AUSTRALIAN DEFENCE.
At the present moment, when the war clouds hang so heavily on the political horizon, some particulars of the existing system of naval and military defence in Australia may be interesting. New South Wales was garrisoned with British troops from its foundation as a colony, in 1788, until 1870, when they were withdrawn. In the succeeding year, an Act was passed by the Colonial Parliament, having for its object the establishment of a local permanent force. Under the authority of that statute, the regulation and discipline of the regular forces are administered. The military forces of the colony are divided into three classes—permanent troops, part-time troops, and volunteers, the latter consisting of a regiment of Scottish Rifles. The part-time forces were organized in 1854, under an Act of Council, which was repealed in 1867 in favour of a "Volunteer Force Regulation Act," under the provisions of which the forces were re-organized. One of the clauses of the Act provided that the issue of land orders to volunteers complying with certain conditions, but this was repealed in 1878, when the forces were again re-organized. In 1885, an additional force of reserves was attached. These, however, were disbanded at the end of 1892. The permanent troops contain a large proportion of artillery, as do the part-time troops, which are divided into land, mounted, rifles, field artillery, garrison artillery, engineers and infantry. There are a number of civilian rifle clubs, but these are not considered as being in any sense a military force, although the members would probably prove useful as sharpshooters under the direction of regular officers in any case of emergency. Commisaries in the volunteer force are paid for their services by the Government, but the volunteer forces, upon passing the requisite examinations, and complying with certain conditions published from time to time in general orders. There is a naval brigade, formed in 1883, in connection largely of men formerly serving in Her Majesty's ships on the Australian station. The brigade consists of six companies, five of which are stationed at Sydney, and one at Newcastle. The naval artillery branch of the naval forces was organized in 1822 as a volunteer corps, but in 1892 it was brought under the partially paid system. (Gazette of New South Wales, 1892, p. 100.) The naval forces were organized in 1822 as a volunteer corps, but in 1892 it was brought under the partially paid system. (Gazette of New South Wales, 1892, p. 100.)

FOR SALE.
A Farm of Land of excellent quality, containing 214 acres, situated on Baldwin's Road, Lot 51, now in occupation of Peter and Bernard Clark. There are about 140 acres clear and in a good state of cultivation; the remainder is covered with good growth of hardwood, Scantling and Loggers. This farm has exceptionally good facilities for pasture, as there is an abundance of black mud, which is a valuable winter and summer food. It is also well watered, which makes it a desirable farm for dairying purposes. It is within a short distance of New Ferry Dairy Station. It is also convenient to Churchville, schools, railway station and post office. The buildings on the above farm are in good condition. There is also a fine Kill on the premises, with a well of excellent water at the foot. For further particulars apply to the occupants on the farm, or to the owner at Southport, Lot 4. Valuable Farms.
For sale by Public Auction at South Shore, Lot 65.
The undersigned desire to sell their farms at South Shore, consisting of eighty-four acres of land, with buildings thereon formerly owned by Dennis Logan, and also fifty acres with buildings thereon. On the 84 acres there are about 75 acres cleared, of which 16 acres are ploughed and ready for next year's crop. There is a good house and new barn on this place, besides an unfailing well and springs of water. The land is in very good heart. On the 50 acres there is a dwelling house and barn. It is well cleared, and is in a good state of cultivation. A good school an church facilities near by. These properties will be offered for sale by public auction on THURSDAY, the twelfth day of March next, 1896, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon on the premises. The stock and farming implements on these farms will be sold at the same time, at nine months' credit on approved joint notes. Terms for farms will be made known at sale. If the day should prove unfavorable, sale will be held first day following. Sale Postive. MARY DOYLE, JOHN A. DOYLE, A. McNEILL, Auctioneers. South Shore, Lot 65, Feb. 21st, 1896.

your child

You note the difference in children. Some have nearly every ailment, even with the best of care. Others far more exposed pass through unharmed. Weak children will have continuous colds in winter, poor digestion in summer. They are without power to resist disease, they have no reserve strength. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is cod-liver oil partly digested and adapted to the weaker digestions of children.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a terrible condition. I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles, and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

