

Civic Tax Appeals

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Appeals against Civic Valuations and Assessments for the year 1950 will meet on MONDAY, NOVEMBER 27th, 1950, at 10 A.M., in the Court Room, City Building, to hear appeals from supplementary valuations and assessments.

Dated November 15, 1950.

JAMES A. FULLERTON,
City Clerk,
City of Charlottetown.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

- Heavy chain
- Iridescent gem
- Of Arius
- Cavity
- Lava of eyethread-worm
- Exclamation
- Published forms of literary works
- Expression of contempt (var)
- Read metrically
- Exclamation of surprise
- Mine entrance
- Fencing sword
- Fine line of a letter
- Blundered
- Beige
- Language of the Sambals
- Hebrew month
- County (Eng.)
- Assam silkwork
- At home
- Copper money (Rom.)
- Saluting
- Walking stick

DOWN

- Pricked painfully
- Paradise
- Burglars (slang)
- Negative electrode
- Constellation
- Grip with teeth
- Praises
- Allure
- Cry of pain
- Game played from horseback
- Solitary
- A dog's lead
- Couches
- Place for troops to camp at night
- Inactive
- Employ for wages
- Sounds, as a watch
- American Indian
- Serf
- Hit (slang)
- Anglo-Saxon god of fertility
- Half an em

Saturday's Answer

37. Bana
40. Serf
41. Hit (slang)
48. Anglo-Saxon god of fertility
47. Half an em

South dealer:
East-West vulnerable.

7
AQ653
AKQ6
KJ7

Q 10 8
2
J 10 9 7
4 2
9 4

4 3 4
K 8
J 10 4
2
Q 10 9 5

A K 9 5
9 8 7 5
A 6 3 2

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♠ (1)	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

FEGOKOV B XVCAT GM EFTM V D
HKMIBMI HKCDD—HXFFMHYMFIM.

Saturday's Cryptogram: A FELLOW-FEELING MAKES ONE AONDROUS KIND—GARRICK.

NAPOLEON and UNCLE ELBY by Clifford McBride

L.L. ABNER

RIP KIRBY

By Alex Raymond

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED

JOE PALOOKA

HENRY

DOTTY DIPPLE

TIPPY AND "CAP" STUBS

BRINGING UP FATHER

TILLY THE TOILER

PENNY

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

COULD FINBACK BE AFRAID?

Of all who roam this earthly sphere None lives who is devoid of fear. —Old Mother Nature.

Honker the Goose and his flock on their way to the Sunny South had settled for the night. They had settled, but they were not yet ready for sleep. They were gabbling in low tones as only Geese can gabble. It had been an exciting day and there was much to gabble about. Yes, sir, it had been an exciting day. Wouldn't you be excited if you had met one of the largest animals ever to live? Had looked into a mouth so big that it seemed as if you could be taken in and swallowed whole? Of course you would.

Well, that is just what had happened that day to those Geese. They had been flying far out from shore over the ocean and had stopped on the water to rest. Without warning, up from the depths had come Baleen the Blue Whale, largest of all living creatures, so big that beside him even an elephant would look very small. Among themselves they called him Big Mouth which,

"Finback hasn't any teeth either," spoke up Honker.

if you ever have seen Baleen, you will agree was a very good name indeed. They had seen another of the Whale cousins, Finback, who was not nearly as big as his cousin but still was almost too big for belief. He was more than sixty feet long. You wouldn't call that small, would you? They had seen him before they saw Big Mouth. After the latter disappeared for good they saw Finback again. In fact he was in their neighborhood for quite a while so that they got quite used to him and the young Geese grew less and less afraid of him. The older ones, who made his acquaintance long ago, were not afraid at all. They knew he couldn't swallow one of them if he tried, and he wouldn't try. So there was nothing to fear. When Finback finally left he did so in such a hurry that it was very much as if he had a sudden fright.

It was about this that the Geese were gabbling when they should have been going to sleep. "It couldn't be," said one. "What couldn't be?" another asked.

"It couldn't be that that fellow was scared. No one as big as that would be afraid of anything; not of anything at all," replied the other.

"Perhaps Big Mouth, his awful big cousin, was about and we didn't see him. It might be that he was afraid of him because he is so much bigger," said another.

"Don't tell us you think anyone that big could be anywhere around and we not know it!" exclaimed another.

Thereupon there was much gabbling and all agreed that Big Mouth couldn't possibly have been around at that time. So if Finback was afraid, it couldn't have been of his bigger cousin.

"Anyway Big Mouth hasn't any teeth, so I guess he couldn't hurt anyone if he tried," said one.

"How do you know he hasn't?" came the prompt demand.

"Because I looked right into his mouth when he had it open. There wasn't a tooth there," retorted the other.

At once there was a lot more gabbling and it was agreed that this was so. All of them had looked into that big mouth, but some had been too frightened to think about teeth. Now they were sure that if there had been any teeth they would have been very big teeth, so big that they would have been noticed at once.

"Finback hasn't any teeth either," spoke up Honker. This wasn't the first time the wise old leader had seen Whales. You see he had made this long trip so many times that he had seen many Whales. He knew that neither Finback nor Baleen, his biggest cousin, has teeth. It seemed queer to think it was so, but he was sure that it was, and he was right. Neither of these great Whales has teeth.

Even so could it be that Finback's sudden leaving in the way he had that day meant he was afraid, was scared? The Geese gabbled about it until long after they should have been asleep.

Contract Bridge

By Josephine Culbertson

HELP FROM THE ENEMY

The declarer's first play in today's deal, though natural enough, was unfortunate, and after that he needed help from the enemy.

South dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

7
AQ653
AKQ6
KJ7

Q 10 8
2
J 10 9 7
4 2
9 4

4 3 4
K 8
J 10 4
2
Q 10 9 5

A K 9 5
9 8 7 5
A 6 3 2

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♠ (1)	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

South, void of his partner's heart suit, and naturally uneasy about his own diamond suit, decided to "lie" in answering the Blackwood four notrump, and showed only one ace so as to "slow down" his partner. This was probably a good idea, inasmuch as North might have risked a grand-slam bid if South had told the truth about his aces.

West opened the heart jack, and since this looked like a free finesse, declarer put in dummy's queen. When East covered, however, South had to ruff, and now one lead of trumps revealed the very bad situation.

With a sure loser in trumps, South was in serious difficulties, since it would obviously be hard, if not impossible, to handle all the rest of the cards without loss. The heart ace was led from dummy, and South discarded a club. Then a low heart was led—and East was put to the test! He should have ruffed in with the high trump and returned a trump; then South would have found himself in dire trouble. Actually, however, East discarded a spade. South ruffed, cashed to top spades, discarding a club, then led to the king of clubs. Now, on another heart lead, East still could have redeemed himself by ruffing high and leading a trump, but this time he discarded a club—and it was all over! South ruffed the trick, cashed the club ace, then ruffed a spade with an honor. When he then led the last heart from dummy, East had to be satisfied with one diamond trick—the slam was home!

MONTREAL, Nov. 17—(CP)—Word was received here today of the death of Rabbi Zwi Hirsch Cohen, 90, dean of Canadian Rabbinate, at Mount Vernon, N. Y. Rabbi Cohen was among the organizers of the Canadian Jewish Congress.

By Al Capp