precedent-setting decision by the Florida Supreme Court.

Imperial Tobacco closed 12½ cents lower in moderate trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange, but rose 12½ cents on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The price on both exchanges was $15.12½. Rothman's of Pall Mall of Canada dropped 12½ cents to $7.62½ cents in Toronto and wasn't traded in Montreal.

J. H. Devlin, president of Rothman's, questioned the decision in Toronto.

"There are many products on the market today that can be harmful if used excessively. If a person takes an overdose of drugs can the company which made the drugs be held responsible for any ill effects? It will be interesting to watch the reaction of other state courts."

Meanwhile, Dr. Herbert J. Sullivan, head of the department of thoracic surgery at Hamilton, Ont., General Hospital, said the medical profession is virtually unanimous in the belief there is a link between cigarette-smoking and lung cancer.

He told the Canadian Tuberculosis Association some sources "would have you believe the profession is split right down the centre as to whether cigarette - smoking causes lung cancer—but such is not the case.

"There has not been a single authoritative survey published in any language which fails to show this relationship between cigarettes and lung cancer."