A DEMURRER.
(To "Daisy," in Saturday's EXAMINER.)
From your point of view, dear Daisy,
Life would seem somewhat de trop
For us very merry, lazy
Vagabonds of go-it slow.
Far from me to lose the sweetness
Of your brisk and bustling verse,
Yet I do miss a completeness
In the blisses you release.
In Benedick's small cup of pleasure
They would scarcely make a sip;
But at least the measure,
The prize her ruby lips.
Kitchen condiments you mingle
With the stream divine,
Perhaps you do it for the jing's,
'Praps with more design.
Let it pass; we know the cook-book
Does now, alas, and will continue
To occupy the chief snug nook
Of all the woman that is in you.
I object to putting queries,
But I am fain to ask
One or two ere in my dearies:
Smiles I run to ask.
In what crisis of importance,
What emergency,
Would you excite your war-dance
For that "cup of tea"?
What does of those "tender smiles"
Or soft voice clear as "mangle sap"?
Do you propose, with many wiles,
To give your poor, "tired, weary chap"?
And would you patiently dispense
Some "words of good advice," my honey?
And be pathetic, innocently
Or "droll," or "sometimes funny"?
And would you sing the old, old song?
Or only those quite late and typical?
Then lift me gently with the tongs
And place me where 'tis more than trouper!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.
MORE ABOUT THE RAILWAY.
SIR,—You have not told half the truth in THE EXAMINER about Mr. L. H. Davies' treatment of the railway men. In 1887 he canvassed the shops, and in a boasting way gave the men to understand that he would have a good deal to say in running the road after election day, which was well understood to be a threat that the employees who did not vote for him, might expect dire consequences. After the elections he found himself in the cold water, and he was so angry that he would not work the next time, and he commenced a process of blamishment, and made a motion or two in Parliament for returns to show that the employees on the P. E. I. Railway were indignantly paid. Immediately before the election of 1891 he shed crocodile tears over the treatment of the Island employees, and got all the votes he could on that score. When the elections were over he dropped this course and joined McMullen and others in attacking the Government for the excessive number of men they were employing on the P. E. I. Railway, which resulted in the dismissal of about 300 men on the two roads. The men in the railway know who their friends are. In 1895 when Dr. Jenkins represented us in Parliament the employees of the railway were more satisfactory than ever it was before. We know well that the liberal treatment which the men are now receiving is due entirely to the representatives of the Independent men against Mr. Ferguson because of his determination to keep the Island abreast with the rest of the world he changed our railway and steamboat connections, thereby lengthening the hours of service for some of the men. Events have proved that Mr. Ferguson was foreseeing his projects. The improved connection with the Mainland brought more wealthy strangers to our shore than ever before. The officials have also increased in the advantages by receiving increases in their pay. As railway men, we only want justice. We are ready to do plenty of work and do well, but we want to be reasonably well paid for our work. The following resolution was unanimously carried:
Whereas, The Dominion Government has expended large sums of money for railway construction in the different provinces of the Dominion; and
Whereas, This Province has not received any proportionate share of such expenditure; and
Whereas, For the development of the resources of the Province it is absolutely necessary to have a railway constructed from Southport through Bellport to Murray Harbor, with cross section from New Perth or Cardigan, touching at or near Montague Bridge, and connecting with the Belfast and Murray Harbor line at some point to be decided upon; and
Resolved, That this meeting hail with pleasure the steps already taken by the Government for providing Belfast and Murray Harbor with this much-needed railway communication, and would most respectfully ask our representatives to use their influence in order to have an appropriation made for this purpose by the Dominion Government during the present session of Parliament; also Resolved, That a report of this meeting be made and given to the Island press.
The meeting closed by giving three hearty cheers for the railway and our beloved Queen.

