

Kings M.P. Impressed By United Nations Procedure

OTTAWA, (Special) — On his return here Wednesday from New York where he spent some time as a Canadian parliamentary observer at the General Assembly of the United Nations, T.J. Kichham, Liberal M.P. for Kings told The Guardian that he was tremendously impressed by the U.N. organization.

"You don't realize until you see it personally," he said, "What a great deal of genuine good will is developed among the delegates. You hear of their sharp differences and heated arguments, but you don't hear of read the friendship and amity which exists."

Although impressed with the simultaneous translation equipment at the Y.N. Mr. Kichham did not feel that equipment of this type was much needed in the House of Commons at Ottawa. Reason for this was that almost all French-speaking members understand English and that a relatively small proportion of speeches here are delivered in French.

He said the United Nations building in New York is most impressive and seems to be designed and equipped to promote mingling of the various groups and opportunities to discuss world affairs informally outside the council-room itself.

"It was most interesting to see and meet delegates from nations all over the world" Mr. Kichham said. "One of the delegates was dressed in long pure white Arab robes and wore a head-dress just like that worn by King Saud. I didn't find out his name but he certainly provided color."

Among the many facilities in the United Nations building, the Kings M.P. said, is a special darkened room which is a meditation room. "Those who use this room sit in the darkness facing the east and meditate by the hour," he said.

Mr. Kichham said that Canada and the Canadian United Nations delegation headed by External Affairs Minister Pearson enjoys the highest respect and esteem of the Assembly. Mr. Pearson was untiring, he said in attempting to find a solution to the Middle East problems without resorting to economic sanctions against Israel.

Since there is no time limit on speeches, some of the delegates speak for three or four hours, Mr. Kichham said. He did not happen to be in New York for Indian delegate Krishna Menon's seven-hour marathon speech on Kashmir. The Kings member did not feel that very lengthy speeches had much to commend them.

Mr. Kichham confessed that at times he had misgivings at the U.N. proceedings.

"At times" he said, "I felt that the name United Nations was a misnomer and that it might better be called the 'Disunited Nations' after I heard vigorously worded speeches on both sides of an issue. I am told that it is believed to have these heated verbal battles, then shooting battles on the field. Relief is given to pent-up tensions through strong language."

Cases Heard At Georgetown

Magistrate's Court was held in the Court House in Georgetown yesterday with Stipendiary Magistrate Gilbert A. Gaudet presiding.

A resident of Montague was fined $25.00 and costs after pleading guilty to having liquor in his possession which was not purchased from a vendor. A Cardigan resident, charged with care and control of a motor vehicle while intoxicated, had his case adjourned for two weeks with no plea being taken.

A Montague resident pleaded not guilty to all of four charges. They were: threat, under sec. 171 of the Criminal Code; liquor in a place other than his residence, under the Temperance Act; obstruction of a peace officer, under the Criminal Code; and causing a disturbance in a public place by swearing, also under the Code. All four cases were adjourned for two weeks.

Another resident of Montague pleaded not guilty to charges of threat, causing a disturbance by swearing, obstructing a peace officer and the excessive blowing of a car horn, the last charge being contrary to town of Montague by-laws. All four cases were adjourned for two weeks.

Mr. John P. Nicholson, Crown prosecutor, represented the Crown.

Opportunities

solve many of the tourist problems. "No one wants to wait for boats now a days, they are moving too swiftly," he continued.

Mr. Hessian gave Premier Matheson the credit for bringing the matter to the attention of the Federal authorities. He observed that causeways are not built in a day but felt it would not be too far in the future before Islanders would benefit from it.

He said it would benefit agriculture tremendously by the elimination of high freight rates. "The Maritimes are the parents of the rest of Canada," said Mr. Hessian "and it is for this reason that they should come to our assistance. It is for behoove a son or a daughter to kick the parents when they are old."

HARVEST EXHIBITION

"Years ago we had an exhibition where the farmer could take the products of the soil and display his work for the year," said Mr. Hessian, "but now this exhibition has become little more than a big horse race."

He gave high praise to Premier Matheson for instituting a second exhibition in which the accent was on rural youth. "This is another form of encouragement the Department has made possible to our youth who are the backbone of the Province," he said.

In making reference to financial difficulties being encountered in starting a frozen food plant at Sherwood, Mr. Hessian said, "I'm not disappointed because there is a time element in this and if it is left for another year or two we will get that plant at Georgetown which you should have," he added. "We have the best all year round harbour in the Maritimes with a million dollar frost proof warehouse. We don't want Charlottetown to hog it all, why Georgetown was a thriving town when Charlottetown had only cow paths."

BRISTOL

Friends of Mr. Joseph W. MacDonald will regret to learn he is on the sick list again. He has entered the Charlottetown Hospital for treatment. A veteran of world war 2 Joe has been employed with one of the oil companies and only recently returned from Newfoundland where the work is held up until April.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kennefick, were business visitors to the city pretending mental illness as a means of escaping their responsibilities.

NATURE'S REMEDY

As a remedy for this he advocated closer communication with nature and the healthful relaxation of reading good books. He claimed that too many people were causing themselves needless worry by living beyond their means and suggested that citizens spend more time in their homes where they enjoy more of the spiritual values to be had in life.

He noted there had been no move to have people moved from the sub-margin areas of the Province. Passing reference was made of the Gordon report. He said Mr. Gordon who was now in the Maritimes was giving a different interpretation that that which was contained in the original. However, he felt that most of these misunderstandings were cleared up and expressed the opinion that the findings of the report would prove of value to the country as a whole.

PRaises EDITORS

Mr. Hessian was high in his praise for the manner in which local newspaper editors handled the action on the part of Britain and France in the Middle East. "Let it be thoroughly understood by this Legislature that United States with all its might will not frighten Britain, France and Canada. The only mistake England made was to move out of Egypt at the command of the United Nations. Now the United States is reaping its reward by sitting on the horns of a dilemma."

"Never in the history of the world has any country of the world played so important a part in preventing a third war as Canada did in this present crisis. The world is taking stock of L.B. Pearson and we can be justly proud of our foreign minister who with the guidance of Louis St. Laurent is showing the way toward peace."

Mrs. Maud Bartur, Charlottetown was the weekend guest of Mrs. A. H. Duvar, Montague.

Mrs. Mort MacLean, Montague, recently entertained at afternoon tea in aid of the hospital.

Teen-Agers Reading Club Held Meeting

The regular meeting of the Montague teen-agers Reading Club was held in the council room on Feb. 19th, with president Eileen Annand presiding. The meeting opened with the secretary reading the minutes of the last meeting. Seven members answered roll call with a riddle.

At this meeting there were two very interesting book reports read. One was by Ethel Irving who gave a report on "Land Below the Wind." The other was given by Edna Jenkins who told about "The Citadel," by A. J. Cronin.

It was moved and seconded that roll call for the next meeting be answered by each member giving five clues of a popular book. The other members are to guess the answer. Eileen Annand was appointed to read her book report at the next meeting.

There being no further business, a time was spent in reading from the very interesting book on nursing, "A Lamp is Heavy," after which the meeting adjourned.
