

THE DAILY EXAMINER. SEPTEMBER 6, 1890.

Educational.

The Provincial Model School will re-open for the current year on Wednesday, 10th inst., at 9 o'clock, a. m., under the principalship of Mr. Joseph O. Arsenault.

Mr. Arsenault's ability to speak and teach in the French tongue will likely be taken advantage of, and an arrangement effected by which the students of the Prince of Wales College will receive the benefit of his services.

The class-room hitherto occupied by Prof. McLeod has been enlarged and refitted during the vacation, and is to be used by Prof. Shuttleworth chiefly for teaching Chemistry, Agriculture and Agricultural Chemistry, and for conducting experiments in connection with these subjects.

Next year we hope to see a special agricultural department opened in connection with the Prince of Wales College giving a special course to farmer's sons and others intending to make agriculture their life occupation.

But, for the carrying out of this project a new and larger building will be required, with at least one additional teacher.

For the present year any who desire, will be admitted free to the classes above referred to, and such arrangements made, and extra instruction given as the existing state of affairs will permit.

Notes and Comments.

Plank sidewalks are being abandoned in the towns of the neighboring Provinces, because they are found to be expensive and constantly in need of repair.

At the last meeting of the Maritime Press Association, on motion of Messrs. Dennis and J. J. Anslow, resolutions of thanks were passed to the following for their kindness in providing for the comfort and pleasure of the Association: Managers of the Intercolonial, P. E. Island and N. B. and P. E. I. Railways, of the P. E. I. Steamship Co., and of the steamer Alameda, of the Capes route; to the press and citizens of Charlottetown, and the citizens of Souris, and to the proprietors of the Davies Hotel and Osborne House, Charlottetown.

The London Advertiser remarks: "In looking over some of our exchanges, we cannot but wonder at the frequency with which the discussion of public questions is mixed up with attacks on contemporary newspapers. To put it in another shape, do not too many journalists conduct their newspapers as if their constituencies were other newspapers? Of course, the real constituency is the public, and that is the constituency to which appeal should be made."

The EXAMINER did not say, as our correspondent charges, that the City Schools were inferior to those of the country. We only stated the fact that the pupils of the City Schools have not been so successful in examinations as those of the country schools.

The Empire aptly remarks: "The outcry made by English and other manufacturers over the new clause in the McKinley bill brings an answer to the question so often asked in Canada: 'Who pays the duty?' from the Chicago Inter-Ocean: 'If—will our free trade friends please answer this question?—the tariff is a tax which the consumer pays?'"

Reports of Our Visitors.

(The Wesleyan.)

After an absence of years from the Island, the beauty of the landscape comes as a surprise. It may well be regarded as the garden of the Dominion. Thoroughfares and lines of rail pass through beautiful and well cultivated farms. Grain, roots, and meadow lands follow in succession, with occasional wooded space, trees along the lines of fence, and cattle and sheep feeding in the pastures.

The first attraction was the Friday market, and members of the press might be found pricing vegetables, meat, butter, and various farm and garden productions. As compared with the cost of living on this side of the gulf, the advantage ought to be sufficient to warrant families with fixed, limited incomes, not otherwise restricted, to look out for homes in Charlottetown and its vicinity.

An afternoon drive through the Royalty was one of those experiences of life rarely duplicated, and ever after exhaling the fragrance of a cherished memory.

Members of the Charlottetown press favored their journalistic brethren with a dinner. Hon. D. Laird presided with Mr. Cotton as vice-president. The occasion was signalized by the presence of members of the Senate and House of Commons, and also of members of the local government.

An invitation to return home by way of Cape Traverse and Cape Tormentine was very cordially accepted. It was intended to include a sail to the gulf termination of the ship railway.

In its entirety the meeting and excursion were successful and many thanks are due the Island journalists for their kindness in providing the entertainment, and to the different railway and steam-boat lines whose courtesies were extended.

AMERICAN HORSE RACING.—In the third days racing at Hampden Park, Springfield, Mass., the 2.13 class trotting purse for $1,500 was divided. Semicolon won; best time, 2.19. The Massachusetts stake, purse $3,000 divided, pacers 2.22 class: Dallas won; best time 2.14. For the grand special purse, $3,000 between Harry Wilkes and Rosalind Wilkes, the former won; time, 2.17, 2.18.

Exhibition Prizes.

Special prizes have been offered by the proprietor of the American Agriculturist for the best essay on "Hints to farmers in this Province, as to location of dwelling houses and farm buildings," also the best essay on "The best means of inducing the boys to remain on the farm," and also the best essay on "The horses of the Province." Those essays are to be forwarded to Mr. Warburton, the Secretary of the Association, and not to contain over 3,000 words.

The handsome special cash prizes of $15 or silver medals offered by E. W. Taylor, Esq., Jeweler, of this city, for the best design for a new flag for this "Canada of Ours," should move some patriotic genius to invent a design worthy of the object the donor has in view in making such a handsome donation.

Reference to the prize list on page 41 will afford further information in reference to those and other special prizes that will be offered at the P. E. Island Exhibition.

The special notice referring to miscellaneous manufactures, on page 40 of the Prize List, should engage the best attention of our manufacturers, in order that the display in that department of the Exhibition may be as "exhaustive as possible." There will be plenty room in the main building for carriages of all kinds, than which no exhibit can be more attractive.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The City Schools.

SIR,—In Thursday's issue you speak strongly on the inferior status of the City Schools, when compared with the schools in the country districts. As bold assertion is valueless, will you oblige the public by formulating the proofs in support of your statements? Should you do so, it is to be hoped that these proofs will not be of such a character as that presented by the individual who figures in the editorial column of the Patriot of the 4th inst., and for which nonsense the editor of that paper must be held responsible, though he did not write a word of it.

Scott Act vs. License.

SIR,—The foolish attempt of the liquor dealers and their friends in hawking around a petition with a view to the repeal of the Scott Act does not appear to find very much favor or sympathy with the people of Charlottetown. Some of our leading citizens who were trapped into signing it last time cannot be either coaxed or bullied into signing it now.

FAITH.

The Scott Act.

SIR,—In Saturday's paper, I called your attention to a very important subject, the repeal of the Scott Act in this city. There is no desire on the part of the liquor men to have this Act repealed. This being the case, it becomes the duty of all good citizens, outside this formidable body of men, to make some effort to have the Scott Act again submitted to a vote of the people.