LEPROSY IN ICELAND.
U. S. consul general Ingraham tells the papers that the United States consul at Copenhagen, in making a report to his government on leprosy in Iceland, calls attention to the danger of the disease being carried to the United States by fishing vessels which touch at Iceland during the summer months. The consul also communicates a report made to the Danish ministry for Iceland on the result of an expedition to that island for the purpose of studying leprosy. Dr. Ehlers reports that the total number of patients, or lepers, in Iceland examined or recorded by him in the past two years is 256, described as follows:—Males: Tubercular form, 41; mixed form, 21; anæsthetic form, 29. Females: Tubercular form, 32; mixed form, 12; anæsthetic form, 20. The doctor found lepers who had no idea they were sick because suffering from a milder disease in its anæsthetic form. The people are also having intercourse with the lepers in the most imprudent and careless manner. This is the most serious danger to the island. The leprosy is more than the half-poison bread and fish eaten. The sick are not isolated, sharing the same beds with the healthy. The doctor says: "I was examining a female patient who had running leprosy on the whole face, on the lips and on the throat, and suddenly a healthy woman came in, according to the custom in Iceland, she kissed all the persons present, the clergyman and myself excepted, and also the leprosy patient. The moment raised the people to issue a manifesto urging the people to insist upon the government recalling the troops from Abyssinia."
LONDON, March 6.—A despatch from Rome asserts that King Humbert has declared that he would sooner abdicate the throne of Italy than abandon the Italian province of Eritrea in Africa.
MONTREAL, March 6.—The Italian defeats in Abyssinia have roused the Italians in Montreal, and yesterday they held a meeting at which a committee was appointed to raise funds to help their countrymen who are fighting King Menelik's forces. The meeting was presided over by Commendatore Salembro, Italian consul-general for Canada, and he has been appointed chairman. The money raised will be turned over to the Rome headquarters of the Red Cross Society.
ROME, March 5.—The police made 300 arrests here in a series of rioting in this city.
The most serious disturbances yesterday occurred at Pavia where a mob tore up the railroad tracks, cut the telegraph wires and pulled down the poles and threw them into the river. The rioters were not dispersed until they had been charged by a squadron.
ROME, March 6.—(Milnight)—The report that Premier Crispien had been assassinated is unfounded.
LINA, Peru, March 6.—(via Gaiter ton, Texas)—This city is taking a keen interest in the critical state of affairs in Italy and are subscribing liberally to a fund for the relief of the wounded in the disastrous grievous of Avar and the widows and orphans of those killed.
The projected demonstration at the capital proved to be insignificant. A few speeches were made by Radical leaders, but to only a sparse audience. The police prevented anyone from obtaining entrance to the capital.
LONDON, March 7.—A despatch to the Times from Cairo says the Abyssinians or the Derwishes have cut the wires between the Cassala and Massowah, and it is feared that they have isolated Cassala by occupying the intervening country. The latest advices, which were of Saturday, state that 2,000 Italian had left Asmara to reinforce Cassala, which had already a garrison of 3,000 Italians and natives. It is feared that the Derwishes, who are within rifle shot of Cassala, have intercepted the Italian reinforcements.
"The Adawa defeat must diminish European prestige and strengthen the Mahdist power."
The Times also has a despatch from Rome which says: "The Tribune's Mas-sowah telegrams clear General Baratieri of the charge of disloyalty and prove that his retreat to Addisje was begun three days before the battle of Adowa, but was delayed on account of the reported movements of the Siliacs."
"The troops were short of rations, and went into the action fasting after a night's march. General Baratieri telegraphed on Saturday that the Siliacs' positions were impregnable."
A despatch to the Chronicle from Nice contains an interview with Mr. Gladstone in which he expressed himself deeply grieved over the Italian defeat, and said he feared that if the present adventurous policy were persisted in it may cost Italy the loss of her constitutional unity.

