Ring Reminiscences

fourth and took quite a bit of punishment. Jack liked to make a good showing, especially against a big fellow. He proudly stated he would fight any man in the world, big or small. He used the solar plexus two or three times; I could see it coming but couldn't get back fast enough. I flexed the stomach muscles to receive it and the effect was nil. He may have jarred his hand more than it hurt me.

I made a mental resolution to be in reasonably good condition in any future ring contests, whether "friendly" or otherwise.

When we put on an exhibition ten round bout at Saint John, N. B., the next week, I had two workouts with a good friend—Big Bill Donahoe of the fire department—and two runs of four miles each, and had things all my own way with Jack. The two workouts made a vast difference. One shouldn't go into a ring for a bout longer than one round, unless he is in reasonably good condition. The reasons are too many and too obvious.
