DRESS PARADE.

Occasionally on some of the newest gowns appears the overskirt, real or simulated by trimming.

Parma, hyacinth, clematis and wistaria are beautiful shades of violet of which no fashionable woman seems to tire.

Swiss muslin is suggested by the designers as being a very smart and effective material for accordion plaited summer gowns.

White gowns are to be worn more than ever this summer for informal as well as dressy occasions, and these will be accompanied by white hats, parasols and shoes.

Nearly every new dress of thin material will this summer be made with the cool, airy, outside fabric of the skirt cut separate from its silk, lawn or dimity lining.

Very few black lace dresses appear, and when seen they are of the most costly and elegant description, heavy with superb jet garnitures and made up over expensive moire Francais.

For people who prefer thick cottons for the mountains and beach to lighter cottons or wools of any description, are this season set forth some very pretty linen ducks, dimities and piques.

Black and white effects in gowning are quite as much the fashion as the rage for glaring and outre color mixtures and are a decided relief to the blaze of gorgeous dyes used both in dress and millinery.

Black canvas, grenadine and fancy net gowns are made over white and bright shades of red, green, blue and yellow, and on very fashionable French gowns over the most brilliant single colors, mixed iridescent shades and showy Tartans.

The black and white striped and checked silks and jacquard liberty satins are well represented among summer textiles. Black lace, white insertion, chiffon, accordion plaited frills and black velvet ribbon are used to trim these gowns; also those of sheer white wool and India silks.—New York Post.

THE POULTRY YARD.

If the fowls have brood disease, change the food for a day or two.

Success with young chickens demands warmth, dryness, liberal feeding and, above all, pure air.

If the hens appear lazy and show no inclination to eat, do not give stimulants but rather decrease the rations.

There are six or eight standard breeds of chickens, ten of ducks, nine of turkeys and seven of geese, not including mongrels.

To fatten hens rapidly there is nothing that will excel cornmeal. Fattening fowls may be given all that they will eat up clean.

Too much stimulating food causes over egg production and as a result these will be poor hatchers, weak chickens and inferior stock.

Hens will readily eat parings from any kind of vegetables if well cooked. If the quantity is not sufficient, add wheat, bran and skim milk.

It pays to feed young fowls liberally until full grown. Chickens, like other young stock once stunted, never fully regain their vigor, no matter how carefully fed.—St. Louis Republic.

The Leading Bicyclists

use Adams' Tutti Frutti. It really gives staying power.

Some dealers to obtain a big profit try to palm off imitations.

TIRE PUNCTURES.

All that is needed now is a few more bicycling clubs, and then every wheelman can have one of his own.—Chicago Post.

The bicycle is said to be closing the theaters in New York, and it is making business dull also in the cemeteries.—Chicago Tribune.

Physicians declare that by excessive bicycle riding the nervous system may be exhausted without the knowledge of the rider, and that when attacked by disease the bicyclist may find himself without reserve force to resist it.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Whether it is because the "1897 wheel" is faster, or because there exists a spirit of bravado, makes very little difference. The fact remains that wheels are being today propelled through this city at speed which precludes pedestrians from occupying crosswalks with even a fair chance of safety.—Rochester Democrat.