Chase's Ointment Cures All Skin Irritations.
Of the many skin diseases, eczema is one of the worst and most common. The most effective remedy so far discovered for it is Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has never been known to fail. Mr. Andrew Atton, of GRACE ATTON, "My little daughter, Grace Ella, aged three and a half, was a dreadful sufferer from eczema for three years. We tried a number of alleged cures and several doctors, but all without effect. Her body was indeed a bad case. Her little body was entirely covered with rash. One day our local druggist, Mr. Wm. R. Thistle, recommended me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. I did so, and four boxes effected a complete cure and saved our child."
Dr. Chase's Ointment is just as effective for piles, salt rheum and sores of all descriptions. For sale by all Dealers and Edmondson, Bates & Co., manufacturers, Toronto; prices 60 cents.
There is nothing to equal Chase's Linseed and Turpentine for severe colds and lung troubles. Large bottle 25 cents.

The consul also communicates a report made to the Danish ministry for Iceland on the result of an expedition to that island for the purpose of studying leprosy. Dr. Ehlers reports that the total number of patients, or lepers, in Iceland examined or recorded by him in the past two years is 256, described as follows:—Males: Tubercular form, 41; mixed form, 21; anæsthetic form, 29. Females: Tubercular form, 32; mixed form, 12; anæsthetic form, 20. The doctor found lepers who had no idea they were sick because suffering from a milder disease in its anæsthetic form. The people are also having intercourse with the lepers in the most imprudent and careless manner. This is the most serious danger to the island. The leprosy is more than the half-poison bread and fish eaten. The sick are not isolated, sharing the same beds with the healthy. The doctor says: "I was examining a female patient who had running leprosy on the whole face, on the lips and on the throat, and suddenly a healthy woman came in, according to the custom in Iceland, she kissed all the persons present, the clergyman and myself excepted, and also the leprosy patient. The moment raised the people to issue a manifesto urging the people to insist upon the government recalling the troops from Abyssinia."
LONDON, March 6.—A despatch from Rome asserts that King Humbert has declared that he would sooner abdicate the throne of Italy than abandon the Italian province of Eritrea in Africa.
MONTREAL, March 6.—The Italian defeats in Abyssinia have roused the Italians in Montreal, and yesterday they held a meeting at which a committee was appointed to raise funds to help their countrymen who are fighting King Menelik's forces. The meeting was presided over by Commendatore Salembro, Italian consul-general for Canada, and he has been appointed chairman. The money raised will be turned over to the Rome headquarters of the Red Cross Society.
ROME, March 5.—The police made 300 arrests here in a series of rioting in this city.
The most serious disturbances yesterday occurred at Pavia where a mob tore up the railroad tracks, cut the telegraph wires and pulled down the poles and threw them into the river. The rioters were not dispersed until they had been charged by a squadron.
ROME, March 6.—(Milnight)—The report that Premier Crispien had been assassinated is unfounded.
LINA, Peru, March 6.—(via Gaiter ton, Texas)—This city is taking a keen interest in the critical state of affairs in Italy and are subscribing liberally to a fund for the relief of the wounded in the disastrous grievous of Avar and the widows and orphans of those killed.
The projected demonstration at the capital proved to be insignificant. A few speeches were made by Radical leaders, but to only a sparse audience. The police prevented anyone from obtaining entrance to the capital.
LONDON, March 7.—A despatch to the Times from Cairo says the Abyssinians or the Derwishes have cut the wires between the Cassala and Massowah, and it is feared that they have isolated Cassala by occupying the intervening country. The latest advices, which were of Saturday, state that 2,000 Italian had left Asmara to reinforce Cassala, which had already a garrison of 3,000 Italians and natives. It is feared that the Derwishes, who are within rifle shot of Cassala, have intercepted the Italian reinforcements.
"The Adawa defeat must diminish European prestige and strengthen the Mahdist power."
The Times also has a despatch from Rome which says: "The Tribune's Mas-sowah telegrams clear General Baratieri of the charge of disloyalty and prove that his retreat to Addisje was begun three days before the battle of Adowa, but was delayed on account of the reported movements of the Siliacs."
"The troops were short of rations, and went into the action fasting after a night's march. General Baratieri telegraphed on Saturday that the Siliacs' positions were impregnable."
A despatch to the Chronicle from Nice contains an interview with Mr. Gladstone in which he expressed himself deeply grieved over the Italian defeat, and said he feared that if the present adventurous policy were persisted in it may cost Italy the loss of her constitutional unity.
